0070. Approve 2025 Incentive System for Personal Financial Advisors "Identified Staff"

The Board proposes the approval of a new incentive plan. The Plan provides for the allocation, to selected Financial Advisors belonging to Identified Staff, of an incentive – in cash and FinecoBank ordinary shares – to be granted in a multi-year period. Individual bonuses will be allocated based on the available bonus pool and the assessment of individual performance. Performance targets have not been fully quantified at this time, which makes an informed assessment impossible and may lead to (partial) payment against (partial) failure.

1. Approve Maximum Remuneration

It is proposed to approve the maximum compensation for Directors, Management and Fiscal Council for next year. It is regrettable that the Company bundled these items, however it is common practice in this market. The amount proposed under this resolution is not the actual remuneration but the global remuneration cap, and includes fixed salaries and short term incentives.

Directors and Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees. For Management, it is proposed to cap remuneration at BRL 50,9 million. Variable remuneration for executives would correspond to up to 335% of the fixed pay, which is deemed excessive. In addition, there is lack of disclosure with respect of targets and measurable criteria for variable remuneration, which prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment. Opposition is recommended.

15. Amend Articles

The proposed Resolution 15 seeks shareholder approval for the adoption of new Articles of Association, replacing the current version last amended in 2018. While most amendments reflect updates in legislation and corporate governance practice-such as clarifying procedures for hybrid meetings, untraced shareholder processes, and general meeting security-one significant and concerning change is the proposed increase in the cap on aggregate non-executive directors' fees from GBP 500,000 to GBP 750,000 (Article 72). This represents a potential 50% rise in fees, which materially exceeds PIRC's policy guideline that permits a maximum increase of 10%. Despite the company stating it has no intention to enact a material fee hike immediately, the elevated cap enables future increases well beyond acceptable thresholds without requiring further shareholder consultation. 9. Re-elect Ian Ashby - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director and Chair of the Sustainability Committee. As the Chair of the Sustainability Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given that the Company's sustainability policies and practice are not considered to be adequate in order to minimize material risks linked to sustainability. Furthermore, based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red, indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company does not have an interim target covering Scope 3. There is a target to reduce Scope 3 emissions by 40% by 2040, but it is considered that an interim target should be set with a target date over the next 5-10 years. As such, it is recommended to oppose the re-election of the chair of the sustainability committee.

Balance: The CEO's total variable pay is not considered excessive at approximately 185.3% of salary for the year under review. The ratio of CEO pay compared to average employee pay is not acceptable at 59:1. PIRC consider adequate a ratio of up to 20:1.

HONG KONG EXCHANGE & CLEARING AGM - 30-04-20252. Elect Peter Brien - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. Mr. Brien has been a member of the SEHK Listing Committee of the Main Board and GEM since 2015, previously holding the position of deputy chair (2017-2020) and chair (2020-2022). While it is noted the committee itself is independent, Mr. Brien's tenure of over nine years raises concerns regarding his independence of the Company as whole. As there is insufficient independent representation on the Board, opposition is recommended.

3. Appoint the Auditors and Allow the Board to Determine their Remuneration

PwC proposed. Non-audit fees represented 5.00% of audit fees during the year under review and 6.90% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than ten years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor.

6. Amend Articles

The Company proposes a bundled revision of the Articles of Association. Bundled resolutions are not considered best practice and it's considered that each amendment should be put separately to the vote. The proposed changes enable treasury share management, electronic corporate communications, virtual or hybrid general meetings, electronic shareholder communications, digital dividend payments, and other housekeeping changes.

Of concern is the amendment allowing virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

BANCO DO BRASIL EGM - 30-04-20252. Amend Article 57

The board seeks to approve amendments to article 57 of the articles of association to i) update item I to authorise D&O insurance for statutory members of governance bodies at companies or entities where the Bank has participation or nomination rights; ii) add item II to allow D&O coverage for non-statutory executives in top management, as approved by the Administration.

It is proposed to extend the insurance cover to the members of the governing bodies of all Group companies. The insurance policy covers the civil liability (and related legal and advisory expenses) of the members of the governing bodies of all Group companies versus third parties, deriving from non-fraudulent conduct in breach of the obligations deriving from the law or intrinsic to their duties. In addition, the insurance does not explicitly exclude that it would cover also liabilities arising from fraudulent conduct, and fines handed down by the supervisory authorities. On this basis, shareholders would pay wilful violations and fraudulent conduct led by directors and executives. Opposition is thus recommended.

12.. Approve Maximum Remuneration

It is proposed to approve the maximum compensation for Directors, Management and Fiscal Council for next year. It is regrettable that the Company bundled these items, however it is common practice in this market. The amount proposed under this resolution is not the actual remuneration but the global remuneration cap, and includes fixed salaries and short term incentives.

Directors and Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees. For Management, it is proposed to cap remuneration at BRL 99,7 million. Variable remuneration for executives would correspond to up to 295% of the fixed pay, which is deemed excessive. In addition, there is lack of disclosure with respect of targets and measurable criteria for variable remuneration, which prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment. Opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

13.. Approve Remuneration of Fiscal Council

The Board is seeking approval for remuneration of the Fiscal Council. Members of the Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees, which is welcomed. The proposed increase is more than 10% on annual basis, which is considered excessive, as the Company has not provided sufficient justification. Opposition is recommended.

7. Approve Remuneration Policy

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy with a binding vote. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the pay-out has the potential to exceed 200% of the fixed remuneration for the highest paid director. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which may lead to overpayment against underperformance. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. Nevertheless, opposition is recommended based on potential excessive variable remuneration and absence of quantified targets.

The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 9.3. Amend Articles Re: Third-party Ownership Voting Rights

The proposed deletion in the amendment would remove an existing restriction on voting rights that applies to nominee shareholders (those holding shares in their own name on behalf of third parties). Currently, if such a nominee holds more than 2% of share capital, those excess shares lose their voting rights. By deleting this clause, all shares held by nominees, regardless of the size of the stake, would retain full voting rights, even if the true beneficial owners are not disclosed.

Removing the 2% limit means all shares, regardless of who holds them or on whose behalf, have equal voting rights. However, without this clause, large stakes can be split across nominee accounts without triggering disclosure or restrictions, making it harder to see who is really influencing company decision. Opposition is therefore recommended.

10. Approve Creation of Eur 117.5 Million Pool of Authorized Capital With or Without Exclusion of Preemptive Rights

The creation of a new Authorised Capital 2025 is proposed, replacing the expiring Authorised Capital 2021. This would allow Munich Re to issue new shares of up to €117.5 million (approximately 20% of current share capital) over a five-year period, without requiring shareholder approval each time. A combined upper limit of 30% applies when considered together with Contingent Capital 2025. Importantly, the proposal includes a cap on excluding shareholder subscription rights, limiting such exclusions to 10% of share capital, thereby balancing flexibility with shareholder protection.

Authority is sought to increase the authorised share capital of the Company up to 20% of current share capital. The increase without pre-emptive rights is capped at 10% of the share capital. This is within recommended limits. However, the authority exceeds 18 months. PIRC guidelines recommend that authority should not exceed 18 months. Shorter timeframes can help maintain management's accountability to shareholders by requiring them to obtain renewed approval on a regular basis. It gives shareholders the opportunity to review the company's financial position, strategy, and rationale in light of evolving circumstances. Therefore, we maintain our position on this resolution.

In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Nominating and Corporate Governance and Audit Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

Furthermore, the chair holds another chair position at a listed company; Mr. Wolf has been the Executive Chair of EHealth, Inc. since September 2021. This raises time commitment concerns, and it is considered that the chair should be able to wholly dedicate their time to the company in times of company crisis. The Chair is not considered independent as the director has close family ties with the Company. Mr. Oñate is related by blood in the first degree to Salvador Oñate Ascencio, and by affinity in the second degree to Gerardo Plascencia Reyes. Additionally, not considered independent as the director is considered to be connected with a significant shareholder: some companies in which Mr. Salvador Oñate Barrón has a capital participation are stakeholders and/or borrowers of the Company. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Finally, in terms of best practice, it is considered that the Chair of the Nomination Committee and a member of the Remuneration and Audit Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members. Regardless of the independent representation on the Board as a whole, opposition is recommended.

5.a. Re-Elect John Witt - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board, member of the Nominating Committee and member of the Remuneration Committee. The Chair is not considered to be independent as he is the Group Managing Director of Jardine Matheson Holdings. Also not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years; the director joined the board of Jardine Matheson Holdings in 2016. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Furthermore, in terms of best practice, it is considered that both the Nominating Committee and the Remuneration Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members.

The chair holds a chair position at two additional listed companies, Hongkong Land and DFI Retail; this arrangement raises time commitment concerns. It is considered that the chair should be able to wholly dedicate their time to the company in times of company crisis. It is considered that there is insufficient time to be able to effectively chair two or more companies at the same time. On balance, opposition is recommended.

6. Appoint the Auditors and Allow the Board to Determine their Remuneration

PwC proposed. Non-audit fees represented 22.22% of audit fees during the year under review and 23.13% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. While the exact date of appointment of the current audit firm is undisclosed, PwC have served as the Company's external auditor since at least 2014 and thus over ten years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor.

7.A. Approve General Share Issue Mandate

The authority is limited to 50% of the share capital on a pro-rata basis and no more than 20% can be issued without pre-emptive rights. The mandate expires at the next Annual General Meeting. However, a limit exceeding 10% of shares issued without pre-emptive rights is deemed unacceptable. An oppose vote is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

7.B. Authorise Share Purchase Mandate

The Share Buyback proposal is conducted at a price greater than a 5% premium to the prevailing market price. We consider this to be an excessive premium that may not represent a prudent use of shareholder capital. Paying significantly above market value for shares can result in an inefficient allocation of resources and may not deliver value to long-term shareholders. In our view, capital would be better deployed elsewhere in the business or returned through more equitable means. Opposition is recommended.

1. Approve Financial Statements

Disclosure is acceptable and the report was made available sufficiently before the meeting. However, The Company has not disclosed the fees paid to the auditors for the year under review, and what non-audit services have been provided, if any. Under Brazilian legislation, companies are not required in their financial statements to disclose the amount paid for the External Audit except where additional services have been engaged and the value of such services exceeds 5% of the total amount paid to the external auditor. Nevertheless, it is considered that companies should go beyond minimum regulatory requirements. In addition, the director is one of the Company's Founding Partners. He also owns a significant percentage of the company's issued share capital through a shareholder agreement. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Oppose vote is therefore recommended.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

10.2. Elect Luis Fernando Memoria Porto - Vice Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Vice Chair and Member of the Remuneration Committee. Not considered independent as the director has a relationship with the Company, which is considered material. The director election is conditioned by the Share Merger Agreement of the Company's Merger with Locação das Américas S.A. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Remuneration Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members. Regardless of the independent representation on the Board as a whole, opposition is recommended.

10.4. Elect Artur Noemio Crynbaum - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director and Member of the Remuneration and Sustainability Committee. Not considered independent as the director has a cross directorship with another director. 10.5. Elect Maria Leticia de Freitas Costa - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Audit Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is noted that the Booz & Company provided strategic consulting services to Localiza, in the last quarter of 2007, when the Director was part of the Company. It is considered that audit committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

10.7. Elect Paulo Antunes Veras - Senior Independent Director

Senior Independent Director and Chair of the Remuneration Committee. It is not considered independent as the director has a cross-directorship with another director. Artur Noemio Crynbaum, Chief Executive Officer of Grupo Boticario. It is considered that a Senior Independent Director should be independent, in order to fulfil the responsibilities assigned to that role, irrespective of the level of independence of the Board. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Remuneration Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

11. In Case Cumulative Voting Is Adopted, Do You Wish to Equally Distribute Your Votes Amongst the Nominees below?

It is proposed to equally distribute votes among candidates in the slate, in case cumulative voting is adopted. Based on the profiles of the candidates and the overall independence of the board, it is considered that not all of the candidates should be supported equally.

Vote Cast: Abstain

12.1. Cumulative Voting: Percentage of Votes to Be Assigned to Eugênio Pacelli Mattar

Even in case cumulative voting were to be adopted, the candidate is considered to be connected with the controlling shareholder of the company. The level of independence on the Board is not considered to be sufficient to offset the power of an executive director who also has connections on the Board. Where there is a controlling shareholder, it would be best practice to have an independent board and independent lead director to offset the power of the controlling shareholder. As the Company does not abide by this practice, it is considered that the proposed candidate should not be supported.

Vote Cast: Abstain

12.2. Cumulative Voting: Percentage of Votes to Be Assigned to Luis Fernando Memória Porto

Even in case cumulative voting were to be adopted, it is considered that the proposed candidate is not considered to be independent and should not be supported.

13. Approve Maximum Remuneration

It is proposed to approve the maximum compensation for Directors, Management and Fiscal Council for next year. It is regrettable that the Company bundled these items, however it is common practice in this market. The amount proposed under this resolution is not the actual remuneration but the global remuneration cap, and includes fixed salaries and short term incentives.

Directors and Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees. For Management, it is proposed to cap remuneration at BRL 118,7 million. Variable remuneration for executives would correspond to up to 801% of the fixed pay, which is deemed excessive. In addition, there is lack of disclosure with respect of targets and measurable criteria for variable remuneration, which prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment. Opposition is recommended.

IX. Authorise Share Repurchase

It is proposed to fix the maximum amount available to directors, for the purpose of buying shares on the market. Although this is technically not an authority to repurchase shares, shareholders in Mexico do not approve individual authorities to repurchase shares. As such, identifying the total amount which can be used for repurchasing shares is considered an indirect authority to buy back shares on the market. These resolutions will not be supported unless the Board has set forth a clear, cogent and compelling case demonstrating how the authority would benefit long-term shareholders. As no clear justification was provided by the Board, an oppose vote is recommended.

5. Submission for discussion and voting of the Remuneration Report for Board of Directors' members for fiscal year 2024

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Approval is sought for directors to serve on the board of other companies engaged in activities within the scope of the company's business. There are concerns over the risks and potential negative impact on shareholders interest connected to directors or other officers of the Company serving for competing companies. In addition, there is insufficient description on how the Company will take measure to monitor the conflicts of interest and prevent any negative effect for the Company and ultimately its shareholders. Therefore, an oppose vote is recommended.

9. Amendment of the terms of the Performance Stock Awards

The Board of Directors proposes that the shareholders approve amendments to the Company's Performance Stock Awards program. This proposal is driven by the Company's outstanding financial performance during the fiscal years 2023 and 2024, as evidenced by the Group's strong financial results, as well as the favourable outlook for the coming years. Under the current program, 66,775 shares were allocated in 2024. The proposed amendment seeks to both increase the number of shares available for distribution and extend the duration of the program by an additional two years, covering the period through 2027 and 2028. Specifically, the proposed change would set the maximum number of shares available for allocation during 2025–2028 at up to 1,200,000 shares, which corresponds to approximately 1.3% of the Company's share capital as of the date of the Ordinary General Meeting's invitation. The shares may be granted under a long-term incentive plan and will be subject to a 24-month retention period. These shares may either be: i) Treasury shares, in accordance with Article 49(3) of Law 4548/2018, or ii) Newly issued shares from the capitalization of retained earnings, distributable reserves, or share premium reserves. Importantly, the nominal value of the allocated shares will not exceed one-tenth of the Company's paid-up share capital at the time of the General Meeting's resolution. While increasing employee share ownership is generally viewed as a sound governance practice-helping to better align the interests of employees and shareholders-it is also noted that executives are included among the beneficiaries. However, the absence of clearly defined performance criteria and conditions for allocation raises governance concerns. Given these considerations, and despite the program's positive aspects, a vote against the proposed amendments is recommended

As neither the Chair of the Sustainability Committee nor the Board Chair is up for re-election, the Chief Executive is considered accountable for the company's sustainability programme. As such, given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

2.. Appoint the Auditors

EY proposed. Non-audit fees represented 6.29% of audit fees during the year under review and 2.18% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than ten years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor.

3. Say on Climate

Governance

The climate policy appears to be adequately linked to the governance of the company overall. The chair is indicated as being responsible for oversight of the climate strategy and members of the senior management have accrued significant experience in climate-related issues within the sector of the company.

There is adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonisation on the board of directors, including at least one non-executive director with significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is no evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board or senior management of climate-related issues, most relevantly decarbonization.

The company has not pledged to review or end membership of trade associations or industry environmental lobbying groups, where these pursue goals or advertise actions contrary to the company's climate strategy, which appears inconsistent with its goals and an obstacle to its effectiveness.

Disclosure

The company has not provided a timeline for implementation of its climate strategy. This raises concern over the effectiveness of measuring and implementing progress on emission reductions and implementation of an effective transition plan.

While the company's targets are in line with a plan to limit global warming to 2.0 degrees, setting targets in line with changes of 1.5 degrees or lower would be considered to be in line with a more resilient scenario.

The company has committed to being carbon neutral by 2050 and includes scopes 1, 2 and 3 emission reductions in this commitment. The company strategy appears to include an actual reduction of carbon emissions rather than having a heavy reliance on offsetting.

PIRC Analysis

The concerns above are reinforced by a seeming inadequate experience or knowledge on decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company, accompanied by lack of relevant training at board level. On balance, it is recommended to oppose.

5A. Elect John Baird - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director and Chair of the Corporate Governance, Nominating and Social Responsibility Committee and member of the Risk and Sustainability Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Corporate Governance, Nominating and Social Responsibility Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

Vote Cast: Oppose

5B. Elect Isabelle Courville - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Ms. Courville is an ex-officio member of all standing Committees and may attend committee meetings at her discretion. The Chair is not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

5G. Elect Janet H. Kennedy - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director and member of the Audit and Finance and Risk and Sustainability Committees. Not considered to be independent, as this director is considered to be in a material connection with the current auditor, EY, where she held the position of Partner from 2018 to 2019. It is considered that the Audit and Finance Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members. Regardless of the independent representation on the Board as a whole, opposition is recommended.

6.. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout is in line with best practice, being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. 7.. Discharge the Board

Standard resolution. At the company, it is not clear whether the whistle-blowing hotline is externally managed. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended.

Furthermore, the director holds an executive position at another public listed company; Ms. Brock has served as the CEO of Aris Water Solutions Inc. since 2021. It is proposed to fix the maximum amount available to directors, for the purpose of buying shares on the market. Although this is technically not an authority to repurchase shares, shareholders in Mexico do not approve individual authorities to repurchase shares. As such, identifying the total amount which can be used for repurchasing shares is considered an indirect authority to buy back shares on the market. These resolutions will not be supported unless the Board has set forth a clear, cogent and compelling case demonstrating how the authority would benefit long-term shareholders. Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Chair of the Nomination Committee. It is considered that the Chair of the Remuneration Committee is responsible for the company's remuneration report, and there are major concerns with the company's remuneration report, however, as there is no Chair of the Remuneration Committee up for election at the upcoming meeting, the Chair of the Board is considered responsible instead. The chair also holds another chair position at a listed company, which raises time commitment concerns. It is considered that the chair should be able to wholly dedicate their time to the company in times of company crisis. The COVID pandemic has shown that there are times when multiple unrelated companies will require the Chair's full attention in order to be able to handle times of crisis. COSAN SA INDUSTRIA E COM AGM - 30-04-2025A1. *Approve Financial Statements

Disclosure is acceptable and the report was made available sufficiently before the meeting. However, The Company has not disclosed the fees paid to the auditors for the year under review, and what non-audit services have been provided, if any. Under Brazilian legislation, companies are not required in their financial statements to disclose the amount paid for the External Audit except where additional services have been engaged and the value of such services exceeds 5% of the total amount paid to the external auditor. Nevertheless, it is considered that companies should go beyond minimum regulatory requirements. Not disclosing the fees paid to the auditors is considered to be a serious breach of shareholder accountability, as it is impossible to assess the existence of potential conflicts of interest that would hinder the independence of the auditor. On this ground, opposition is recommended.

A8A. Elect One as Fiscal Council Member and one as Alternate: João Ricardo Ducatti / Guilherme José de Vasconcelos Cerqueira

It is proposed to appoint members of the Fiscal Council in a bundled election: João Ricardo Ducatti as standing member, Guilherme José de Vasconcelos Cerqueira as secondary member. In terms of good governance, it is considered that all of the candidates to the Fiscal Board should be independent. It is regrettable that the Company has bundled their election instead of seeking support for individual candidates. The candidate João Ricardo Ducatti is Not considered independent as the director was previously employed by the Company as Administrative and Financial Director of the Cosan Group from 1983 to 1991. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

A10. Approve Maximum Remuneration

It is proposed to approve the maximum compensation for Directors, Management and Fiscal Council for next year. It is regrettable that the Company bundled these items, however it is common practice in this market. The amount proposed under this resolution is not the actual remuneration but the global remuneration cap, and includes fixed salaries and short term incentives.

Directors and Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees. For Management, it is proposed to cap remuneration at BRL 90,2 million. Variable remuneration for executives would correspond to up to 1002% of the fixed pay, which is deemed excessive. In addition, there is lack of disclosure with respect of targets and measurable criteria for variable remuneration, which prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment. Opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

E1. Approve Capital Reduction and Amend Article 5

The board seeks to approve reduction of the Company's share capital, up to the amount of accumulated losses, without the cancellation of shares and without the reimbursement of amounts to the Company's shareholders, thereby amending the caput of Article 5 of the Company's Bylaws, based on article 173 da Lei das Sociedades por Ações (Lei nº 6.404/76). However, given the company's accumulated losses and proposed capital reduction to absorb them, we consider it disproportionate and misaligned with the company's best interest to approve variable remuneration exceeding 1000% of the fixed component. This contradicts the principles of reasonableness and fiduciary duty set forth in Articles 152, 153, 154, and 238 of Brazilian Corporate Law (Law No. 6.404/76). Opposition is recommended.

0040. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

Vote Cast: Oppose

0050. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority exceeds the 10% limit of the company's share capital. While the buyback duration may be within acceptable bounds, the higher percentage could significantly impact the company's capital structure. Exceeding the 10% limit goes beyond what is typically considered prudent in the market. Given this, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

0140. Approve All Employee Plan

It is proposed to approve a stock option plan for employees and corporate officers. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. There seem to be no performance criteria besides employment and tenure.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clearly performance criteria and conditions. On balance, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

RTL GROUP AGM - 30-04-20253. *Approve the Dividend

It is proposed to distribute EUR 2.50 per share from reserves, including share premium. The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. Given the duration exceeds the typical 18-month limit, opposition is recommended.

BANCO DO BRASIL AGM - 30-04-20251.1. Elect Selma Cristina Alves Siqueira - Executive Director

Executive Director. Support recommended. Executive Director, considered to be connected with the controlling shareholder. The level of independence on the Board is not considered to be sufficient to offset the power of an Executive director who also has connections on the Board. As the Company does not abide by this practice, opposition is recommended.

8. Approve Financial Statements

Disclosure is acceptable and the report was made available sufficiently before the meeting. However, The Company has not disclosed the fees paid to the auditors for the year under review, and what non-audit services have been provided, if any. Under Brazilian legislation, companies are not required in their financial statements to disclose the amount paid for the External Audit except where additional services have been engaged and the value of such services exceeds 5% of the total amount paid to the external auditor. Nevertheless, it is considered that companies should go beyond minimum regulatory requirements. Not disclosing the fees paid to the auditors is considered to be a serious breach of shareholder accountability, as it is impossible to assess the existence of potential conflicts of interest that would hinder the independence of the auditor. On this ground, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

10. Approve Maximum Remuneration

It is proposed to approve the maximum compensation for Directors, Management and Fiscal Council for next year. It is regrettable that the Company bundled these items, however it is common practice in this market. Directors and Fiscal Council receive only fixed fees. For Management, it is proposed to cap remuneration at BRL 92,6 million. At this time, the variable remuneration for executives has not been disclosed. In addition, there is lack of disclosure with respect of targets and measurable criteria for variable remuneration, which prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment. BACHEM HOLDING AG AGM - 30-04-2025

1.2. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There is no cap on the maximum variable remuneration payable disclosed. Additionally, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

4.2. Approve Remuneration Policy for the Group Executive Board

It is proposed to approve for the Group Executive Board. 1. Receive the Annual Report

The annual report was made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are serious concerns surrounding the sustainability policies and practice at the company and the lack of board level accountability for sustainability issues. Therefore, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks. These concerns should have been addressed in the annual report submitted to shareholders, however the annual report fails to address these concerns. Furthermore, although not required to do so under AIM listing regulations, it is considered best practice for the Remuneration report to be submitted to a shareholder vote. The submission of a policy would be welcome, yet it is considered that shareholders should also have say on the remuneration that is actually paid to executives. As the Company has failed to do this. An oppose vote is recommended for the annual report.

6. Re-elect Andrey Berzins - Senior Independent Director

Senior Independent Director, Chair of the Audit Committee and member of the Nomination and Remuneration Committees. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that a Senior Independent Director should be independent, in order to fulfil the responsibilities assigned to that role, irrespective of the level of independence of the Board. It is considered that audit, nomination and remuneration committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair. At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

EFG EUROBANK ERGASIAS SA AGM - 30-04-2025

2. Approval of the overall management for the financial year 2024 and discharge of the Auditors for the financial year 2024

In this market, auditors discharge may prevent lawsuits or claims for activities carried out during the year relating to facts that have not been disclosed to shareholders. As a consequence, releasing auditors from liability will weaken the governance framework and introduce great risks for investors. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

3. Appointment of Auditors for the financial year 2025

KPMG proposed. Non-audit fees represented 32.14% of audit fees during the year under review and 23.26% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees raises some concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than five years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor. Abstention is recommended.

7. Approvals according to article 86 of L. 4261/2014

Following the recommendation of the Remuneration Committee, the BoD proposes to the AGM to approve, pursuant to the provisions and following the procedure of article 86 of L. 4261/2014, a higher than 100% maximum level of the ratio between the fixed and variable components of remuneration for the following eight (8) executives: i) Chief Executive Officer (CEO): 175% (no variable remuneration changes versus last year), ii) Deputy CEO, Group Chief Operating Officer (COO) &

International Activities: 149% (no variable remuneration changes versus last year), iii) Deputy CEO, Head of Corporate & Investment Banking: 149% (no variable remuneration changes versus last year), iv) Deputy CEO, Head of Retail & Digital Banking: 136% (7% variable remuneration increase versus last year), v) General Manager Group Risk Management, Group Chief Risk Officer (Group CRO): 134% (4% variable remuneration increase versus last year), vi) General Manager Group Finance, Group Chief Financial Officer (Group CFO): 134% (4% variable remuneration increase versus last year), vii) General Manager Group Strategy: 137% (6% variable remuneration increase versus last year) and viii) General Manager Markets: 117% (no variable remuneration changes versus last year).

For the proposed ratios of variable remuneration the responsibilities of the specific executives as well as the variable remuneration paid in the banking sector, but also in businesses of other important sectors of the economy, in Greece and abroad, were taken into consideration. The aforementioned are senior executives with responsibility for the overall course of the Group, inside and outside Greece. The proposed ratios of variable remuneration are also provided as recognition of their strong commitment to the Group's results. In addition, it is noted that although the Group net profit has increased by 27% versus last year, the variable remuneration of the CEO and the two (2) other executive members of the Board of Directors is not changing, so that the increases in the amount of profit distribution (under 6 above) and in total of the variable remuneration to be directed to the remaining executives and employees of the Company.

Although the proposal is based on market regulations and the variable pay is capped below the recommended limit of 200%, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Therefore, an oppose vote is recommended.

IV. Authorise Share Repurchase

It is proposed to fix the maximum amount available to directors, for the purpose of buying shares on the market. Although this is technically not an authority to repurchase shares, shareholders in Mexico do not approve individual authorities to repurchase shares. As such, identifying the total amount which can be used for repurchasing shares is considered an indirect authority to buy back shares on the market. These resolutions will not be supported unless the Board has set forth a clear, cogent and compelling case demonstrating how the authority would benefit long-term shareholders. As no clear justification was provided by the Board, an oppose vote is recommended.

COSAN SA INDUSTRIA E COM EGM - 30-04-20251. Approve Capital Reduction and Amend Article 5

The board seeks to approve reduction of the Company's share capital, up to the amount of accumulated losses, without the cancellation of shares and without the reimbursement of amounts to the Company's shareholders, thereby amending the caput of Article 5 of the Company's Bylaws, based on article 173 da Lei das Sociedades por Ações (Lei nº 6.404/76). However, given the company's accumulated losses and proposed capital reduction to absorb them, we consider it disproportionate and misaligned with the company's best interest to approve variable remuneration exceeding 1000% of the fixed component. This contradicts the principles of reasonableness and fiduciary duty set forth in Articles 152, 153, 154, and 238 of Brazilian Corporate Law (Law No. 6.404/76). Opposition is recommended.

Disclosure: All elements of the Single Total Remuneration Table are adequately disclosed. The increase in CEO salary is in line with the rest Company at 5%. The CEO's salary is in the median of PIRC's comparator group. The highest paid director for the year under review was Simon Peckham, who did not stand for re-election as a Director at last year's AGM, rather than the current CEO Peter Dilnot.

Balance: Variable pay for the Highest Paid Director was 9,169.01% of the fixed salary under the 2020 MESP award, which is deemed incredibly excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. The 2020 MESP award reflects a four-year performance period, with no other long-term incentive received in the previous years of the award, however, even averaging the award over this period, it remains excessive year-on-year. 4. Approve Remuneration Policy

The new Remuneration Policy will primarily increase the maximum annual bonus opportunity to 200% of the salary for the CEO, and provide the Remuneration Committee with more discretion on the Awards, alongside some minor amendments to the wording for clarity. The maximum variable pay available to the CEO is 500% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. Half of the Annual Bonus defers to shares for three years, which is in line with best practise. The performance period for the LTIP is three years, which is considered overly short term, however a two-year holding period applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The inclusion of non-financial metrics on the Annual Bonus is welcomed, however, it would be best practise for these to also apply to the LTIP. Award holders may receive a payment in cash or shares equal in value to any dividends that would have been paid. Such rewards misalign shareholders and executive interests as shareholders must subscribe for shares in order to receive dividends whereas participants in the scheme do not. Malus and Clawback apply to all aspects of the variable pay.

1i.. Elect James Quincey - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

6. Shareholder Resolution: Creation of an Improper Influence Board Committee

Proponent Shareholder: National Center for Public Policy Research

Proponent's argument: The proponent calls for the creation of a board-level "Improper Influence Committee" to assess whether non-pecuniary policy preferences-such as those related to ESG, DEI, and corporate social responsibility-have improperly influenced Coca-Cola's decision-making. The proposal suggests that such influence, whether from directors, executives, or asset managers, undermines shareholder value. It claims that Coca-Cola's sustainability and inclusion strategies align with partisan ideologies and could expose the company to reputational and financial harm, as allegedly seen in public backlashes against other brands. The proponent questions the rationale behind Coca-Cola's climate goals, DEI commitments, and top score on the Human Rights Campaign's Corporate Equality Index, arguing these initiatives lack clear financial justification. They argue that establishing the proposed committee and issuing a public report would enhance board oversight and ensure corporate decisions remain focused on long-term shareholder value rather than activist-driven agendas.

Company's response: Coca-Cola's Board opposes the proposal, asserting that it is unnecessary and misaligned with sound governance principles. The Board states that its current committee structure already provides effective oversight of corporate strategy and risk. Committees are formed based on strategic priorities and material risks, not in response to isolated stakeholder concerns. The company rejects the characterisation of its ESG and DEI efforts as "value destroying," emphasising that such initiatives are integrated into its broader business strategy to promote sustainable growth and stakeholder engagement. The Board also questions the practicality and purpose of forming a committee to examine "improper influence," given the vague and subjective nature of the proposal. It concludes that the measure would not contribute meaningful oversight or shareholder value and recommends a vote against the proposal.

PIRC Recommendation: The proposal presents a politicised and ideologically motivated critique of ESG and DEI practices, rather than a serious governance concern. Coca-Cola's board and committee structure already allows for robust oversight of corporate strategy and risk. There is no credible evidence that the company's decision-making has been improperly influenced in a way that compromises shareholder value. Moreover, creating a dedicated committee based on a loosely defined concept of "improper influence" would divert resources and serve no clear governance benefit. The proposal risks undermining board independence and company discretion in strategic planning. Opposition is recommended.

7. Shareholder Resolution: Removing DEI Goals in Executive Pay

Proponent Shareholder: National Legal and Policy Center

Proponent's argument: The proponent requests that Coca-Cola's Talent and Compensation Committee revisit its executive incentive pay guidelines, specifically to consider removing diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) goals. The proposal frames DEI-linked pay metrics as potentially unlawful and high risk following the 2023 US Supreme Court ruling on affirmative action, asserting that DEI programmes expose companies to legal, reputational, and financial liabilities. It highlights rising litigation against corporate DEI practices and claims that incentive structures tied to DEI objectives could violate employment laws or breach fiduciary duties. Coca-Cola's current pay policies include DEI-linked performance measures, such as aligning its workforce with U.S. Census demographics by 2030 and aiming for gender parity in leadership. The proponent argues these targets are discriminatory and should be reconsidered, citing broader backlash against DEI in corporate America and recent legal rulings involving other companies. The resolution seeks only that the board "revisit" and "consider" adjustments, positioning it as a measured, compliance-focused step.

Company's response: Coca-Cola opposes the proposal, stating it is unnecessary and redundant. The Board affirms that its Talent and Compensation Committee already annually reviews and evaluates all components of executive pay, including both financial and non-financial performance measures. This includes regular assessments of DEI-related incentives, conducted with input from independent advisors. The Committee reviewed these factors most recently in February 2025 and determined to continue including DEI goals as part of long- and short-term incentive structures. Coca-Cola's compensation design aims to align executive rewards with long-term value creation and cultural objectives, including sustainability and inclusion. The Board views these DEI-related measures as non-quota-based and fully within its strategic discretion. It argues that the proposal requests no action beyond what is already routine practice and therefore has effectively been implemented. As such, it recommends shareholders vote against the resolution.

PIRC Recommendation: It is rooted in ideological opposition to DEI principles and does not present a credible governance concern. The inclusion of DEI metrics in executive compensation is a recognised practice that reflects long-term value considerations, stakeholder priorities, and cultural alignment. Coca-Cola's DEI targets are aspirational and reviewed annually by its Compensation Committee, which retains full discretion over incentive design. The proposal mischaracterises these efforts as unlawful or financially irresponsible without evidentiary support. Eliminating or revisiting DEI goals on ideological grounds would undermine the company's strategic commitments and responsiveness to evolving workforce and consumer expectations. Opposition is recommended.

9. Shareholder Resolution: Civil Liberties in Advertising Services

Proponent Shareholder: Bowyer Research, Inc., on behalf of a shareowner

Proponent's argument: The proponent requests that Coca-Cola publish a report evaluating how it manages risks related to alleged discrimination in advertising practices based on political or religious viewpoints. The proposal centres on Coca-Cola's past association with the Global Alliance for Responsible Media (GARM), which the proponent claims enabled censorship by promoting brand safety standards that excluded certain political or religious content. It argues that Coca-Cola's involvement in such industry collaborations may have contributed to advertising restrictions against conservative media outlets, podcasts, or online platforms, thus creating reputational and legal risks under antitrust and anti-discrimination law. The proposal cites concerns about vague definitions of "disinformation" and "hate speech" used to demonetise content, and highlights GARM's disbanding in 2024 amid public pressure and a lawsuit. The resolution claims that Coca-Cola's credibility, legal exposure, and stakeholder trust may suffer without transparency around how it chooses advertising platforms or manages viewpoint neutrality.

Company's response: Coca-Cola's Board recommends voting against the proposal, stating that it rejects the premise on which the resolution is based. The company affirms that advertising platform choices are guided by business objectives, not dictated by external organisations such as GARM. Coca-Cola emphasises that it adheres to globally recognised responsible marketing frameworks and independently determines its advertising strategy, taking into account factors such as budget, brand safety, and effectiveness. The company denies engaging in discriminatory or politically motivated ad-buying practices and asserts that decisions about advertising placement are a core operational function, not appropriate for shareholder micromanagement. It argues that the requested report would serve no useful purpose and would divert resources from core strategic priorities.

PIRC Recommendation: The proposal is ideologically driven and misrepresents industry-standard brand safety practices as discriminatory censorship. Coca-Cola's responsible marketing aligns with global frameworks that seek to prevent harm, disinformation, and hate speech, which are consistent with ESG-aligned governance. The proposal undermines these principles by framing content moderation and advertising discretion as violations of civil liberties. Furthermore, there is no credible evidence that Coca-Cola discriminates in its advertising activities on the basis of political or religious views. The company's decisions in this area are commercial in nature and subject to existing oversight. Producing a report based on politically motivated claims would not enhance governance or shareholder value. Opposition is recommended.

1c.. Elect Kirkland H. Donald - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair.

The Chair is not considered to be independent as the director was previously employed by the Company as a Business Consultant. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. 4. Amend Certificate of Incorporation

It is proposed that the Restated Certificate of Incorporation of Juniper, is amended, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation]. The Board seeks authority to amend the articles, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. Article VII of the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (Certificate) currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonize corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives, may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are however more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuading shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

19. To approve Rio Tinto Group's 2025 Climate Action Plan, as set out in pages 41-75 of the 2024 Annual Report

Governance

The report does not list the chair as responsible for the climate strategy. Company management and the sustainability committee hold collective responsibility, which is considered insufficiently focussed for effective execution of policy and for overall accountability.

There is adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonisation on the board of directors, including at least one non-executive director with significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board and senior management of climate-related issues.

The company has not pledged to review or end membership of trade associations or industry environmental lobbying groups, where these pursue goals or advertise actions contrary to the company's climate strategy, which appears inconsistent with its goals and an obstacle to its effectiveness.

Disclosure

The company climate strategy for the overall required energy transition includes a defined timeline, by which progress in emission reductions can be measured.

The company's targets are in line with a plan to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees when compared to pre-industrial levels. This is considered to be best practice, and represents one of the more resilient scenarios.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red, indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. 21. Shareholder Resolution: Authorize the Company to conduct an independent, comprehensive and transparent review on whether Rio Tinto's dual listed structure should be unified into a single Australian domiciled holding company.

Proponent's argument: The shareholders proposing Resolution 21 seek a review of Rio Tinto's existing dual-listed company (DLC) structure. Their position, as outlined in Appendix 1 of the company's notice, highlights concerns regarding potential value destruction attributed to the current structure. They argue that the DLC framework has led to an estimated loss of US$50 billion in shareholder value. Their reasoning is based on two primary assertions: 1) Inability to issue stock for M&A: The proponent claims that the DLC structure has limited Rio Tinto's ability to effectively issue shares for strategic mergers and acquisitions (M&A), allegedly leading to a lost opportunity of US$35.6 billion in value; and 2) Franking credit inefficiencies: They assert that the DLC framework prevents optimal utilization of franking credits, estimating an additional US$14.7 billion in potential value that could have been unlocked under a unified structure. The proponents advocate for an independent expert review, with findings made publicly available, to determine whether the DLC structure remains beneficial to Rio Tinto shareholders.

Company's response: The Board of Rio Tinto strongly opposes Resolution 21, unanimously recommending a vote against the proposal. Their opposition is based on findings from a 2024 comprehensive review of the DLC structure, which included detailed input from external financial (Goldman Sachs, J.P. Morgan) and legal (Linklaters LLP, Allens) advisors, alongside tax analysis from EY. Key conclusions from the review include: 1) Effectiveness of the DLC Structure: The current structure supports liquidity, index inclusion, and capital flexibility, offering shareholders a strong platform for returns. Rio Tinto plc is among the top five dividend payers in the FTSE-100; 2) Franking Credit Utilization: Unification would reduce Rio Tinto's ability to pay fully franked dividends in the long term, leading to inefficiencies for shareholders; and 3) Unification Would Be Value Destructive: The Board estimates that moving to a single structure would incur tax costs in the mid-single-digit billions of US dollars, significantly reducing net asset value per share. Furthermore, the Board firmly rejects the proponent's claim of a US$50 billion value destruction, arguing that the calculations are flawed, selective, and misleading. They emphasize that factors such as counterparty willingness and Rio Tinto's capital allocation strategy were not adequately considered in the proponent's assessment.

Recommendation: The shareholder proposal does not provide clear evidence that unification would result in a net benefit for investors. The 2024 review already assessed the DLC structure extensively, and the company has presented compelling reasons why it remains advantageous. Furthermore, removing the UK listing without guarantees that Rio Tinto would maintain equivalent governance and transparency standards introduces significant risks for shareholders. This could weaken oversight, reduce investor protections, and impact market confidence. Given these factors, opposition is recommended.

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 1.4. Elect Mark J. Costa - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

The Board is seeking approval to issue up to an additional 5% of the Company's issued share capital for cash for use only in connection with an acquisition or a specified capital investment. Such proposal is not supported as it is considered that the 5% limit sought under the general authority above is sufficient. Best practice

15. Shareholder Proposal: Elect Philip Hobbs, a Shareholder Nominee, as a Director

Proponent's argument: Resolution 15 is a shareholder proposal submitted by Ms. Valerie McCabe on 2 March 2025, seeking the appointment of Mr. Philip John Hobbs as a Director at the upcoming AGM. The company has not disclosed a formal supporting statement or justification from Ms. McCabe within the notice. The only statement related to the shareholder proposal is: "On 2 March 2025, the Company received notice from a Shareholder, Ms. Valerie McCabe of her intention to propose a resolution for the appointment of Mr. Philip John Hobbs as a Director at this AGM."

Company's response: The board recommended a vote against this proposal. The board argues the following: "The Board has not been given sufficient time or information to evaluate Mr Hobbs by reference to the criteria set out above. In any event, the Board is satisfied that the existing non-executive Directors, each of whom is proposed for re-election at the AGM, have the relevant mix of skills, competence and capability required under the applicable regulatory requirements. Accordingly, the Board has concluded that the appointment of Mr Hobbs as a Director is not in the best interests of the Company or its Shareholders. The Board further notes, that even if approved by Shareholders, the appointment of Mr Hobbs would remain subject to, and could only become effective after, receipt of all required regulatory approvals and consultation with the Minister. There can be no certainty that any such approvals would be received."

PIRC Recommendation: The Board has outlined a comprehensive, formalised process for director appointments, involving skills-based assessment, regulatory review, and ministerial consultation. It has stated that it lacked sufficient time and information to properly evaluate Mr. Hobbs and has confidence in the current composition of the Board. Given the absence of a proponent's supporting statement and the lack of biographical information for such an appointment, the proposal does not meet the necessary threshold for support at this time.

12. Removal of Discretionary Share Plan 5% Dilution Limit

The proposed removal of the 5% discretionary share plan dilution limit is concerning, especially given that discretionary share awards, often granted to directors and senior executives, are already contentious due to their potential to enable excessive, poorly justified remuneration. By abolishing this specific cap, the company removes a vital check on the volume of equity that can be allocated to top management, heightening the risk of misuse. While the overarching 10% limit technically remains, its broad scope dilutes the effectiveness of any meaningful constraints on executive rewards. This move shifts the balance of power further away from shareholders, reducing transparency and eroding accountability in how equity incentives are distributed.

Balance: The CEO's total variable pay for the year under review amounted to 319.42% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. The CEO's pay ratio is also deemed excessive at 58:1, with the maximum recommended limit being 20:1.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

Changes to the Remuneration Policy in the year under review include: up to 20% of salary will be payable for threshold performance. Under the current policy, the payout at threshold is 20% of salary. The circumstances for which clawback and malus may be applied have been expanded to include corporate failure and serious reputational damage to align with the updated UK Corporate Governance Code. The policy maximum under the PSP will be increased to 300% of salary. For FY25, the PSP opportunity for the CEO will be increased to 285% of salary from 270% of salary and for the CFO will be increased to 235% of salary from 220% of salary. In line with the rules of the PSP, a payment equivalent to the dividends accrued on vesting performance shares may be made at the point of vesting, normally in shares. Up to 15% of maximum will be payable for achieving threshold performance. Under the current policy, the payout at threshold is 15% of maximum. The malus and clawback provisions will be updated to align with the changes set out under the annual bonus. The shareholding requirement for the Executive Directors will be increased under the new policy from 200% to 300% of salary. Total potential variable pay for the CEO can reach 500% of the salary in certain circumstances, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. 30% of the Annual Bonus award defers to shares for a period of two years. It would be best practise for at least half of the award to vest into shares for this period. The performance period for the PSP is three-years, which is deemed overly short-term, however, an additional holding period of two-years applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The inclusion of non-financial performance metrics for the PSP is also welcomed. Malus and clawback provisions apply to all aspects of the variable pay.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 2. Approve Remuneration Policy

It is proposed to the shareholders to approve the Remuneration Policy of the Company. The LTIP scheme use of non-financial performance metrics as a means of assessing individual performance. The use of non-financial conditions enables the policy to focus on the operational performance of the business as a whole as well as the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Maximum potential awards for both the Annual Bonus and LTIP are clearly stated. Vesting scales are considered to be sufficiently broad and geared towards better performance. Total potential awards capable of vesting under the policy exceed the recommended threshold of 200% of the highest paid Director's base salary. Directors are required to build a holding equivalent to at least 200% of salary, over a period of no more than five years. It is considered that a shareholding policy aligns the interests of the Executive to that of the shareholder. The Annual Bonus is deferred. Claw-back provisions are attached to the annual bonus. The deferral period attached to the Annual Bonus is in line with best practice as half of the bonus is deferred in shares over at least two years. The performance period for the LTIP is less than five years and is therefore not considered sufficiently long-term. Claw-back provisions are in place over long-term incentive plans. However, recipients of the award are required to hold their vested shares for at least a further two years, which is welcomed. Rating: ADC. Based on the Rating an oppose vote is recommended.

The board seeks approval of the amendment and restatement of the 2010 Incentive Award Plan which (i) increases the shares of common stock reserved for issuance under the Amended 2010 Plan, as previously amended and restated effective March 6, 2024 (the "2010 Plan"), by 5,000,000 shares from 115,350,000 shares, thereby increasing the total number of shares reserved for issuance to 120,350,000, (ii) extends the term of the Amended 2010 Plan to January 30, 2035 (the tenth anniversary of the effective date of the Amended 2010 Plan), and (iii) specifies the treatment of awards in connection with a change in control.

Under the plan, the CEO and other executives will be awarded options or rights to receive shares, which will start vesting after one year from the date of award. At this time, it seems that this plan will not be based on any performance criteria but only on the beneficiaries continued employment. As a result, they may receive bonuses unrelated to their performance or even the performance of the Company as a whole, which is considered a serious frustration of shareholder accountability. DRAX GROUP PLC AGM - 01-05-2025

1. Receive the Annual Report

The annual report was made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are concerns surrounding the sustainability policies and practice at the company. Therefore, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks. These concerns should have been addressed in the annual report submitted to shareholders, however the annual report fails to address these concerns adequately and therefore this resolution cannot be supported.

Balance: The variable pay for the year under review was excessive at 301.6% of the salary (Annual Bonus: 121.6%, LTIP: 180%). The ratio of CEO pay compared to average employee pay is not acceptable at 29:1. PIRC consider a ratio of 20:1 as appropriate.

5. Re-elect Andrea Bertone - Chair (Non Executive)

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board. As the Company do not have a Board level Sustainability Committee, the Chair of the Board is considered accountable for the Company's sustainability programme. As the Company's sustainability policies and practice are not considered adequate to minimise the material risks linked to sustainability.

During the reporting year, Ofgem concluded a major investigation into Drax's compliance with the Renewables Obligation scheme. The investigation revealed significant shortcomings in Drax's data governance and reporting accuracy. Of particular concern was the misreporting of data regarding the types of forestry products and the proportion of sawlogs sourced from its Canadian operations-issues that were also highlighted in the 2022 BBC Panorama investigation. As a major player in the biomass energy sector, Drax's inaccuracies have had a considerable impact on Ofgem's ability to assess the sustainability and environmental footprint of biomass energy. In response, Drax has agreed to pay £25 million into Ofgem's Voluntary Redress Fund and will commission an independent external audit of profiling data from its Canadian and other international supply chains. These issues reflect a failure of oversight that should have been addressed at the board level. The Chair of the Board, as the company's highest-ranking officer, holds ultimate responsibility for ensuring robust governance structures. It is incumbent upon the Chair to implement effective strategies and ensure their execution to uphold the company's reporting standards at the required level. An oppose vote is recommended

06. To receive and consider the Remuneration Committee's report on directors' remuneration that is set out in the Annual Report for the year ended 31 December 2024

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout in 2024 is in line with best practice by being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Furthermore, there is potential for the total variable remuneration to exceed 200% of base salary in 2025 due to the caps placed on the Annual bonus and the LTIP. Opposition is recommended.

11. Purchase of own shares

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital and cannot exceed 18 months. This ensures the buyback remains within a reasonable scope. The time frame and percentage limit align with standard best practices and provide a clear structure for shareholder benefit.

However, the Share Buyback proposal is conducted at a price greater than a 5% premium to the prevailing market price. We consider this to be an excessive premium that may not represent a prudent use of shareholder capital. Paying significantly above market value for shares can result in an inefficient allocation of resources and may not deliver value to long-term shareholders. In our view, capital would be better deployed elsewhere in the business or returned through more equitable means. Opposition is recommended.

1b.. Elect Stephanie A. Burns - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee and member of the Compensation and Talent Management Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Nominating and Corporate Governance and Compensation and Talent Management Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. It is proposed to amend the Occidental Petroleum Corporation 2015 Long-Term Incentive Plan. The Amended LTIP would increase the number of shares of Occidental's common stock that may be issued under the LTIP by 55,000,000 shares, extend the term for an additional ten years, and make administrative and technical updates.

There are concerns with the Plan as it has various elements bundled together, and although parts of it can benefit the majority of employees, it can still be used as a vehicle for potentially excessive executive payments. As performance conditions may be attached to awards at the Compensation Committee's discretion, there are concerns that the Committee will have considerable flexibility in the payout of discretionary awards and as a result awards may not be subject to robust enough performance targets, and be insufficiently challenging. In addition, maximum award limits are excessive. As a result, opposition is recommended.

9. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration report. The payout is in line with best practice, being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. 13. Amend Articles: Virtual Annual General Meetings until 2027

It is proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Also, in terms of best practice, it is considered that the Corporate Governance & Ethics and Audit & Finance Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair. 5.. Amend Articles: Limit Liability of Officers as Permitted by Law

It is proposed that the Restated Certificate of Incorporation of Leidos Holdings Inc, is amended, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation]. The Board seeks authority to amend the articles, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. Article VII of the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (Certificate) currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonize corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives, may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are however more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

04. Say on Climate

The board is seeking approval of the company's climate action plan.

Governance

The climate policy appears to be adequately linked to the governance of the company overall. The chair is indicated as being responsible for oversight of the climate strategy and members of the senior management have accrued significant experience in climate-related issues within the sector of the company.

There is adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonisation on the board of directors, including at least one non-executive director with significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board and senior management of climate-related issues.

The company has not pledged to review or end membership of trade associations or industry environmental lobbying groups, where these pursue goals or advertise actions contrary to the company's climate strategy, which appears inconsistent with its goals and an obstacle to its effectiveness.

Disclosure

The company climate strategy for the overall required energy transition includes a defined timeline, by which progress in emission reductions can be measured.

The company's targets are in line with a plan to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees when compared to pre-industrial levels. This is considered to be best practice, and represents one of the more resilient scenarios.

The company has committed to being carbon neutral by 2050 and includes scopes 1, 2 and 3 emission reductions in this commitment. The company strategy appears to include an actual reduction of carbon emissions rather than having a heavy reliance on offsetting.

On balance, opposition is recommended.

8. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

BERKSHIRE HATHAWAY INC. AGM - 03-05-2025

2.. Shareholder Resolution: Report on Environmental Activities

Proponent Shareholder: National Legal and Policy Center

Proponent's argument: The National Legal and Policy Center requests that Berkshire Hathaway Inc. begin publishing an annual report from 2025 detailing the costs and measurable benefits of Berkshire Hathaway Energy's (BHE) voluntary environmental initiatives specifically those that exceed legal requirements. The proponent argues that shareholders lack transparency regarding the actual impact of BHE's climate related activities, which aim to reach net-zero emissions by 2050. Although BHE invests significantly in renewable energy and non-carbon assets, much of this activity is voluntary and driven by frameworks like the Paris Agreement and the IPCC, which the proponent views as lacking scientific legitimacy. The proposal questions the real world impact of such initiatives on global climate trends, particularly in the context of rising emissions worldwide and the construction of new coal plants in countries like China. The proponent asserts that existing Berkshire reporting fails to clarify whether these green initiatives result in concrete benefits for shareholders, public health, or the environment. It suggests current disclosures may constitute "greenwashing" and urges the company to quantify and justify the value of its voluntary environmental spending.

Company's Response : The Board unanimously recommends voting against the proposal, asserting that the requested report is neither necessary nor in shareholders' best interests. It argues that BHE already provides comprehensive reporting on its environmental and financial performance, including emissions disclosures and regular filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Additionally, BHE's regulated utility subsidiaries are overseen by state public utility commissions, which assess the prudence of investments and ensure affordability and reliability of service. For example, MidAmerican Energy's electricity rates are substantially below the national average. The Board contends that current disclosures are sufficient for shareholder and regulatory scrutiny, and that the additional reporting would be redundant and of limited value. It views the proposal's critique of BHE's emissions and renewable energy strategy as unfounded, given the regulatory context and already extensive transparency.

PIRC analysis: The proposal appears to function as a spoiler resolution designed to cast doubt on Berkshire Hathaway Energy's voluntary climate related investments and undermine future shareholder efforts to strengthen the company's climate alignment and transparency. While framed as a call for cost-benefit clarity, the resolution implicitly questions the scientific basis and legitimacy of global decarbonisation frameworks such as the Paris Agreement and the IPCC, and characterises voluntary environmental initiatives as unnecessary and ideologically driven. Rather than promoting transparency around climate related financial risk and opportunity, the resolution seeks to delegitimise the company's stated net-zero ambition and potentially disincentivise further climate action. It reframes decarbonisation as a politically motivated burden rather than a strategic and reputational imperative, and offers no constructive alternative for assessing long-term environmental or shareholder value. As such, the resolution risks discouraging climate leadership while failing to ensure the accountability or oversight it claims to seek. Opposition is recommended.

4.. Shareholder Resolution: Civil Rights and Non-Discrimination Report

Proponent Shareholder: American Conservative Values ETF

Proponent's argument: The proponent requests that Berkshire Hathaway conduct and publish a civil rights and non-discrimination report within the next year. The report should evaluate how the company's policies and practices impact employees and prospective employees across various identity factors including race, religion (including beliefs), sex, national origin, and political views. The proponent argues that while diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) initiatives are often framed positively, they can suppress viewpoint diversity and lead to partiality and ideological conformity. Citing the 2024 Viewpoint Diversity Score Business Index, the proposal accuses Berkshire of promoting divisive concepts like unconscious bias and critical race theory. It references polling showing that employees fear expressing religious or political views in the workplace or online. The resolution also highlights legal and reputational risks following recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions and legal challenges to race-based DEI practices. The proponent suggests that DEI efforts may no longer be legally or socially tenable and that Berkshire must evaluate its risk exposure and clarify its position. The aim is to ensure that freedom of expression and viewpoint diversity are respected across the company, in alignment with American constitutional and market principles.

Company's Response: The Board of Directors recommends a vote against this proposal, asserting that Berkshire Hathaway already complies with all applicable laws related to non-discrimination and civil rights. The company notes that its Code of Business Conduct and Ethics governs the ethical and legal standards of its directors, officers, and employees, and provides channels for reporting any violations. The Board disputes the claim that the company maintains a resource library promoting concepts such as unconscious bias or social injustice, as alleged by the proponent. Berkshire asserts that it operates on a foundational principle: follow the law and do the right thing. The Audit Committee is tasked with monitoring the company's risk exposures, including social risks. Given this existing framework, the Board considers the proposed evaluation and civil rights report unnecessary, both in substance and cost. It does not view the exercise as providing material value to shareholders and believes the proposal misrepresents the company's actual practices.

PIRC analysis: The potential benefits of workplace diversity lie in broadening the perspectives that inform decision making, fostering inclusive and innovative work environments, and strengthening a company's ability to serve diverse customer bases, supply chains, and communities. Transparency around employee demographics and inclusive practices enables shareholders to assess how well a company is positioning itself to attract, retain, and engage talent in a competitive global environment. While civil rights and non-discrimination reporting can support these aims when framed constructively, this proposal appears to originate from a politically motivated source with the intent of undermining broader diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) efforts. The resolution emphasizes ideological and political viewpoint discrimination in a manner that misrepresents DEI as inherently exclusionary, and focuses narrowly on speculative short-term risks legal, reputational, and financial while disregarding the long-term value creation that inclusive practices can support. It positions itself as a corrective to "divisive" DEI policies but instead risks chilling legitimate corporate diversity initiatives. The proposal's ideological framing and selective risk assessment suggest that it is a spoiler resolution, aimed more at pushing a specific political agenda than enhancing shareholder value or corporate governance. Opposition is recommended.

5.. Shareholder Resolution: Racial Discrimination Audit

Proponent Shareholder: National Center for Public Policy Research

Proponent's argument: The proponent requests that Berkshire Hathaway's Board of Directors oversee an independent racial discrimination audit to evaluate legal and reputational risks stemming from subsidiaries' race-based programs. Citing recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions-including Students for Fair Admissions v. Harvard and Muldrow v. City of St. Louis-the resolution argues that corporate DEI initiatives may now fall afoul of updated legal interpretations concerning race-based employment and supplier diversity practices. It raises concerns about subsidiaries such as GEICO, Shaw Industries, and Fruit of the Loom, which it claims operate employee resource groups and supplier diversity programs that categorise individuals by race. The resolution suggests these practices could expose the company to lawsuits and reputational harm, especially in light of growing public and legal scrutiny of DEI. It references specific lawsuits and legal actions, warning that litigation or policy shifts could result in billions of dollars in potential liabilities. Furthermore, the proposal highlights the retreat of major corporations from DEI commitments as evidence of emerging financial and legal risk. The resolution concludes that Berkshire must proactively assess its exposure to these risks through an independent audit and public disclosure.

Company's Response: The Board of Directors recommends a vote against the proposal, stating that Berkshire Hathaway already maintains rigorous compliance protocols with all applicable laws, including those related to non-discrimination. The company emphasises that it delegates policy-making authority to its subsidiaries, allowing them to tailor their approaches to the unique demands of their respective businesses. Berkshire's Audit Committee oversees the processes by which senior management evaluates and manages risk-including social and legal risks. The Board disputes the need for a separate, independent racial discrimination audit, especially one targeting specific DEI efforts at its subsidiaries. It asserts that Berkshire's long-standing decentralised model and existing ethical frameworks-such as the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics-ensure legal compliance and accountability. Given these mechanisms, the Board concludes that the requested audit would not add shareholder value and may impose unnecessary costs or create reputational risk based on misleading premises. Accordingly, shareholders are advised to vote against the proposal.

PIRC analysis: Transparent and thorough disclosure on workplace diversity practices and racial equity initiatives is essential for enabling shareholders to evaluate a company's ability to foster an inclusive workplace, attract diverse talent, and mitigate reputational and legal risks associated with discrimination. Numerous studies have highlighted how systemic barriers based on race continue to affect access to economic opportunity, workplace advancement, and representation across sectors. While the proposal frames itself as a legal risk assessment, it reflects a politically motivated attempt to challenge established DEI efforts and undermine progress on racial inclusion. It adopts an adversarial tone, relying on selectively presented legal cases and cultural commentary to argue that DEI is an inherently discriminatory view that contradicts evolving norms in corporate governance and responsible business conduct. Berkshire Hathaway's decentralised model allows subsidiaries to respond to the needs of their specific workforces, and oversight mechanisms already exist to manage legal compliance and ethical standards. This resolution appears designed not to enhance accountability but to deter ongoing efforts toward racial equity within subsidiaries. Opposition is recommended.

UBER TECHNOLOGIES INC AGM - 05-05-2025

1a.. Re-elect Ronald Sugar - Chair (Non Executive)

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee. At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the Chair of Nominating and Governance Committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Additionally, the Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and there are concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nominating and Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

4.. Amend 2016 Omnibus Incentive Compensation Plan

It is proposed to extend the Original 2016 Plan, which is set to expire in 2026, and introduce several key amendments. These include an increase of 2,000,000 shares for a total of 3,079,000 shares available for issuance, and raising the maximum number of shares for incentive stock options to 2,000,000. The plan's term will be extended to May 6, 2035. The fungible share ratio will be reduced from 2.5:1 to 2.0:1, and the annual individual award limits will remain at 500,000 shares for equity awards and USD 7,500,000 for cash-based awards. Additionally, the non-employee director compensation limit will be set at USD 800,000.

There are concerns with the Plan as the it has various elements bundled together, and although parts of it can benefit the majority of employees, it can still be used as a vehicle for potentially excessive executive payments. As performance conditions may be attached to awards at the Compensation Committee's discretion, there are concerns that the Committee will have considerable flexibility in the payout of discretionary awards and as a result awards may not be subject to robust enough performance targets, and be insufficiently challenging. In addition, maximum award limits are excessive. As a result, opposition is recommended.

9. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the remuneration paid or due to the CEO with a binding vote. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. Most of the performance targets for the 2025 LTI plan, particularly ROCE and TSR, are clearly disclosed and quantified. However, the ESG target (15%) linked to CO2 emissions is only partially measurable, as adjustments to the 2024 baseline and a lack of defined thresholds make it difficult to assess achievement. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

17. Authorize Board to Increase Capital in the Event of Additional Demand

In addition to the share issuance authorities already sought, the Board is requesting shareholder approval for a further capital increase of up to 15% in the event of exceptional demand. This green shoe authorisation would allow for the issuance of additional shares within a thirty-day period at the same price as the initial offer. In this resolution, the Board is authorised to increase the number of shares or marketable securities to be issued with preferential subscription rights for shareholders, ensuring that they are offered at the same price as the original issuance. As a result, the equitable treatment of shareholders is preserved. Furthermore, if a discount was applied under Resolution 16, the same discount would apply under Resolution 17, maintaining pricing consistency and fairness.

However, this resolution represents an additional authorisation on top of the existing share issuance capacity already requested. Given the potential for a material increase in capital beyond the original authorisation, as well as the risk that market conditions could lead to an effective discount due to share price movements between issuances, the scope of this authority is considered excessive. As such, opposition is recommended.

19. Authorization granted to the Board of Directors for a period of 38 months to grant existing or new shares to employees and Company Officers of the Group, or some of such employees and Company Officers, resulting in the waiver by Shareholders of their preferential subscription rights to the shares to be issued

This resolution authorises the Board to grant performance shares (also called free shares) to employees and corporate officers. Recipients do not pay to acquire the shares, but they only receive them if performance targets are met over a defined period (typically 3 years). Grants shares free of charge, subject to performance criteria. This authorisation is limited to 0.8% of share capital and has 38 months validity. The LTI performance conditions are identical for all the employee beneficiaries (approximately 2,800 employees in 2024) and for the Executive Officers.

Given the lack of full disclosure regarding the value of the performance shares as a percentage of base salary, it is recommended to oppose this resolution.

1g.. Elect Brent Shafer - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

Standard resolution. At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended.

X. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. Given the duration exceeds the typical 18-month limit, opposition is recommended.

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Audit Committee and member of the Nominating and Governance Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that Audit and Nominating and Governance committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair. At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

1.5. Elect John S. Marr Jr - Chair (Executive)

Executive Chair. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that the Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Holding an executive position is incompatible with this.

Furthermore, as there is no formal Sustainability Committee, the Chair of the Board is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

Lastly, the articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

4.. Shareholder Resolution: Corporate Financial Sustainability

Proponent Shareholder: National Center for Public Policy Research

Proponent's argument: The National Center for Public Policy Research urges Bristol Myers Squibb (BMS) to establish a Board level committee on corporate financial sustainability. The resolution contends that the company's positions, advocacy, partnerships, and charitable giving on contentious social and political matters risk alienating customers and damaging shareholder value. The proponent raises concern over BMS's 100% rating on the Human Rights Campaign's Corporate Equality Index, arguing that compliance requires engagement in partisan social issues. Citing sources like the 1792 Exchange, the resolution claims BMS exhibits ideological bias that may discriminate against religious viewpoints and partners. The proposal further critiques BMS's association with the Trevor Project, asserting that support for gender affirming care might entail reputational and financial risks. The supporting statement references market value declines at Bud Light, Target, and Disney following politically divisive stances, arguing that BMS could similarly experience negative financial consequences. To mitigate these risks, the proponent calls for the formation of a new committee to oversee and publicly report on the company's involvement in politically sensitive issues and their financial implications. The resolution stresses that a dedicated committee and public reporting could strengthen shareholder oversight and safeguard long-term value.

Company's Response : The Board of Directors unanimously recommends voting against the proposal, asserting it is unnecessary, duplicative, and not in shareholders' best interests. The Board states that it already maintains strong corporate governance structures that thoroughly address financial sustainability and risk oversight. Oversight of policy positions, advocacy, and partnerships is distributed across standing committees, notably the Audit Committee and the Committee on Directors and Corporate Governance, both of which monitor issues impacting reputation, sustainability, and risk. The Board argues that forming a new committee would only replicate existing responsibilities, resulting in inefficiencies without added value. Additionally, BMS regularly publishes comprehensive disclosures, including its annual Sustainability and Social Impact Report and information about its political engagement and governance policies, all of which are publicly accessible. These documents reflect the Company's ongoing evaluation of potential risks tied to its advocacy and partnerships. According to the Board, the requested additional report would divert resources without offering material new information to shareholders. The Board emphasises that its current governance model allows it to remain focused on long-term growth, shareholder value, and effective operational execution. As such, the proposal is considered both redundant and misaligned with the Company's strategic priorities.

PIRC analysis: Disclosure surrounding the company approved charities allows shareholders to assess corporate values and philanthropic strategy within the broader framework of long-term value creation and stakeholder engagement. Enhanced transparency that more explicitly links charitable giving and public policy engagement with financial sustainability would generally be considered beneficial for shareholders. However, the resolution rests on a disputable premise that donations to certain charities are directly responsible for movements in company stock prices an assertion that oversimplifies complex market dynamics and lacks robust analytical grounding. Furthermore, the proposal appears to be rooted in the intention to promote specific ideological perspectives within the company's charitable activity. While shareholders may hold differing views on the suitability of particular organisations, the presence of donations to charities some may oppose does not necessitate equal representation of all viewpoints. Philanthropic strategies are shaped by a range of business considerations, including relevance to the company's mission, community needs, and long-term stakeholder relationships. Imposing political or viewpoint balancing requirements on charitable contributions could undermine board discretion and operational flexibility. Opposition is recommended.

5.. Shareholder Resolution: Cease DEI Efforts

Proponent Shareholder: National Center for Public Policy Research

Proponent's argument: The proponent calls for Bristol Myers Squibb (BMS) to consider abolishing its Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) programs, policies, department, and goals, citing legal and financial risks. The proposal references the U.S. Supreme Court's SFFA v. Harvard and Muldrow v. City of St. Louis decisions, arguing that these rulings increase the legal scrutiny and potential liability of corporate DEI efforts under equal protection and anti-discrimination laws. The resolution warns that DEI-related initiatives could expose the Company to lawsuits, breach fiduciary duties, and create costly liabilities. It cites recent high-profile discrimination lawsuits and the rollback of DEI initiatives at other major companies-including Alphabet, Meta, Microsoft, and Boeing-as evidence of a growing trend and legal concern. The proposal identifies BMS's current DEI components, including race-based employee resource groups, workforce representation goals, and supplier diversity programs, as areas of risk. The proponent argues that continuation of such efforts, in light of shifting legal precedent and corporate trends, poses significant financial exposure. It concludes that abolishing DEI efforts would protect shareholder value and mitigate reputational and legal risk.

Company's Response: Bristol Myers Squibb's Board unanimously recommends a vote against the proposal, asserting it is not in the best interests of the Company or its shareholders. The Company emphasises its commitment to inclusion, equal opportunity, and legal compliance across all jurisdictions in which it operates. It strongly rejects the characterisation of its DEI policies as discriminatory, affirming that its programs are merit-based and promote a culture of fairness, dignity, and collaboration. BMS argues that an inclusive workforce supports strategic priorities, especially in delivering transformative medicines to diverse patient populations and improving access to clinical trials across demographic groups. The Board underscores that the Company's DEI initiatives are aligned with shareholder value and patient outcomes and are regularly reviewed for compliance with all applicable laws. The proposal's assumptions are refuted as both inaccurate and potentially harmful, as its implementation could hinder existing compliance frameworks and limit management's ability to maintain an inclusive and respectful workplace. The Board concludes that dismantling these programs would negatively impact BMS's strategic objectives, legal responsibilities, and operational effectiveness.

PIRC analysis: The resolution calls for the Company to consider ending its DEI programs, citing legal and financial risks. While legal developments such as SFFA v. Harvard and Muldrow v. City of St. Louis have prompted increased scrutiny of DEI practices, corporate programs that comply with non-discrimination laws remain both legal and strategically important. Effective DEI efforts can enhance decision-making, support talent retention, and help companies respond to the needs of diverse stakeholders. The proposal appears to adopt a narrow, politically driven interpretation of risk, with limited attention to long-term value considerations. The Company's existing DEI disclosures provide transparency and demonstrate alignment with its business goals. Opposition is recommended.

3. Re-elect Steven Baldwin - Designated Non-Executive

Designated non-executive director workforce engagement, Chair of the Nominating and ESG Committees. It would be preferred that companies appoint directors from the workforce rather than designate a non-executive director (NED). Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall. 1a.. Elect William M. Farrow III - Chair (Non Executive)

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board, member of the Audit Committee. As the Chair of the Sustainability Committee is not up for election, the Chair of the Board is considered accountable for the Company's sustainability programme. As such, given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Under the plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest over a three-year period. Performance targets have been quantified at this time, which is above market practice. 4. Shareholder Resolution: Report on Impact of Suncor Energy's Net Zero by 2050 Pledge

Proponent's argument: Shareholders request that Suncor Energy Inc. commission and issue a report to itemize the impacts and quantify the costs of its commitment to achieve Net Zero by 2050. Shareholders argue the following: "We are calling on Suncor Energy to commission a report that would provide data and analysis on the impacts and costs of Suncor's commitment to achieving Net Zero carbon emissions by the year 2050. This should address how the Net Zero commitment will affect revenue projections, growth plans, costs, profit, and share price. On the global level, a commitment to Net Zero by 2050 would mean massive declines in the use of coal, oil and natural gas. Yet, demand is forecast to go up and there are no signs of its peaking anytime soon. On the national level, commitment to Net Zero by 2050 has the potential to disrupt Canada's energy security, food security, national security and economic security, but in the enthusiasm for the concept, its costs are not explained to Canadians. And on the company level, Net Zero by 2050 would make it significantly more difficult for Suncor to do what it does best – extract oil and natural gas – resulting in lower production, lower revenue, less profitability, and thus reduced returns for shareholders. The commitment to Net Zero by 2050 has profound implications for share value. Shareholders have a right to know what those implications are. Suncor owes a duty of care to shareholders to explain the situation thoroughly, and a comprehensive report is the best way to do that."

Company's response: The board recommended a vote against this proposal. The board argues the following: " As one of Canada's largest integrated energy companies, Suncor has an opportunity to support shared goals on climate, economic prosperity, and energy security. Suncor has long recognized carbon as a principal risk to our business. Climate risks and opportunities are deeply embedded into strategy development, scenario planning, business planning, project execution, risk oversight, executive compensation, disclosure, skills development, and external engagement. Our strategy to deliver shareholder value reflects these views and details on our plans to deliver on those objectives will be disclosed as they progress. [...] Our strategy is clear, concise and focused. We are committed to ensuring a profitable, high-performing business today, so that we can have a profitable, high-performing, and sustainable business in the future. We will continue to work to deliver on our strategy, communicate our performance, and realize these results."

PIRC analysis: The requested disclosure on the congruency of corporate expenditure with net zero ambitions appears to be a spoiler resolution to prevent other shareholders from filing resolutions regarding the company's alignment with net zero, or emission reduction targets, and focuses on executive behaviour with the clear intent to ensure that views against what the filers describe as "risky and costly political-schedule decarbonization" are represented within the company's political activities, as opposed to promoting accountability around the potential benefits of decarbonization and requesting transparency over the financial impact from non-traditionally financial issues, particularly the climate emergency, or avoid any suspicion and any damage that may cause to the company's reputation, or that the company may adopt a conduct different from what it has committed to. Opposition is recommended.

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red (+), indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company has failed to set emissions targets credibly aligned to a 1.5C or below 2C pathway. As such, it is recommended to oppose the re-election of the chair of the board.

It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising their oversight of the functioning of the Board. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. 6.. Shareholder Resolution: Charitable Giving

Proponent Shareholder: American Family Association

Proponent's argument: The proponent, the American Family Association, represented by Bowyer Research Inc., requests that Intel produce an annual report evaluating how its charitable contributions may impact risks related to discrimination based on individuals' speech or religious beliefs. The proposal argues that while corporations frequently support humanitarian causes, some organisations they fund may undermine core freedoms, such as freedom of speech and religion. Specifically, it points to Intel's corporate partnership with the Human Rights Campaign (HRC), an organisation the proponent claims promotes censorship of dissenting views, supports controversial healthcare mandates, and lobbies for policies allegedly threatening to religious liberty. The proponent contends that Intel's charitable giving, including support for the HRC, contradicts its own stated goals on inclusion and diversity, particularly with respect to ideological and religious pluralism. The resolution cites other companies that have reevaluated their giving policies and suggests that Intel follow suit to better align with shareholder values, protect its brand reputation, and ensure its social impact does not alienate stakeholders with diverse viewpoints.

Company's Response : Intel's Board recommends voting against the proposal, stating that the requested report is unnecessary given the company's existing robust oversight, transparency, and governance frameworks. Intel outlines that its charitable giving focuses on education and community causes, including STEM initiatives, disaster response, and civic engagement. These donations are already publicly disclosed in Intel's Corporate Responsibility Report, on its foundation website, and through legally mandated filings. The company further notes that all grantees must comply with Intel's non-discrimination policy and that charitable relationships are continuously monitored to ensure alignment with corporate values and legal obligations. Intel's governance mechanisms, including board oversight, are described as sufficient to address any potential risks arising from charitable contributions. The company strongly refutes the implication that its giving practices promote discrimination and reiterates its commitment to diversity, inclusion, and employee freedom of expression. The Board argues the proposal is ideologically motivated, reflects a narrow political agenda, and has been previously rejected by shareholders. It maintains that current disclosure and risk assessment practices render the proposal redundant and not in shareholders' best interests.

PIRC analysis: Disclosure of company-supported charitable contributions helps shareholders assess alignment with the company's long-term interests, including relationships with diverse stakeholders. However, this proposal centers on ideological and political viewpoints, seeking to scrutinise Intel's charitable giving based on whether it sufficiently reflects certain political or religious perspectives. The request appears to rest on a flawed premise: that corporate donations must represent all ideological positions equally. Corporate philanthropy is not obligated to offer ideological balance, particularly when donations are made to legally compliant organisations that align with the company's social impact goals. Intel already discloses detailed information on its charitable giving, and its oversight mechanisms include compliance with its non-discrimination policies. Given the existing governance processes and transparency in place, and the proposal's intent to influence charitable decisions based on specific ideological criteria, support is not warranted. Opposition is recommended.

7. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. Given the duration exceeds the typical 18-month limit, opposition is recommended.

1H.. Re-elect Pamela J. Royal - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director and member of the Audit Committee and Chair of the Nominating, Governance and Sustainability Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that the Audit and Nominating Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members. At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red, indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company has failed to set emissions targets covering all relevant emissions scopes. As such, it is recommended to oppose the re-election of the chair of the Nominating, Governance and Sustainability Committee.

4.. Shareholder Resolution: Request to Consider Eliminating Non-Carbon Emitting Generation Goals in Executive Pay Incentives

Proponent's argument: National Legal and Policy Center request the Board of Directors' Compensation and Talent Development Committee to revisit its incentive guidelines for executive pay, to re-emphasize fiduciary goals and consider eliminating NCGC-based incentives from compensation inducements. Shareholders argue the following: "Despite evidence that climate alarmism and associated renewable energy policies are unwarranted, Dominion Energy, Inc.'s executive pay program incorporates unnecessary incentives to attain "non-carbon emitting generation capacity" goals (NCGC): Under the Company's 2023 60% performance grant in its long-term incentive program, named executive officers received performance grants that included a "10% weighting" for NCGC. The NCGC performance metric measures the company's wind, solar, nuclear and conventional hydro generation capacity as a percentage of its total generation capacity."

Company's response: The board recommended a vote against this proposal. The Board argues the following: "The use of a NCGC performance metric is a component of this strategy, encouraging officers to focus on the company's long-term strategic plan, which includes delivering increasingly clean energy while maintaining reliability and affordability for customers. [...]The Board of Directors believe that the NCGC performance metric is an appropriate performance metric for our executive compensation program because it supports our "all-of-the-above" approach to meeting our customers' energy needs by encouraging the development of diverse non-carbon emitting generation sources. This development process directly aligns with our mission to provide reliable, affordable and increasingly clean energy. [...] The Board considered this proposal, its fiduciary duties, the design and philosophy of the company's executive compensation program and the company's strategy. We believe that eliminating the NCGC performance metric at this time is not in the best interests of the company or its shareholders."

PIRC Recommendation: The resolution is rooted in a broader ideological dispute over climate science rather than material governance shortcomings. The proponent disputes widely accepted scientific consensus and regulatory realities that shape the utility industry. While debate over climate models is valid in policy circles, its import here is limited: the proponent does not convincingly demonstrate how the NCGC metric materially harms shareholder value or imposes unjustified costs. The resolution fails to demonstrate that the NCGC metric undermines fiduciary duty or shareholder value. Dominion's compensation structure is well-justified, legally anchored, and shareholder-supported. Removing sustainability-linked performance metrics would risk undermining strategic alignment and regulatory compliance.

Shareholders are being asked to approve the Company's annual report on remuneration. Disclosure of figures and policy is adequate. The aggregate limit set in relation to Directors' remuneration was not exceeded during the year. Directors' remuneration does not comprise any performance-related element, which is welcomed. It is further noted that no additional discretionary payments were made in the year. There was no increase in individual fees during the year under review. Overall, the remuneration practices and the level of fees paid to the Board are considered acceptable. Non-Executive Chair of the Board. The Chair is not considered to be independent as he founded the Company in 1996 and served as Chief Executive Officer from 5 January 2021 until 24 April 2024. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. In terms of best practice, it is also considered that the Nomination Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair. 1g.. Elect Daniel P. ODay - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

7.. Shareholder Resolution: DEI Practices for Contractors

Proponent Shareholder: Bowyer Research, Inc. on behalf of David Bahnsen, Trustee of the Bahnsen Family Trust

Proponent's argument: The resolution calls for a report assessing the potential risks associated with Gilead Sciences' Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) requirements for contractors, including the risk of discrimination based on race, religion, sex, political views, or other protected characteristics. The proponent argues that current supplier policies may compel vendors to adopt ideological or politically charged DEI initiatives, which could expose the Company to legal and reputational risk. Citing concerns raised by recent court rulings and federal legal trends, the proposal suggests that Gilead's DEI linked procurement expectations may be legally vulnerable, particularly in light of heightened scrutiny around race and belief based contracting. It also references declining public support for corporate involvement in social policy issues, along with examples of companies withdrawing or scaling back DEI efforts. The proposal claims that existing policies may violate civil liberties and inhibit viewpoint diversity and calls for enhanced transparency regarding how such DEI expectations are communicated and enforced in the supplier selection process. The requested report would help determine whether these practices expose Gilead to unnecessary legal or reputational risk.

Company's Response : Gilead's Board recommends voting against the proposal, stating that the company already operates under a strong legal compliance framework and equitable procurement policies. The Company emphasises that its supplier selection process is competitive and inclusive, but not discriminatory. While the Company aims to expand access to diverse suppliers, it does not mandate participation in DEI programs as a prerequisite for selection, nor does it engage in unlawful discrimination. Gilead argues that supplier diversity supports innovation, resilience, and alignment with the Company's broader health equity mission. Furthermore, the Company points to its enterprise wide risk management system, which includes oversight by the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee and regular reporting to the Board on relevant legal and ESG risks. Given these existing structures, Gilead maintains that the requested evaluation would add limited value while unnecessarily diverting resources. The Board concludes that the proposal is duplicative of existing practices and is not in the best interest of shareholders or the Company.

PIRC analysis: The potential benefits of supplier diversity lie in widening perspectives across the value chain, strengthening innovation, and building resilience in operations. Encouraging participation from a broad spectrum of vendors helps companies reflect the complexity of their customer base and the societies in which they operate. Transparency over such practices allows shareholders to assess how inclusion is embedded into the company's long-term business model. However, this resolution appears to have been filed by actors affiliated with right-wing advocacy networks and seems designed less to promote meaningful oversight than to challenge the legitimacy of corporate diversity frameworks. The proposal emphasises speculative legal and reputational risks while ignoring the strategic rationale and legal compliance underpinning current inclusion practices. It is framed around political objections to DEI and reflects a broader effort to discourage corporate engagement in diversity and inclusion under the guise of protecting civil liberties. Opposition is recommended.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

For 2025, several amendments have been introduced to the Remuneration Policy, including the introduction of a new Peer Group to better reflect the structure of the business in recent years, a focus on increasing remuneration at the Company to better reflect this peer group: for the Annual Bonus the current 3.00 times base salary maximum will be held. However, the Company will increase on-target bonus from 1.00 times to 1.50 times base salary to help reach the new peer-group median level, and additionally, the cap on the Long-Term Incentives will increase from 600-800%. Performance metrics will also be adjusted in order to better reflect strategic goals at the Company. The total variable pay available to the CEO is 1100% of the fixed salary, which is deemed extremely excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. Half of the Annual Bonus up to 200% of the salary, and 100% of it over this level will defer to shares for a period of three years, which is within guidelines. The performance period on the Performance Share Plan (PSP) is three years, which is deemed overly short-term, however, a holding period of two-years applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The variable pay utilises non-financial performance metrics, which is welcomed. Malus and clawback apply.

I. Authorise Share Repurchase

It is proposed to fix the maximum amount available to directors, for the purpose of buying shares on the market. Although this is technically not an authority to repurchase shares, shareholders in Mexico do not approve individual authorities to repurchase shares. As such, identifying the total amount which can be used for repurchasing shares is considered an indirect authority to buy back shares on the market. These resolutions will not be supported unless the Board has set forth a clear, cogent and compelling case demonstrating how the authority would benefit long-term shareholders. As no clear justification was provided by the Board, an oppose vote is recommended.

AMETEK INC AGM - 07-05-20251b.. *Re-Elect David A. Zapico - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

As the Chair of the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee is not up for election, the Chair of the Board is considered accountable for the Company's sustainability programme. The Company's sustainability policies and practice are not considered to be adequate in order to minimise material risks linked to sustainability.

It is considered that the Chair of the Compensation Committee is responsible for the company's executive compensation and there are concerns with the Company's executive compensation. As the Chair of this committee is not up for election, the accountability falls to the Chair of the Board.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters.

On balance, opposition is recommended.

LKQ CORPORATION AGM - 07-05-20251h.. *Elect Jody G. Miller - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director and Chair of the Governance/Nominating Committee and member of the Compensation and Human Capital Committee.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Governance/Nominating Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

As the Chair of the Governance/Nominating Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. After allotment, shares will be restricted for three years, which is not considered to be sufficiently long term. The Company states that exercise of shares will be based on targets, which at this time remain undisclosed.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. 14. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the remuneration paid or due to executives with an advisory vote. The payout is in line with best practice, under 200% of the fixed salary. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated, although there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out.

Vote Cast: Abstain

17. Approve Remuneration Policy

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, and the payout is in line with best practice. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

18.A. Approve 2025 Long Term Incentive Plan

The Board proposes the approval of a new equity-based incentive plan. Under the plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest over a three-year period. However, the potential total reward raises excessiveness concerns (together with other incentives) and the vesting period of three years is considered to be short term. Opposition is recommended.

2. Approve the Remuneration Report

Awards granted to Directors under the Company's variable remuneration schemes are considered excessive as they exceeded 200% of base salary during the year under review. The CEO's salary is in the upper quartile of a peer comparator group. This raises concerns over potential excessiveness of the variable incentive schemes currently in operation, as the base salary determines the overall quantum of the remuneration structure. The ratio of CEO pay compared to that of the average employee exceeds the recommended limit of 20:1 and is therefore not considered appropriate.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

The LTIP scheme use non-financial performance metrics as a means of assessing individual performance. The use of non-financial conditions enables the policy to focus on the operational performance of the business as a whole as well as the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Maximum potential awards for both the Annual Bonus and LTIP are clearly stated. Vesting scales are considered to be sufficiently broad and geared towards better performance. Total potential awards capable of vesting under the policy exceed the recommended threshold of 200% of the highest paid Director's base salary. Directors are required to build a holding equivalent to at least 200% of salary, over a period of no more than five years. It is considered that a shareholding policy aligns the interests of the Executive to that of the shareholder. The Annual Bonus is deferred. Claw-back provisions are attached to the annual bonus. The deferral period attached to the Annual Bonus is in line with best practice as half of the bonus is deferred in shares over at least two years. The performance period for the LTIP is less than five years and is therefore not considered sufficiently long-term. Claw-back provisions are in place over long-term incentive plans. However, recipients of the award are required to hold their vested shares for at least a further two years, which is welcomed.

This raises concerns about the potential donation which could be made by the Company under this authority. 04. Amend Existing Long Term Incentive Plan

This resolution seeks shareholder approval to amend Rule 3.6 of the LTIP rules in order to align them with the provisions of the proposed new Directors' Remuneration Policy. The existing LTIP rules, which were last approved by shareholders at the 2021 AGM, currently cap annual LTIP awards for Executive Directors at 500% of fixed pay. Under the proposed new Remuneration Policy-subject to shareholder approval-this limit would increase to a maximum of 550% of basic salary for the Chief Executive Officer and remain at 500% for the Group Finance Director. The proposed amendment to Rule 3.6 would remove the fixed 500% cap and instead allow LTIP awards up to the maximum permitted under the Directors' Remuneration Policy in force at the time. PIRC does not support these changes. The proposed amendments do not enhance alignment with shareholder interests. Furthermore, PIRC maintains that LTIPs are not a reliable mechanism for incentivising performance. These plans are insufficiently long term in nature and open to potential manipulation due to their discretionary elements. Accordingly, PIRC recommends voting against this resolution.

24. Authorise Issue of Equity in Relation to the Issuance of Contingent Equity Conversion Notes

It is proposed to give the Directors the authority to allot ECNs, or shares issued upon conversion or exchange of ECNs, up to an aggregate nominal amount of £825,000,000 representing approximately 22.97% of the Company's issued ordinary share capital (excluding shares held in treasury) as at 12 March 2025. The Company explains that this resolution is a recurring resolution at its AGM and will be used to comply or maintain compliance with regulatory capital requirements or targets applicable to the Group.

The use of Contingent Convertible Securities or CoCos is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. CoCos are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that CoCos may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in to banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. Recent events at Deutsche Bank has led to others voicing their concerns about the destabilizing effect of CoCos on both the CoCo price and the share price. Based on these concerns, an oppose vote is recommended. Based on these concerns, an oppose vote is recommended.

4.. To approve an amendment to Brown & Brown, Inc.'s 2019 Stock Incentive Plan to increase the number of shares available for issuance under the plan and extend the term.

It is proposed to approve a restricted share plan for employees and corporate officers. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. After allotment, shares will be restricted for three years, which is not considered to be sufficiently long term. The Company states that exercise of shares will be based on targets, which at this time remain undisclosed.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 10. Approve Remuneration Policy for the Chair and CEO

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy for the Chair and CEO. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the payout may exceed 200% of fixed salary. In addition, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw-back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

ASTON MARTIN LAGONDA GLOBAL HOLDINGS PLC EGM - 07-05-2025

1. Approval of Rule 9 Waiver

Introduction & Background: The EGM was convened following the Company's 31 March 2025 announcement of a proposed capital raise involving a direct investment by the Yew Tree Consortium and a potential sale of shares in AMR GP Holdings Limited. The investment aims to raise approximately GBP 52.5 million through a non-pre-emptive placing of new shares. Under the UK Takeover Code, any entity acquiring 30% or more of voting rights must make a mandatory offer to all shareholders. The Yew Tree Consortium's stake would rise to 33.13% post-placing, thus necessitating a Rule 9 waiver. The Panel on Takeovers and Mergers has conditionally agreed to waive this requirement, subject to independent shareholder approval, which necessitates this EGM.

Proposal: The Company seeks approval from independent shareholders for a Rule 9 waiver that will permit the Yew Tree Consortium to increase its stake in Aston Martin Lagonda Global Holdings plc to 33.13% through a GBP 52.5 million placing of 75,000,000 new shares at a premium price of 70 pence per share. This would exempt the Consortium from having to make a general offer to all shareholders under Rule 9 of the Takeover Code. This resolution is to be voted on by poll and excludes members of the Yew Tree Consortium from voting.

Rationale: The Board believes that the investment from the Yew Tree Consortium will provide significant benefits to the Company, including enhanced liquidity, a strengthened balance sheet, and additional capital to support product innovation and business transformation. The placing is structured at a 7% premium to the market price, which the Independent Directors view as a vote of confidence in the Company's strategy. Moreover, it is not underwritten, reducing associated costs. Approval of the waiver is critical, as the placing is contingent upon it; if the resolution fails, the Company will not receive the capital injection, which could impact its financial resilience amid macroeconomic uncertainties.

Recommendation: The proposed Waiver Resolution would allow the Yew Tree Consortium to increase its stake from 27.78% to 33.13% without triggering a mandatory offer to remaining shareholders, representing a clear case of creeping control. This increase in influence would occur through a non-pre-emptive placing, bypassing standard protections for minority shareholders and undermining the principle of equal treatment. The concentration of power in the hands of a single shareholder group without offering an exit opportunity to others is inappropriate and raises concerns over governance and board independence. PIRC recommends voting against this resolution.

Disclosure: All elements of the single total remuneration table are adequately disclosed. The CEO salary is in line with the workforce. The CEO salary for the year under review was below the lower quartile of the competitor group.

Balance: Variable pay for the year under review was at 180.1% of the CEO salary which is not excessive. The ratio of CEO pay to average employee pay is considered acceptable at 12:1.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

Changes proposed: i) Increase on the maximum opportunity for the Annual Bonus to 250% of the salary for the CEO and 200% of the salary for the CFO, ii) Introduction of a hybrid LTIP structure, combining existing performance share awards with new restricted shares and iii) Increase of the CFO LTIP award maximum opportunity to 250% of the salary from 200% of the salary.

Total variable pay could reach 475% of the salary for the CEO and 385.7% of the salary for the CFO. Annual Bonus, if an Executive Director does not meet their shareholding guideline, 50% of any bonus will be deferred into shares, typically for a period of three years. This is not considered adequate it would be preferable 50% of the Bonus to be paid in cash and 50% to defer to shares for at least three years. On LTIP awards there are no non-financial performance measures attached to the LTIP and so the focus of remuneration policy is not the operational performance of the business as a whole or the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Instead, the focus of the remuneration policy is financial KPIs, which mainly include factors beyond an individual director's control. Performance period is three years which is not consider sufficient long-term, however, a two-year holding period applies which is welcomed. Dividends may accrue on vesting awards from the date of grant. Such rewards misalign shareholders and executive interests as shareholders must subscribe for shares in order to receive dividends whereas participants in the scheme do not. Malus and clawback provisions apply.

It is proposed a share matching plan.

The long-term variable remuneration program for employees within Investor, consisting of a Stock Matching Plan and a Performance-Based Share Program, has been approved by the AGM since 2006 and the long-term variable remuneration program for employees within Patricia Industries has been approved by the AGM since 2017.

Under the plan, the CEO and other executives will be awarded rights to receive shares in exchange for part of the reinvestment of their salary. The shares resulting from reinvestment will be matched by free shares awarded by the Company. While re-investment of the bonus in shares, or payment of part or all of the bonus in shares, are considered positive practice, share matching plans are viewed as a de facto discount for executives to buy company shares. They can eventually result in excessive payments versus performance. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

Independent Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee and member of the Compensation Committee. Given the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall. At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively

Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 6. Approve the implementation of the remuneration policy

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. 8. Resolution on the cancellation of the existing and the grant of new authorization to acquire and use treasury shares and on the exclusion of shareholders' subscription rights and rights to sell shares to the Company

Resolution 8 proposes cancelling the existing authorization and granting Mercedes Benz Group AG a new authorization, valid until May 6, 2030, to acquire and use treasury shares of up to 10 percent of the share capital. These treasury shares may be repurchased through the stock exchange, public offers, or third parties and used for purposes such as cancellation, employee share plans, share based dividends, and strategic acquisitions. The resolution also permits the exclusion of shareholders' subscription and sell rights in specific cases, within a 10 percent cap.

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. Given the duration exceeds the typical 18-month limit, opposition is recommended.

This authorization is limited to a maximum of 5% of the share capital and is part of the broader share buyback program outlined in Resolution 8.

5.. Amend Certificate of Incorporation to Reflect New Delaware Law Provisions Allowing for Officer Exculpation

It is proposed to amend the Company's Certificate of Incorporation to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation. Article Ninth of the Company's Certificate of Incorporation currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonise corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are, however, a more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

5.. Shareholder Resolution: Risks Arising From Voluntary Carbon-Reduction Commitments

Proponent Shareholder: The National Center for Public Policy Research

Proponent's argument: The proponent requests that UPS produce a report analysing the risks arising from its voluntary carbon-reduction commitments, especially relating to Scope 1, 2, and 3 greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. The proposal argues that such voluntary climate-related disclosures expose the company to potential regulatory, legal, and reputational risks, especially in light of increased enforcement activity by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) targeting ESG-related disclosures. It asserts that Scope 3 emissions, in particular, are complex and external to the company's direct operations, making their inclusion in voluntary commitments problematic. It references enforcement actions against investment firms over ESG misrepresentations and argues that UPS's reporting lacks clarity regarding the technological or financial feasibility of meeting its long-term sustainability goals. The proposal notes that there is no global scientific consensus supporting the feasibility of achieving net zero emissions by 2050, citing a 2023 report by the Global Climate Intelligence Group which claims there is "no climate emergency." Citing the risk of "greenwashing," the proponent urges UPS to exercise greater caution and transparency in setting and communicating environmental targets. A vote for the resolution is encouraged to protect shareholder value from ESG-related liabilities and regulatory scrutiny.

Company's Response: The Board recommends voting against the proposal, stating that UPS already provides comprehensive, transparent sustainability disclosures through numerous channels, including its annual sustainability report and reports aligned with frameworks such as the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) and CDP. UPS asserts that it does not have a net-zero goal but aims to be carbon neutral by 2050. The company argues that its emission-reduction strategy is grounded in fiscal responsibility and sound engineering principles and that its goals are operationalised through initiatives such as fleet electrification, renewable fuels, and network innovation. Oversight is provided through multiple independent board committees including the Risk Committee and Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee. The company notes its approach includes robust internal controls, third-party assurance on sustainability disclosures, and stakeholder engagement to address progress and risks. UPS contends that the requested report would duplicate existing disclosures and impose an unnecessary burden without providing additional meaningful insights. It reaffirms its commitment to long-term value creation and sound environmental strategy management and concludes that its current approach is sufficient to meet stakeholder expectations and regulatory standards. Accordingly, the Board believes the proposal is unnecessary and recommends a vote against it.

PIRC analysis: The requested disclosure on the risks arising from voluntary carbon-reduction commitments appears to be a spoiler resolution designed to pre-empt or discourage shareholders from filing resolutions aligned with net-zero or emissions-reduction objectives. While framed as a call for transparency, the proposal emphasises executive caution over decarbonisation efforts, with the apparent intent of introducing skepticism toward corporate climate goals. Rather than supporting accountability and alignment between stated commitments and operational practices, the resolution focuses on undermining the rationale for voluntary targets by casting doubt on the feasibility or legitimacy of climate science. The proposal does not support transparency over climate-related risks in a constructive manner and risks distracting from legitimate concerns around the financial and reputational consequences of climate inaction. Furthermore, the company's existing disclosures on emissions reductions and climate-related risks already provide shareholders with a basis to assess progress and alignment. Therefore, the proposal is not considered to be in the interests of long-term shareholders or aligned with broader stakeholder expectations regarding climate action. Opposition is recommended.

BANQUE CANTONALE VAUDOISE AGM - 08-05-20255.3. *Approve Variable Remuneration for the General Management

It is proposed to approve the variable remuneration for the General Management. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, and the payout is in line with best practice. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

The Board proposes the approval of a new incentive plan. Under the plan, the CEO and other executives will be awarded options or rights to receive shares, which will start vesting after three years from the date of award. At this time, it seems that this plan will not be based on any performance criteria but only on the beneficiaries continued employment. As a result, they may receive bonuses unrelated to their performance or even the performance of the Company as a whole, which is considered a serious frustration of shareholder accountability. Opposition is recommended.

2. Approve Remuneration Policy

Changes proposed: i) Increase of the maximum opportunity for the Annual Bonus from 200% of the salary to 300% of the salary, ii) Increase of the maximum opportunity for the LTIP award from 500% of the salary to 800% of the salary for the CEO and from 300% of the salary to 500% of the salary for the CFO and iii) Increase of the shareholding guidelines from 500% for the CEO and 300% for the CFO to 1000% for the CEO and 400% for the CFO.

The LTIP scheme is the use of non-financial performance metrics as a means of assessing individual performance. The use of non-financial conditions enables the policy to focus on the operational performance of the business as a whole as well as the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Maximum potential awards for both the Annual Bonus and LTIP are clearly stated. Vesting scales are considered to be sufficiently broad and geared towards better performance. Total potential awards capable of vesting under the policy exceed the recommended threshold of 200% of the highest paid Director's base salary. Directors are required to build a holding equivalent to at least 200% of salary, over a period of no more than five years. It is considered that a shareholding policy aligns the interests of the Executive to that of the shareholder. The Annual Bonus is deferred. Claw-back provisions are attached to the annual bonus. The deferral period attached to the Annual Bonus is in line with best practice as half of the bonus is deferred in shares over at least two years. The performance period for the LTIP is less than five years and is therefore not considered sufficiently long-term. Claw-back provisions are in place over long-term incentive plans. However, recipients of the award are required to hold their vested shares for at least a further two years, which is welcomed.

16. Approve the Company's Long-Term Incentive Plan 2025

It is proposed to the shareholders to approve the Long-Term Incentive Plan of the Company. Under the plan all employees (including Executive Directors) of the Company and its group are eligible to participate in the Plan. 3 Types of share awards that may be granted Share awards under the Plans ("Awards") may take the form of a conditional right to receive shares ("Shares") in the Company (a Conditional Award), an option to acquire Shares at an exercise price set by the Committee at grant (which may be nil) (an Option) or in such other form which the Committee may determine as economically equivalent. Under each of the Plans, any Award granted to an Executive Director shall not exceed any limit set out in the Company's Directors' Remuneration Policy applicable at the time of grant. In any 10-year period, the number of Shares issued or issuable under the Plans and under any other employees' share plan adopted by the Company must not exceed 10% of the issued Share capital of the Company from time to time. Awards under the LTIP will normally vest over a period set by the Committee at grant and only to the extent that any conditions (which may or may not be linked to performance) set by the Committee at grant have been met. However, Awards granted to Executive Directors will always be subject to performance conditions to the extent required by the Directors' Remuneration Policy, and the vesting period of Awards granted to Executive Directors will be set in accordance with the Directors' Remuneration Policy. Currently, this means Awards under the LTIP will be granted subject to a three-year performance period followed by a two-year post-vesting holding period, and Awards under the BSP will be subject to a deferral period of three years. LTIP Awards may also be granted subject to a post-vesting holding period. During a holding period, the participant cannot normally sell or transfer any Shares received on vesting, except to cover tax and in other limited circumstances such as in connection with certain corporate events. The Committee also has discretion to implement a holding period through other means, including by delaying delivery of the Shares in respect of which the Award has vested until the end of the holding period.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders.

On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans which have the participation of Executive Directors. On balance, opposition is recommended.

17. Approve Mondi plc Bonus Share Plan 2025

It is proposed to the shareholders to approve the Company's Bonus Share Plan. An Award may be granted on the basis that the number of Shares in respect of which the Award vests will be increased to take account of dividends paid between grant and vesting on the number of Shares which vest. The basis for calculating dividend equivalents will be determined by the Committee and may assume notional re-investment of the dividends. Dividend equivalents may be paid in Shares or in cash and may take account of special dividends and/or dividends paid during a holding period if the Committee so determines. In line with the current Directors' Remuneration Policy, the dividend equivalents paid to Executive Directors will be delivered in shares. Under these provisions, the Committee can: i) reduce the number of Shares in respect of which an Award would otherwise vest ("malus"); and/or ii) clawback Shares or cash received by a participant on vesting or exercise ("clawback"). Clawback may be applied within six years from the date on which the Award is made (or three years from payment in the case of a cash bonus payment under the BSP), or such other period as the Committee may determine. In line with resolution 16 an oppose vote is recommended.

It is noted that the proposed resolution in the 2024 Annual General Meeting received significant opposition of 11.82% of the votes, and the Company did not disclosed information as to how address the issue with its shareholders. Therefore, an oppose vote is recommended.

It is proposed that a general meeting of the Company other than an annual general meeting may be called on not less than 14 clear days' notice. It is considered that all companies should aim to provide at least 20 working days notice for general meetings in order to give shareholders sufficient time to consider what are often complex issues. However, the proposed change is permissible by the Companies Act. It is noted that the proposed resolution in the 2024 Annual General Meeting received significant opposition of 15.03% of the votes, and the Company did not disclosed information as to how address the issue with its shareholders. Therefore, an oppose vote is recommended.

Balance: The CEO's total variable pay for the year under review was 405.86% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200:1. The CEO's pay ratio was 83:1, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 20:1.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

There have been some minor amendments to the Remuneration Policy proposed at this year's AGM, however, the Committee believes that the current Policy remains fit for purpose and supports the updated strategy. Therefore there are no structural changes to the Policy. Minor changes have been made to the Policy to clarify its intentions. The maximum variable pay for the Executive Directors is not defined wholly as a percentage of the salary, however, the Annual Bonus alone can reach up to 428% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive in itself when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. In addition to this, up to 300,000 options and 150,000 shares can be awarded for the LTIP in exceptional circumstances, which raises further concerns around excessiveness. One-third of the annual bonus may defer into shares for a period of three years. It would be considered best practise for at least half of the bonus to defer for this period. The potential performance period of three years for the LTIP is considered overly short term, however, a two-year holding period also applies post vesting, which is welcomed. Also welcomed is the inclusion of non-financial performance metrics for the LTIP. Malus and clawback apply to all aspects of the variable pay.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Change proposed: The main change to the Policy is an increase to the maximum RSP from 150% to 200% of salary. In addition the Remuneration Committee will increase the shareholding requirement of the CEO to 400% of salary (current policy is 300% of salary) to further increase alignment between our Executive Directors and shareholders.

Total variable pay could reach 400% of the salary and is considered excessive since is higher than 200%. On the Annual Incentive Plan (AIP) 50% is paid in cash and 50% defer to shares for a three year period which is in line with best practice. On the Restricted Share plan awards will vest after three years, a period which is not considered sufficiently long term; however, a two-year holding period applies which is welcomed. In addition, dividends may accrue on vesting awards from the date of grant. Such rewards misalign shareholders and executive interests as shareholders must subscribe for shares in order to receive dividends whereas participants in the scheme do not. Malus and clawback provisions apply to all variable pay.

5. Amend Existing Long Term Incentive Plan

It is proposed to the shareholders to approve the amendments of the Long-term Incentive plan of the Company. Under the amended rules, the value of ordinary shares in the Company (Shares) comprised in restricted share awards granted to an Executive Director of the Company in respect of any financial year will not exceed 200% of their annual basic salary. the malus and clawback provisions contained in the LTIP rules may apply, at the Remuneration Committee's discretion, to any future awards. The Remuneration Committee will have the discretion to determine, when an award is granted, the date on which that award will ordinarily vest. Under the amended rules, if the Remuneration Committee so determines, participants will receive an amount (in additional Shares, unless the Remuneration Committee decides it will be paid fully or partly in cash) equal to the value of any dividends which would have been paid on the Shares subject to an award which vest by reference to record dates during the performance period or the period beginning on the date on which the award is granted and ending on the date on which the award vests or, if there is a 'gross of tax' post-vesting holding period applicable to an award, at the end of the holding period. This amount may assume the notional reinvestment of dividends. Where the Group hires new employees, it may be commercially necessary to 'buy out' the incentives that these employees will forfeit as a result of leaving their employer. To minimise costs for the Company and provide certainty of terms for these 'recruitment awards', the amended rules allow for 'recruitment awards' to be granted under the terms of the LTIP to compensate the new hire solely for the loss of any awards or entitlements they forfeited when they left their former employer. The amended rules allow the Remuneration Committee to apply 'gross of tax' post-vesting holding periods. Under these arrangements, the Shares subject to the awards are only delivered to participants at the end of the post-vesting holding period.

The amendments proposed do not promote better alignment with shareholder. Moreover, PIRC does not consider that LTIPs are an effective means of incentivising performance. These schemes are not considered to be properly long term and are subject to manipulation due to their discretionary nature. An oppose vote is recommended.

21. Approve the Centrica plc Climate Plan

Governance

There does not appear to be any individual accountability for the policy, and the policy does not list the chair as responsible for the climate strategy. Company management and the sustainability committee hold collective responsibility, which is considered insufficiently focussed for effective execution of policy and for overall accountability.

There is adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonisation on the board of directors, including at least one non-executive director with significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board and senior management of climate-related issues. Disclosure

The company has not provided a timeline for implementation of its climate strategy. This raises concern over the effectiveness of measuring and implementing progress on emission reductions and implementation of an effective transition plan.

The company's targets are in line with a plan to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees when compared to pre-industrial levels. This is considered to be best practice, and represents one of the more resilient scenarios.

The company has committed to being carbon neutral by 2050 and includes scopes 1, 2 and 3 emission reductions in this commitment. The company strategy appears to include an actual reduction of carbon emissions rather than having a heavy reliance on offsetting.

The company has not pledged to refrain from financing new plans based on fossil fuels. Fossil fuels financing is risky, with the marginal cost of renewables being cheaper, and energy security being increasingly seen in terms of non-fossil sources.

Furthermore, the articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

Non-Executive Chair of the Board, member of the Compensation and Governance Committee. The Chair is not considered to be independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings

Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Under the plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest over a three-year period. Performance targets have been quantified at this time, which is above market practice. 2. Approve the Remuneration Report

Disclosure: All elements of the Single Total Remuneration Table are adequately disclosed. The CEO did not receive a salary increase in the year under review, while the wider workforce saw an average increase of 2%. The CEO's salary is in the upper quartile of PIRC's comparator group, raising some concerns about excessiveness.

Balance: The CEO's total variable pay for the year under review was 54.06% of the fixed salary, which is well within guidelines. The CEO's pay ratio is 27:1, which is deemed somewhat excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 20:1.

The use of Regulatory Capital Convertible Instrument is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. They are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that they may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in the banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. There are important concerns about the destabilizing effect of such instruments on both the instrument price and the share price. Based on these concerns, an oppose vote is recommended.

1a.. Elect David B. Dillon - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Audit Committee, member of the Corporate Governance, Nominating and Sustainability Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that Audit and Corporate Governance, Nominating and Sustainability Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

2. Approve Remuneration Policy

Total variable pay remains potentially up to 350% of salary for the CEO (150% annual bonus and 200% LTIP) and is considered excessive, exceeding the recommended maximum of 200%. 67% of the annual bonus is payable in cash, with 33% deferred into shares for a three-year period; it would be preferable for 50% of the bonus to be deferred to better align with long-term shareholder interests. The LTIP operates with a three-year performance period, which is not sufficiently long-term, though a two-year post-vesting holding period is applied, which is welcomed. Performance metrics under the incentive plans continue to operate independently, allowing partial vesting even if only one threshold is met, which is not considered sufficiently stringent. Malus and clawback provisions apply across both bonus and LTIP for a period of five years. Executive contracts may be terminated on 12 months' notice by the Company or six months by the Director.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

Moreover, the Chair of the Governance and Nominating Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and there are concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice.

SECURITAS AB AGM - 08-05-202510. *Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. In addition, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Furthermore, there are no claw back clauses in place, which is against best practices. Opposition is recommended.

12. Approve Fees Payable to the Board of Directors and the Auditor

It has been proposed to approve the fees payable to the Board members and auditor. It is regrettable that the Company has bundled Auditors and Directors remuneration in one resolution.

There are concerns with the amount payable to the Board of Directors by more than 10% on an annual basis. The increase is considered material and exceeds guidelines, while the Company has not duly justified it. Therefore, opposition is recommended.

17. Resolution Regarding Guidelines for Remuneration to Group Management

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, and the payout is in line with best practice. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

07. Re-elect Iain Cummings - Designated Non-Executive

Non-Executive Director, chair of the audit committee. At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

AVANTOR INC AGM - 08-05-2025

1g.. Re-Elect Jonathan Peacock - Chair (Non Executive)

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

1j.. Re-Elect Gregory Summe - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director and Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nominating and Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall. Furthermore, at this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Opposition is recommended.

1h.. Re-Elect Michael Severino - Non-Executive Director

1f. Re-elect William Clay Ford Jr. - Chair (Executive)

Executive Chair. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that the Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Holding an executive position is incompatible with this and a vote to Oppose is recommended.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. 4. Approve Adoption of Anti-takeover Measure (poison pill)

The board seeks approval for a "Tax Benefit Preservation Plan" (Plan), designed to preserve tax assets of the company. The Plan is intended to help protect the Company's tax assets. The Plan is intended to help protect the Company's tax net operating loss carryovers and have certain anti-takeover effects. The Rights may cause substantial dilution to a person or group that attempts to acquire the Company on terms not approved by the Board of Directors. Additionally, the Board of Directors may redeem the Rights. The Plan is intended to restrict any direct or indirect transfer of stock that would result in an increase in the direct or indirect ownership of the company's stock to 4.9% or more of the common stock following an event such as a change-in-control, as defined under Section 382 of the Internal Revenue Code.

This authority is considered to be counter to the best interests of shareholders. The poison pill enables management to offer warrants to shareholders during a period of public offer thus implying a threat of dilution to potential acquirers of the company. While this may cause potential acquirers to negotiate with the Board, it may also potentially prevent hostile takeovers and entrench management. Opposition is recommended.

Incoming new CEO and Chair. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. In our view, capital would be better deployed elsewhere in the business or returned through more equitable means. Opposition is recommended.

Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

salary of the CEO is in the upper quartile of the comparator group, raising concerns about potential excessiveness.

Balance: The CEO's total realized awards during the year under review stands at approximately 59% of the annual salary which consists of only the Annual Bonus. The ratio of CEO pay compared to average employee pay stands at 13:1 which is considered acceptable.

Total potential variable pay has increased to 650 percent of salary, following amendments to the policy that raise the annual bonus limit from 200 percent to 250 percent of salary and introduce an additional opportunity of up to 100 percent of salary in the form of restricted shares under the Long-Term Incentive Plan (LTIP). This level of potential reward is considered excessive, significantly exceeding PIRC's threshold of 200 percent. The performance period remains three years, which is not considered sufficiently long-term; however, a two-year post-vesting holding period continues to apply. Malus and clawback provisions remain in place across all variable pay components.

4. Approve New Long Term Incentive Plan

The Board proposes the approval of a new long-term incentive plan (LTIP) under which employees and executives will be awarded options or rights to receive shares, vesting after three years from the date of award. While the company has clarified that the LTIP will operate within the bounds of the approved remuneration policy, including performance metrics and award limits, and that participants will receive a mix of performance shares and restricted shares, concerns remain. Specifically, the performance conditions attached to these awards are not fully quantified or clearly disclosed. This lack of transparency undermines the ability of shareholders to assess the rigour of the performance framework and to hold executives accountable for the outcomes. Without full disclosure of measurable targets, there is a risk that significant awards may be delivered without sufficiently challenging performance hurdles. Given the continued absence of fully quantified performance criteria, and the potential for payouts not clearly aligned with shareholder value creation, it is recommended to oppose this resolution.

4. Approve Remuneration Policy

The LTIP scheme is the use of non-financial performance metrics with a weighting of 20% as a means of assessing Group performance. The use of non-financial conditions enables the policy to focus on the operational performance of the business as a whole as well as the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Maximum potential awards for both the Annual Bonus and LTIP are clearly stated. The performance metrics are not operating interdependently, such that vesting under the incentive plan is only possible where all threshold targets are met. Vesting scales are considered to be sufficiently broad and geared towards better performance. Total potential awards capable of vesting under the policy exceed the recommended threshold of 200% of the highest paid Director's base salary. Directors are required to build a holding equivalent to at least 400% for the CFO and 500% for the CEO, over a period of no more than five years. It is considered that a shareholding policy aligns the interests of the Executive to that of the shareholder. The Annual Bonus is deferred. Claw-back provisions are attached to the annual bonus. The deferral period attached to the Annual Bonus is in line with best practice as half of the bonus is deferred in shares over at least one year. The performance period for the LTIP is less than five years and is therefore not considered sufficiently long-term. Claw-back provisions are in place over long-term incentive plans. However, recipients of the award are required to hold their vested shares for at least a further two years, which is welcomed.

Chief Executive. On 7 June 2024, it was noted that the litigation involving Standard Chartered relates to claims brought by 226 shareholders of the company. The claimants allege they incurred losses amounting to approximately £1.45 billion due to untrue or misleading statements and omissions in information disclosed by the company to the market. These allegations give rise to claims under sections 90 and 90A of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 ("FSMA"). Given the substantial preparatory work still required, the judge ordered that the trial be postponed to October 2026, expressing doubt that the parties would be ready for proceedings to begin in January 2026. In light of the ongoing potential reputational damage associated with the allegations and the prolonged lead-up to the trial, it is considered that the CEO, as the most senior executive director, holds responsibility for addressing these concerns. 11. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. In addition, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Furthermore, there are no claw back clauses in place, which is against best practices. Opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

14. Authorise the Board to Repurchase own Shares, Warrants and Convertibles

The Share Buyback proposal is conducted at a price greater than a 5% premium to the prevailing market price. We consider this to be an excessive premium that may not represent a prudent use of shareholder capital. Paying significantly above market value for shares can result in an inefficient allocation of resources and may not deliver value to long-term shareholders. In our view, capital would be better deployed elsewhere in the business or returned through more equitable means. Opposition is recommended.

The Board proposes the approval of a new equity-based incentive plan. Under the plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest over a three-year period. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clearly performance criteria and conditions. On balance, opposition is recommended.

8d. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout is in line with best practice, under 200% of the fixed salary. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. The participant's right to acquire shares is conditional upon all terms and conditions of the Company's performance stock option plan 2025 being fulfilled. DEXCOM INC AGM - 08-05-2025

1a.. Elect Kevin Sayer - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

3. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

4. Approval Of Grant Of Executive Incentive Scheme Awards To CEO & Managing Director

The Board is seeking shareholder approval for the purposes of ASX Listing Rule 10.14, to grant a total of AUD 8,494,000 in Variable Annual Reward (VAR) to CEO and Managing Director Ms Meg O'Neill for the 2024 performance year. AUD 4,247,000 will be delivered as 177,117 Restricted Shares, subject to service conditions over three, four, and five-year deferral periods. An additional AUD 2,548,200 will be delivered as 106,271 Performance Rights, which are subject to a five-year relative total shareholder return (RTSR) performance hurdle. The remaining A$1,698,800 will be paid in cash. This corresponds to more than 200% of the fixed salary, together with other components of the variable remuneration, which is considered to be excessive. Opposition is recommended.

ECOLAB INC. AGM - 08-05-2025

1c.. Re-elect Christophe Beck - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

4.. Amend Articles: Liability of Certain Officers

It is proposed that the Restated Certificate of Incorporation of the company, is amended, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation]. The Board seeks authority to amend the articles, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. Article VII of the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (Certificate) currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonize corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives, may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are however more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuading shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

The authority is limited to 10.9% of the Company's issued share capital and expires at the next AGM. PIRC considers that Contingent Convertible Securities (or CoCos) are not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. CoCos are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that CoCos may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in the banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. Recent events at Deutsche Bank has led to others voicing their concerns about the destabilizing effect of CoCos on both the CoCo price and the share price.

4. Approve Adoption of Anti-takeover Measure (poison pill)

It is proposed to approve amendments to the amended and restated shareholder rights plan.

This authority is considered to be counter to the best interests of shareholders. The poison pill enables management to offer warrants to shareholders during a period of public offer thus implying a threat of dilution to potential acquirers of the company. While this may cause potential acquirers to negotiate with the Board, it may also potentially prevent hostile takeovers and entrench management. Opposition is recommended.

CME GROUP INC. AGM - 08-05-2025

1a.. Elect Terrence A. Duffy - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

Independent Non-Executive Director and Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 2.. Amend Charter allowing for Officer Exculpation

It is proposed to amend the Company's Charter to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation. The charter currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonise corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are however a more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

3.. Approve Second Amended and Restated 2018 Stock Incentive Plan

It is proposed to approve a stock option plan for employees and corporate officers. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. There seem to be no performance criteria besides employment and tenure.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clearly performance criteria and conditions. On balance, opposition is recommended.

14. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy with a binding vote. Variable remuneration does not seem to be consistently capped and as such there are excessiveness concerns as the total potential variable remuneration may exceed 200% of the salary. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw-back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

16. Approve Issue of Shares for Contribution in Kind

It is proposed to authorise the board to transfer company's own shares, on one or several occasions prior to the next Annual General Meeting. The shares may only be transferred in conjunction with the financing of company acquisitions and other types of strategic investments and acquisitions, and the transfers may not exceed the maximum number of treasury shares held by the company at any given time. Transfer of own shares can also be made in another manner in conjunction with the acquisition of companies or operations, where transfer of own shares may be made with deviation from the shareholders' preferential rights. Payment for shares transferred in this manner may be made in cash or through a non-cash issue or offsetting of claims against the company, or on other specific terms.

This authority is not requested in connection with a particular operation and has not been duly justified by the Company. Opposition is therefore recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

17. Resolution on an authorisation for the board of directors to resolve on the issuance of shares, warrants and convertibles

The board seeks authority to issue convertible bonds and to exclude subscription rights for a nominal amount corresponding to more than 10% of the share capital and for five years. As the authority would also include bonds convertible and without pre-emptive rights, the amount under this authority exceeds guidelines for issues of shares without pre-emptive rights.

Vote Cast: Oppose

19. Issuance of Shares for Existing Incentive Plan

The board requests approval for alternate hedging arrangements in order to fund the new incentive plan, allowing shares to be issued under the long term incentive program. This is considered to be an enabling proposal. As it was recommended that shareholders vote against the long term incentive plan, it is recommended that shareholders oppose the proposal.

Vote Cast: Oppose

20. Shareholder Resolution: Corporate Relocation.

Proponent's argument: The resolution calls for relocating the company's corporate domicile to the United States, pursuing a Nasdaq listing, stabilising share value through aggressive buybacks, and making a substantial political donation to the Trump administration. The proposal further argues that a Nasdaq listing would "increase the company's attractiveness among international investors and institutional funds" and improve global visibility. In a highly contentious suggestion, the proponent advises that Evolution AB "donate SEK 1 billion to Donald Trump's administration to promote lobbying" and regulatory access in all 50 U.S. states - a measure they claim could "significantly strengthen Evolution AB's market position". To counter share price volatility, the shareholder also proposes a buyback programme underwritten by borrowing, stating: "buying all shares trading below [SEK] 800... would help strengthen confidence in the share and protect shareholders' investments". The rationale is financial and strategic in tone, citing benefits like "freed up capital for investments and dividends," improved liquidity, and a shield against adverse political environments outside the U.S.

Company's response: At the time this reports has been drafted, the company has made no comments regarding this shareholder resolution.

PIRC Recommendation: This resolution is inappropriate and significantly overreaches acceptable shareholder influence on corporate strategy. While proposals around U.S. market expansion or exploring a Nasdaq listing could merit discussion, the mechanisms advocated - especially the SEK 1 billion donation to a political administration - constitute a severe breach of expected corporate neutrality and governance norms. Additionally, the proposal to stabilise share price through a guaranteed floor enforced by buybacks funded via debt is highly irregular and financially irresponsible. It would expose the company to unnecessary risk and potential regulatory scrutiny, as market manipulation concerns may arise. Opposition is recommended.

1b.. Elect Lisa A. Payne - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board. The Chair is not considered independent owing to a tenure of more than nine years. In addition, the director has a cross directorship with another director. Ms Payne and Mr Parfet both serve as Directors on the Board of Rockwell Automation, Inc. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

As the Chair of the Sustainability Committee is not up for election, the Chair of the Board is considered accountable for the Company's sustainability programme. As such, given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

While this is considered acceptable, there is concerns surrounding the Company's remuneration policy as a whole. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the pay-out may exceed 200% of the fixed remuneration for the highest paid director. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which may lead to overpayment against underperformance. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. Nevertheless, opposition is recommended based on potential excessive variable remuneration and absence of quantified targets.

7. Amend Articles

It is proposed to amend the articles to tie in with legal and regulatory requirements in relation to treasury shares, to set out the related powers of the Board and the Chair and to remove the age limit of directors. It is also proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. 5.. Shareholder Resolution: Revisit Plastic Packaging Policies

Proponent: National Legal and Policy Center

Proponent's argument: Shareholders request the Board to (re-)examine its plastic production and packaging policies in light of non-biased, objectively verifiable, scientifically accurate, and economically thorough research. It would be best if a quantifiable assessment of fact-based potential policy changes versus current practices. Shareholder argue the following: "In recent years activist shareholders have sponsored proposals at various companies that urge them to address an alleged "plastics pollution crisis,"¹ which is primarily blamed on "single-use plastics" (SUPs), whose production is generated from the even more demonized "fossil fuels." Evidence shows these claims are exaggerated, distorted, or false. [...] An SUP-caused pollution "crisis" is a myth. For example, the "Great Pacific Garbage Patch" does not primarily consist of SUPs, but rather 52 percent consists of fishing nets, lines and ropes. SUPs represent a tiny fraction of the problem. Plastic pollution is primarily the result of poor disposal practices, not production."

Company's response: The board recommended a vote against this proposal. The board argues the following: "We are committed to transparent sustainability reporting, having published an annual sustainability report for more than a decade. The report is currently titled the "Sustainability & Social Impact Report" and is made available on our corporate website. It includes detailed information about our 2025 Sustainability & Social Impact Strategy (including our ambitions, the actions and targets that support our ambitions and our progress against those targets), sustainability governance and stakeholder engagement. In the section of the report entitled "Preserving Our Environment" we elaborate on our plastic production and packaging policies, including our goals, progress against our goals and partnerships. Our existing plastic production and packaging policies are based on objective scientific research and our existing disclosures provide our stockholders the information they need to assess our efforts and progress. Therefore, the re-examination and report requested by the proponent would be an unnecessary use of time and resources without providing any meaningful additional information. Given our existing rigorous processes and public disclosure in this area, the Board does not believe that implementing this proposal would benefit our stockholders."

PIRC analysis: The proponent presents a politically charged counter-narrative that disputes established scientific consensus around plastic pollution, downplaying the role of SUPs in environmental degradation. While the proposal advocates for cost-benefit analysis and claims to support "objectively verifiable" research, it selectively cites sources that align with a deregulatory agenda and disregards the widely recognized lifecycle impacts of plastic use. Conversely, the company has demonstrated a robust and transparent approach to plastic waste reduction, grounded in reputable science and supported by independent partnerships. It provides detailed sustainability disclosures, incorporates material circularity principles, and ties environmental improvements to economic benefits—a practice aligned with shareholder interests and good environmental governance. While scrutiny of environmental claims is legitimate, this proposal appears ideologically motivated and misaligned with best practice standards for ESG oversight. It would duplicate existing processes without offering clear shareholder value.

10.1. Approval of the Aggregate Amount of Variable Short-Term Compensation for the Executive Committee for 2024

The Board of Directors proposes to approve an aggregate amount of variable short-term compensation under the Lonza Bonus plan for the Executive Committee for the financial year 2024 of CHF 5,067,000.

Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the payout may exceed 200% of fixed salary. In addition, the Company has not disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw-back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On these grounds, opposition is recommended.

10.2. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to fix the remuneration of members of the Executive Committee for the 2025 financial year at CHF F 25.6 million. The Company submitted two separate proposals for Executives fixed and variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, quantified targets were not made available. In addition, the total variable remuneration may lead to excessive payments. LTIP based schemes are inherently flawed. There is the risk that they are rewarding volatility rather than the performance of the company. They act as a complex and opaque hedge against absolute company underperformance and long-term share price falls. They are also a significant factor in reward for failure. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

1f.. Elect Lawton W. Fitt - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee. The Chair is not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Nominating and Governance Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

As the Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

2. Approve Remuneration Policy

The proposed changes include: i) Removal of the USD 1.1 million cap on the CEO's salary, and ii) Consolidation of the strategic/personal and ESG components in the executive directors' annual cash bonus into a single category with a combined weighting of 30% (currently 15% each).

Total potential variable remuneration for Directors is set at 600% of base salary-significantly exceeding the recommended maximum of 200% and thus considered excessive. Under the LTIP, awards are subject to a three-year performance period, which falls short of being considered genuinely long-term, despite the inclusion of a two-year post-vesting holding period. Award recipients may receive additional payments, in either cash or shares, equivalent to dividends that would have been paid during the vesting period. This arrangement is misaligned with shareholder interests, as shareholders must purchase shares to receive dividends, while participants in the scheme are rewarded without such investment. Although malus and clawback provisions are in place, the Company does not engage employees in consultations on executive remuneration. Shareholding requirements for executives are at an acceptable level.

In cases of employment termination, the annual bonus may be awarded at the discretion of the Board, following a recommendation from the Remuneration Committee. This level of discretion is inconsistent with best practice, as it undermines the integrity and predictability of remuneration policy. For individuals classified as 'good leavers,' long-term awards may continue to vest on their original schedule, subject to performance conditions. However, the option to waive time-based pro-rating for service duration is inappropriate and weakens the link between reward and actual contribution.

The Company is seeking approval of a replacement plan, the Company's 2025 Discretionary Free Share Scheme (the "2025 DFSS") in relation to future awards. It is currently anticipated that awards will be granted under the 2025 DFSS as long term incentives to approximately 4,600 employees in the UK and overseas including the executive directors of the Company. The RemCo may grant Awards over Shares to eligible individuals. An Award (other than a Deferred Share Bonus Award) granted to an eligible individual may not exceed 500% of that individual's annual remuneration. Annual remuneration for these purposes means the higher of (i) basic salary paid by the Group expressed as an annual rate as at the Award grant date; and (ii) basic salary paid by the Group for the period of 12 months ending on the last day of the month immediately preceding the month in which the Award grant date falls. The Remuneration Committee may impose performance conditions on the vesting of Awards. Where performance conditions are specified for Awards, the underlying measurement period for such conditions will ordinarily be three years. Except in certain circumstances, an Award will lapse immediately upon an Award holder ceasing to be employed by or holding office with the Group.

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

5. Approve Terms for Share Repurchase Agreements

Introduction & Background: Royalty Pharma is seeking shareholder approval to enter into agreements and designate counterparties for the potential repurchase of its Class A ordinary shares. This resolution is a standard corporate mechanism for listed companies aiming to create financial flexibility and return capital to shareholders under appropriate circumstances. By approving this resolution, shareholders enable the company to proactively manage its capital structure, support the share price, and potentially enhance shareholder value through buybacks.

Proposal: The resolution asks shareholders to approve the terms of any agreements and selection of counterparties through which the company may repurchase its own Class A ordinary shares. The repurchase arrangements would be implemented within the framework permitted by law and in accordance with market conditions and company strategy. It does not mandate immediate buybacks but grants the Board the authority to execute them when considered beneficial.

Rationale: While the Board frames this resolution as a tool for capital flexibility, concerns persist regarding its broad scope. The proposal lacks a clearly defined cap on the volume or value of shares that may be repurchased, raising questions about unchecked discretion. Additionally, there is no requirement for ongoing shareholder consultation or transparency once the authority is granted, potentially allowing substantial buybacks without investor oversight. These factors may undermine governance standards and dilute shareholder trust in how capital is allocated. Clarity on strategic intent, limits, and reporting commitments would be needed to mitigate these concerns.

Recommendation: Based on these concerns, opposition is recommended.

6a. Re-elect Pablo Legorreta - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

6g. Re-elect David Hodgson - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director. Chair of the Management Development and Compensation Committee. It is considered that the Chair of the Management Development and Compensation Committee is responsible for Remuneration at the Company, and owing to concerns with the company's remuneration report, opposition is recommended.

6h. Re-elect Ted Love - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director. Chair of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall. Additionally, at this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the Chair of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee is responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Opposition is recommended.

It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy. Variable remuneration does not seem to be consistently capped and as such there are excessiveness concerns as the total potential variable remuneration may exceed 200% of the salary. In addition, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, based on these concerns, opposition is recommended.

11. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the report on the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 5.. Shareholder Resolution: Remove Emissions Reduction Targets

Proponent: National Legal and Policy Center (NLPC)

Proponent's argument: Shareholders request the Company to remove all emissions reduction targets covering greenhouse gas emissions of the Company's operations and energy products. Shareholders argue the following: "ConocoPhillips's embrace of politically-driven climate alarmism will destroy shareholder resources both in the short and long run. The Company has only two paths to reduce greenhouse gas emissions: investing in carbon capture and storage technology, or reducing oil and gas production. CCS projects are unprofitable without government subsidies, which are unlikely to remain in their current form under the new presidential administration. That leaves the Company with one path: reducing oil and gas investment. ConocoPhillips has always been an oil and gas company; Reducing production would destroy shareholder resources."

Company's response: The board recommended a vote against this proposal. The board argues the following: "ConocoPhillips continues to be guided by our value proposition of superior returns to stockholders through price cycles while executing against our Triple Mandate, which sets out three objectives to align our actions with the underlying realities of our business and demonstrates our commitment to create long-term value for our stockholders. [...] We regularly meet with stockholders on a variety of topics, including our climate-related risks and associated target framework. In recent years, during these engagements, an overwhelming majority of stockholders have expressed support for our GHG target framework as well as our actions to reduce Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions. We have had consistent support from stockholders on our approach to target setting, dating back to our first target set in 2017. [...] Our recent acquisition of Marathon Oil fits within our target framework and is fully aligned with our commitment to develop assets that have a low cost of supply and low GHG intensity, as these are most likely to compete in any future energy transition pathway. Because our 2030 targets are set on an intensity basis, we are able to respond to our sector's dynamic business environment where plans, technology, prices, industry structure and costs all change rapidly."

PIRC Recommendation: The proposal reflects an ideological rejection of mainstream climate science and responsible climate governance. Removing emissions reduction targets would significantly undermine the company's ability to manage climate-related financial risk, respond to regulatory shifts, and meet stakeholder expectations-particularly institutional investors increasingly prioritizing climate risk disclosure and mitigation. The proponent fails to provide a credible or constructive alternative to managing GHG emissions, and the argument that climate strategy is purely political is inconsistent with current global regulatory, reputational, and market pressures. ConocoPhillips's framework, while imperfect, represents a pragmatic and shareholder-aligned attempt to navigate energy transition risks. Additionally, the company's use of intensity-based targets allows operational flexibility while encouraging emissions efficiency, which is a widely accepted approach among energy peers.

Non-Executive Chair of the Board, member of the Audit Committee, Management Development and Compensation Committee, and Nominating and Governance Committee. The Chair is not considered to be independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Furthermore, it is considered that all of these committees should be comprised exclusively

There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. In terms of best practice, it is considered that both these committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members. Furthermore, at this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. 2.. Approve All 1997 Stock Award and Incentive Plan

It is proposed to approve a stock award and incentive plan for employees and corporate officers. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. After allotment, shares will be restricted for three years, which is not considered to be sufficiently long term. The Company states that exercise of shares will be based on targets, which at this time remain undisclosed.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clear performance criteria, targets and conditions. The annual report was made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are concerns surrounding the sustainability policies and practice at the company and the lack of board level accountability for sustainability issues. Therefore, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks. These concerns should have been addressed in the annual report submitted to shareholders, however the annual report fails to address these concerns adequately and therefore this resolution cannot be supported.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

Total variable pay could reach 425% of salary, which is deemed excessive as it exceeds the 200% threshold. Under the Annual Bonus, 50% continues to be deferred into shares while an Executive Director is building their minimum shareholding requirement (300% of base salary for the CEO and 200% for the CFO). Under the Performance Share Plan (PSP), the continued absence of non-financial parameters to assess executives' long-term performance remains contrary to best practice. Such parameters are critical in aligning the remuneration policy with the broader operational performance of the business and recognising the unique roles of each executive. Financial metrics are generally beyond the control of individual directors. The PSP continues to operate with a three-year performance period, which is not considered sufficiently long-term; however, the two-year holding period that follows is welcomed.

No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters.

5. Amend Articles: Limit Liability of Certain Officers

It is proposed that the Restated Certificate of Incorporation of Juniper, is amended, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding officer exculpation]. The Board seeks authority to amend the articles, to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. Article VII of the Company's Certificate of Incorporation (Certificate) currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonize corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives, may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are however more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuading shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

1.3. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

5.2. Approve Authority to Increase Authorised Share Capital

It is proposed to approve the capital range, and disapply pre-emptive rights for a portion of this range. Under the revised Swiss corporate law, shareholders may authorise the Board of Directors to increase or reduce the authorised share capital within a certain range, for a period of up to five years. The board has proposed a capital range of CHF 336,976,365 and CHF 382,095,105, to last for five years following the date of the upcoming meeting. The duration of the authority exceeds 12 months, and it is considered that shareholders should have the opportunity to vote on any exclusion of pre-emption rights annually. As the time limit for the exclusion of pre-emptive rights exceeds guidelines, opposition is recommended.

SUN COMMUNITIES INC AGM - 13-05-20251a.. *Elect Gary A. Shiffman - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

1c.. Elect Meghan G. Baivier - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee and member of the Audit Committee.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Opposition is recommended.

At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. 7.1. Resolution on Revocation and Creation of Authorized Capital I for Cash Contributions With Option to Exclude Subscription Rights for Fractional Shares and Amendment of Section 4(5)

Resolution 7.1 proposes the revocation of the current Authorized Capital I, which expires shortly after the AGM, and its replacement with a new authorization valid until May 12, 2030. The new Authorized Capital I would allow the Executive Board, with Supervisory Board approval, to increase SAP's capital stock by up to €250 million through the issuance of new shares against cash contributions. Shareholders generally retain subscription rights, but these may be excluded for fractional shares. The exclusion is limited such that newly issued shares without subscription rights must not exceed 10% of share capital.

The authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, our guidelines recommend that authority should not exceed 18 months. Shorter timeframes can help maintain management's accountability to shareholders by requiring them to obtain renewed approval on a regular basis. It gives shareholders the opportunity to review the company's financial position, strategy, and rationale for further buybacks in light of evolving circumstances.

Resolution 7.2 seeks to replace the current Authorized Capital II with a new version, also valid until May 12, 2030, allowing the issuance of shares worth up to €250 million against cash or in kind contributions. It provides broader flexibility, including the ability to exclude shareholder subscription rights in specific cases, such as for fractional shares, to grant shares to holders of convertible bonds, for cash capital increases at near-market prices (up to 10% of share capital), for mergers and acquisitions, and to implement scrip dividends. These exclusions aim to preserve transaction speed, efficiency, and strategic flexibility, while a 10% overall cap helps protect shareholder interests from dilution.

20c. Authorise Share Repurchase: Class C

Authority is sought to repurchase preference shares (Class C shares) of all preference shares issued. Preference shares typically enjoy privileges such as higher dividends and priority in capital repayment, but often carry fewer or no voting rights. In this case, however, the repurchased Class C shares are not intended for cancellation, but rather for reclassification into Class B shares to fund the Long-Term Incentive Plan (LTI 2025) and previous LTIs. As the LTI and related share issuances were previously opposed, consistent opposition to this resolution is recommended.

20d. Reclassification of Class C Preference Shares into Class B Ordinary Shares

It is proposed to reclassify repurchased Class C preference shares into Class B ordinary shares for use in fulfilling obligations under the Long-Term Incentive Programme (LTI 2025) and earlier incentive plans. Class C shares carry limited or no voting rights and were created solely for incentive funding purposes. Upon reclassification, each resulting Class B share will carry one vote and full economic rights, aligning with the structure of ordinary share capital. However, as the reclassified shares will be used to fund an LTI plan previously opposed, opposition to this resolution is recommended.

20e. Resolution on the Sale of Own Class B shares

18. Issue Bonds

It is proposed to issue additional Tier 1 capital bonds, at an interest rate to be determined with reference to market interest rates.

The use of Tier 1 capital bonds are not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. Such instrument are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that they may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentivises equity investors from putting more new funds in to banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. 3M COMPANY AGM - 13-05-2025

1b.. Elect Thomas Tony K. Brown - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee and Member of the Audit Committee. Not considered to be independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Nomination Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure. Opposition is recommended.

MACFARLANE GROUP PLC AGM - 13-05-2025

2. Approve the Remuneration Report

Disclosure: All elements of the Single Total Remuneration Table are adequately disclosed. The CEO did not see a salary increase in the year under review, in line with the wider workforce. The CEO's salary is in the median of PIRC's comparator group.

Balance: The CEO's total variable pay was 111.06% of the fixed salary, which is within guidelines. The CEO's pay ratio was 23:1, which is deemed somewhat excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 20:1.

Rating: AC

Based on this rating, Abstention would be recommended, however, this resolution received significant opposition of over 10% at the previous year's AGM, and there has been no statement from the Company explaining how they addressed this issue with Shareholders. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

Proposed changes to the policy include increasing the maximum possible award for the PSP from 100% to 150% of the fixed salary, adding a second performance metric of relative TSR for the PSP, as well as increasing the share ownership guidelines from 100% to 150% of the fixed salary. This would allow the maximum variable remuneration for the Executive Directors to reach 250% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended total of 200%. It would be considered best practise for at least half of the annual bonus to defer into shares for a period of at least three years. The performance period for the PSP is three years, which is deemed overly short-term, however, an additional holding period of two years applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The absence of non-financial performance metrics on the PSP is considered contrary to best practise. Malus and clawback apply to all aspects of the variable pay.

It would also be preferred that companies appoint directors from the workforce rather than designate a non-executive director (NED). Support will be recommended for the election or re-election of designated NEDs provided that no significant employment relations issues have been identified.

Non-Executive Chair of the Board and member of the Compensation and Talent and Nominating/Corporate Governance Committees. The Chair is not considered to be independent due to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Also, in terms of best practice, it is considered that these committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

1e.. Elect Jeffrey W. Martin - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

4.. Amend Articles to Increase the Authorised Shares of Common Stock

The board proposes to amend the Company's Articles of Incorporation to increase the number of authorised shares of common stock from 2.25 billion to 4.0 billion shares. Currently, 347,771,621 of the authorised shares of common stock remain available for issuance. The board argues that the additional shares provide flexibility for future corporate actions, such as Equity compensation plans, Fundraising via stock issuance, Mergers, acquisitions, and other strategic transactions. The company's reasoning for this increase is insufficient and does not provide a detailed explanation for the need to increase the authorised share capital by 77.78%. Furthermore, there are concerns regarding the potential dilutive effect that this proposal may have. On balance, opposition is recommended.

5.. Amend Articles to Limit the Liability of Officers as Permitted by Delaware Law

The Board seeks authority to amend the articles to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. The Company's Certificate of Incorporation currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonise corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives may cause significantly higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are a more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. Opposition is recommended.

4.. Appoint the Auditors

PwC proposed. Non-audit fees represented 1.55% of audit fees during the year under review and 3.77% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than ten years. FIRST SOLAR INC AGM - 14-05-2025

1.1. Elect Michael J. Ahearn - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board. The Chair is not considered independent as he previously served as the Company's CEO and Executive Chair. In addition, he is not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

1.3. Elect Lisa A. Kro - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Audit Committee.

At the company, the Audit Committee does not oversee the whistle-blowing hotline. This may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalated which may mean the issue is concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure. Opposition is recommended.

1.4. Elect William J. Post - Lead Director

Lead Director and member of Compensation and Nominating and Governance Committees. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that a Lead Director should be independent, in order to fulfil the responsibilities assigned to that role, irrespective of the level of independence of the Board. In terms of best practice, it is considered that Compensation and Nominating and Governance Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members. Regardless of the independent representation on the Board as a whole, opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

Results: For: 84.8, Abstain: 0.3, Oppose/Withhold: 14.9,

1.6. Elect Paul H. Stebbins - Non-Executive Director

Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee and member of Audit and Compensation Committees. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Nominating and Governance, Audit and Compensation Committees should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nominating and Governance Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of nomination committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

As the Chair of the Nominating and Governance Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

1.2. Advisory vote on the compensation report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

Vote Cast: Oppose

Results: For: 92.4, Abstain: 0.6, Oppose/Withhold: 7.0,

1.4. Advisory vote on the climate report

Governance

The policy does not list the chair as responsible for the climate strategy. Company management and the sustainability committee hold collective responsibility, which is considered insufficiently focussed for effective execution of policy and for overall accountability.

There is adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonisation on the board of directors, including at least one non-executive director with significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is no evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board or senior management of climate-related issues, most relevantly decarbonization.

The company has pledged to review or end membership of trade associations or industry environmental lobbying groups, where these pursue goals or advertise actions contrary to the company's climate strategy.

Disclosure

The company climate strategy for the overall required energy transition includes a defined timeline, by which progress in emission reductions can be measured.

The company's targets are in line with a plan to limit global warming to 1.5 degrees when compared to pre-industrial levels. This is considered to be best practice, and represents one of the more resilient scenarios.

The company has committed to net zero by 2050 but this commitment only extends to part of its Scope 1, Scope 2 and Scope 3 emissions. This is considered to be inconsistent with an adequate commitment to a full energy transition, as shareholders are unable to make an informed assessment on the material efforts to reduce emissions and increase the resilience of the company in the long term.

6.2. Compensation of the Executive Committee for the 2026 financial year

It is proposed to approve the prospective remuneration for members of the Executive Management of the Company, which means that the proposed amount will not be the actual amount to be paid, but only the total remuneration cap. The voting outcome of this resolution will be binding for the Company.

It is proposed to fix the remuneration of members of the Executive Committee for the financial year 2025 at CHF 32 million. This proposal includes fixed and variable remuneration components.

There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which may lead to overpayment against underperformance. On balance, opposition is recommended based on excessiveness concerns.

RATIONAL AG AGM - 14-05-2025

4. Approve Discharge of Supervisory Board for 2024

Standard proposal. Although no wrongdoing has been identified, the company's sustainability policies and practice are not considered to be adequate in order to minimise material risks linked to sustainability and the agenda does not include a vote on the annual report or the financial statements. As such, opposition is recommended on the discharge.

Additionally, the level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. The EU Directive 2022/2381 on improving gender balance on corporate boards sets an EU-wide mandate, requiring that by June 2026, listed companies must have at least 40% of non-executive director positions occupied by the historically underrepresented gender-or alternatively, 33% of all board seats if member states opt for that alternative.

This directive is pushing member states toward a uniform standard that reinforces gender diversity across Europe. As this standard is not met, opposition is recommended.

5. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout is in line with best practice, being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Balance: The CEO's total variable pay for the year under review was 168.61% of the fixed salary, which is within guidelines. The CEO's pay ratio for the year under review was 39:1, which is beyond the recommended limit of 20:1.

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Chair of the Nomination Committee. The chair holds another chair position at a listed company, which raises time commitment concerns. It is considered that the chair should be able to wholly dedicate their time to the company in times of company crisis. The COVID pandemic has shown that there are times when multiple unrelated companies will require the Chair's full attention in order to be able to handle times of crisis. It is considered that there is insufficient time to be able to effectively chair two or more companies at the same time. For this reason, abstention is recommended.

ENI SPA AGM - 14-05-2025

1. Approve Financial Statements

The financial statements were made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are some concerns surrounding the board-level governance of sustainability issues, policies and practice. As such, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red (+), indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company has failed to set emissions targets credibly aligned to a 1.5C or below 2C pathway. As the Board Chair and Sustainability Committee Chair not up for re-election, it is recommended to oppose the financial statements.

The Board proposes the approval of a new incentive plan. Under the plan, the CEO and other executives will be awarded options or rights to receive shares, which will start vesting after three years from the date of award. At this time, it seems that this plan will not be based on any performance criteria but only on the beneficiaries continued employment. It is proposed to distribute EUR 1.05 per share from reserves, including share premium, to be paid in 4 tranches. Although legal in this market, it is considered that the share premium account should be moved into distributable reserves through a reduction of capital, and it should not be used as distributable reserve per se. 8. Reduction and use of the reserve pursuant to Law 342/2000 for and in place of the 2025 dividend

The Shareholders' Remuneration Policy is based on the close correlation between the Brent price level and company performance. While there are no serious concerns with these dividends from distributable reserves, it is of concern that shareholders are remunerated based on the Brent price level, which is in apparent contradiction with the just transition and does not link shareholders' remuneration with the energy transition, rather with a business segment (fossil fuels) which is risky and may see increasing costs in the medium term. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

TRAVIS PERKINS PLC AGM - 14-05-2025

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

The proposed change to the Remuneration Policy is replacing the current Restricted Share Plan with a Performance Share Plan (PSP), which has a maximum opportunity of 250% and for 2025 will be based on EPS, ROCE and relative TSR in equal measures. The maximum total of variable pay for the Executive Directors is 430% of the fixed salary, which is deemed excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. Half of the Annual Bonus earned will defer into shares for a period of three years, which is in line with best practise. For the PSP, the performance period is three-years, which is deemed overly short-term, however, an additional holding period of two-years applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The lack of non-financial performance metrics for the PSP is however deemed contrary to best practise. Malus and clawback provisions apply to all aspects of the variable pay.

11. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. Given the duration exceeds the typical 18-month limit, opposition is recommended.

SNAM SPA AGM - 14-05-2025

0040. Approve All Employee Stock Ownership Plan

It is proposed to approve a sStock Ownership Plan for employees and corporate officers. The Board would receive the authority to set beneficiaries and other conditions. There seem to be no performance criteria besides employment and tenure.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clearly performance criteria and conditions. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the pay-out may exceed 200% of the fixed remuneration for the highest paid director. The Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for its variable remuneration component, which may lead to overpayment against underperformance. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 24. Authorise Issue of Equity in Relation to an Issue of RT1 Instruments

Authority is sought to allot shares and grant rights to subscribe for or to convert any security into ordinary shares in the Company up to an aggregate nominal amount of GBP 23,250,000, representing approximately 16% of the Company's issued ordinary share capital as at 23 March 2025, such authority to be exercised in connection with the issue of Restricted Tier 1 (RT1) instruments. The authority expires at the next AGM. The Company explains that this authority is needed so that the Company has the flexibility to manage and maintain its and the Group's capital structure more effectively in the light of evolving regulatory capital requirements, market conditions and appetite for different instruments and their cost-effectiveness.

The use of Contingent Convertible Securities (or CoCos) is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. CoCos are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that CoCos may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentivises equity investors from putting more new funds in to banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. Based on these concerns, an oppose vote is recommended.

5.. Amend Articles to Limit the Liability of Officers as Permitted by Delaware Law

The Board seeks authority to amend the articles to reflect new Delaware law provisions regarding the exculpation of officers. The Company's Certificate of Incorporation currently provides for the Company to limit the monetary liability of directors in certain circumstances pursuant to and consistent with the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). The State of Delaware recently amended Section 102(b)(7) of the DGCL to allow Delaware corporations to extend similar protections to officers. Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonise corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives may cause significantly higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are a more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. Opposition is recommended.

15. Approve the Marshalls plc 2025 Management Incentive Plan (the "MIP")

The Board proposes the approval of a new equity-based incentive plan. Under the MIP A plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest 50% into cash and 50% into shares or share-linked units over a three-year period, with the participant receiving the deferred share balance in the fourth year of the plan. For the MIP B plan, there is a three-year performance period, which is deemed overly short-term, however, an additional holding period of two years applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. Performance targets have been quantified at this time, which is above market practice. However, the potential total reward raises excessiveness concerns on aggregate. Opposition is recommended.

1.3. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. There are concerns regarding excess as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary. In addition, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. Furthermore, there are no claw back clauses in place, which is against best practices. Opposition is recommended.

4. Amend Article 3: Capital Range

It is proposed to amend the articles in order to introduce a capital range of authorised conditional share capital, and disapply pre-emptive rights for a portion of this range. Under the revised Swiss corporate law, shareholders may authorise the Board of Directors to increase or reduce the authorised share capital within a certain range, for a period of up to five years. The board has proposed a capital range of CHF 659,293,565 and CHF 805,803,246, to last for five years following the date of the upcoming meeting. The restriction of pre-emption rights does not exceed 10% of share capital. However, the duration of the authority exceeds 12 months. It is considered that shareholders should have the opportunity to vote on any exclusion of pre-emption rights annually. As the time limit for the exclusion of pre-emptive rights exceeds guidelines, opposition is recommended.

It is considered that both the Nomination Committee and Remuneration Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members.

It is proposed to approve the prospective remuneration for members of the Executive Management of the Company, which means that the proposed amount will not be the actual amount to be paid, but only the total remuneration cap. The voting outcome of this resolution will be binding for the Company.

It is proposed to fix the remuneration of members of the Executive Committee until next AGM at CHF 37.0 million. This proposal includes fixed and variable remuneration components.

Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the payout may exceed 200% of fixed salary. In addition, the Company has not disclosed quantified targets for the performance criteria of its variable remuneration component, which as a consequence may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw-back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out.

8. Amend Articles: Virtual Only Meetings Until 2027

It is proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

PwC proposed. No non-audit fees were paid during the year under review and 16.85% was paid on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than five years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor.

3. Approve Remuneration Policy

The proposed changes to executive remuneration include increasing the CEO's annual bonus opportunity from 250% to 300% of salary and the RSP award from 125% to 200% of salary. For the CFO and Group General Counsel (GGC), the RSP opportunity will rise from 125% to 150%. The minimum shareholding requirement will be raised from 300% to 400% of salary for the CEO, and from 200% to 300% for the CFO and GGC. The Remuneration Committee intends to maintain the current policy of deferring 50% of the annual bonus into shares, but will have the discretion to reduce this to 25% for Executive Directors who have met their minimum shareholding requirement. Overall, disclosure is considered adequate. The CEO's total variable pay could reach 500% of salary, while for other executives it could reach 350%. Half of the annual bonus will be delivered in shares and deferred for three years, though this may be reduced to a 25% deferral once shareholding guidelines are met. The RSP award vests at the end of a three years period in line with market practice, this is not regarded as sufficiently long-term; however, a two-year post-vesting holding period is welcomed. Malus and clawback provisions apply to all variable pay components.

20. Approve the TP ICAP Group plc Global Employee Share Purchase Plan (GESPP)

It is proposed to the shareholders to approve the TP ICAP Group plc Global Employee Share Purchase Plan (GESPP). Under the plan eligible to participate are the employees (including employed Executive Directors) of participating companies. Three types of award may be offered under the GESPP: i) investment shares ("Investment Shares"), ii) matching share awards and iii) free share awards. The Board has absolute discretion as to what type of award may be offered and can offer or grant awards at any time, subject to any restrictions on dealings or transactions in securities ("Dealing Restrictions"). No awards may be granted after the termination of the GESPP. Awards may be settled using newly issued Shares, Shares transferred from treasury and/or Shares purchased in the market. The Board can choose to grant Matching Share Awards and Free Share Awards as phantom awards, so that they are a conditional right to receive a cash sum in the future linked to the value of a number of notional Shares.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries: it is considered that support should not be given to stock or share option plans that do not lay out clear performance criteria, targets and conditions. 6. Approve Financial Statements and Allocation of Income

The Board seeks shareholders' approval for the consolidated and individual financial statements for the year under review. Disclosure is adequate. The financial statements have been audited and the auditors have not qualified their opinion. The reports have been made available to shareholders sufficiently prior to the date of the general meeting. The Board also proposes to distribute a dividend of USD 0.37 per share, which is covered by earnings. It would be welcomed that the Company submitted the approval of the financial statements and the allocation of income individually, under two separate resolutions.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red (+), indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company has failed to set emissions targets credibly aligned to a 1.5C or below 2C pathway. As such, and as the chair is not up for election, it is recommended to oppose the financial statements.

Governance

The climate policy appears to be adequately linked to the governance of the company overall. The chair is indicated as being responsible for oversight of the climate strategy and members of the senior management have accrued significant experience in climate-related issues within the sector of the company.

There does not appear to be adequate experience and knowledge of climate change and decarbonization on the board of directors, and particularly there is no evidence that any of the directors on the non-executive directors on the board has significant experience of decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company.

There is no evidence of adequate training and learning on the Board or senior management of climate-related issues, most relevantly decarbonization.

The company has not pledged to review or end membership of trade associations or industry environmental lobbying groups, where these pursue goals or advertise actions contrary to the company's climate strategy, which appears inconsistent with its goals and an obstacle to its effectiveness.

Disclosure

The company climate strategy for the overall required energy transition includes a defined timeline, by which progress in emission reductions can be measured. However, its Scope 3 targets are not credibly aligned with a 1.5C pathway, which is not considered adequate.

The company has committed to being carbon neutral by 2050 and includes scopes 1, 2 and 3 emission reductions in this commitment.

The company has not pledged to refrain from financing new plans based on fossil fuels. Fossil fuels financing is risky, with the marginal cost of renewables being cheaper, and energy security being increasingly seen in terms of non-fossil sources.

The concerns above are reinforced by a seeming inadequate experience or knowledge on decarbonisation measures from within the core sector of operations of the company, accompanied by lack of relevant training at board level. On balance, it is recommended to oppose.

9. Shareholder Resolution: Discontinue the Wind Power Business and Decommission all Wind Power Plants

Proponent: Roald Skjoldheim

Proponent's argument: The proposal requests that Equinor immediately cease all involvement in wind power and decommission its existing wind power plants. The proponent supports this request with a variety of concerns centered on economic inefficiency and environmental harm. Among the claims presented are that wind energy has never yielded profit; that turbines rely on toxic hydraulic oil and glycol; that wind farms cause widespread harm to birds, insects, and ecosystems; and that wind turbine blades contribute to microplastic pollution. The proponent also alleges that wind power is unreliable due to its dependence on fluctuating wind conditions, poses safety risks including fire hazards and mechanical failure, and negatively affects the health of nearby humans and animals. In summary, the argument frames wind power as a failed, dangerous, and environmentally damaging energy source, advocating instead for hydropower as a cleaner and more reliable renewable option.

Company's response: Equinor recommends voting against the proposal, emphasizing that offshore wind plays a strategic and valuable role in the global transition to low-carbon energy. The company states that its operational offshore wind projects are profitable and that it expects over a 10% return on equity from its renewables and low-carbon portfolio. While acknowledging economic pressures in the offshore wind sector - such as inflation and supply chain issues - Equinor highlights its counter-cyclical investment strategy and its belief in long-term value creation. The company also addresses environmental concerns by noting ongoing efforts to reduce negative impacts, including initiatives to develop fully circular recycling systems for wind turbine blades. Equinor argues that renewable energy development is essential for reducing global emissions, and that challenges, such as environmental trade-offs and community impacts, are being addressed through sustainable design and continuous improvement. It concludes that exiting wind energy would undermine its climate strategy and competitiveness in renewable markets.

PIRC Recommendation: While environmental and operational risks do exist in all energy sectors, the proponent's arguments rely heavily on generalizations and unsubstantiated claims, and do not reflect the broader consensus on wind energy's role in decarbonization. Wind power remains a vital and scalable renewable solution, particularly offshore, where Equinor holds established expertise and competitive advantage. The company's approach, including targeted investments, recycling initiatives, and a sustainability-focused environmental policy, reflects a commitment to improving the sector's performance and mitigating its downsides. Abruptly abandoning wind energy would undermine shareholder value, contradict global climate imperatives, and ignore existing profitability in Equinor's wind portfolio.

10. Shareholder Resolution: Withdraw From All Offshore Wind Projects and that All Bonus Schemes and Salary Increases Should Be Omitted in 2025 for the Equinor Board Members and Corporate Executive Committee

Proponent: Tom Jacob Dybwad

Proponent's argument: The proposal consists of two parts: (1) that Equinor withdraw from all offshore wind projects globally, and (2) that no bonus schemes or salary increases be granted in 2025 to the Board of Directors or the corporate executive committee. The proponent bases the first point on reported financial risks and potential losses tied to Equinor's offshore wind investments, particularly referencing media coverage regarding the Empire Wind 1 project in the U.S., which suggested the company faces billion-kroner write-downs. The second part of the resolution links these financial risks to management accountability, asserting that remuneration adjustments should be suspended due to these alleged misjudgments. Additionally, the proponent raises environmental concerns about offshore wind, citing negative effects on bird life and marine ecosystems from turbine erosion, including microplastics and toxic substances like PFAS and Bisphenol A, which may accumulate in marine food chains.

Company's response: Equinor advises shareholders to vote against the proposal, defending both its offshore wind strategy and remuneration framework. The company acknowledges that profitability in new offshore wind projects is currently under pressure due to inflation and supply chain issues but maintains confidence in the long-term potential of offshore wind, particularly in densely populated areas needing large-scale renewable energy. Equinor emphasizes that it is leveraging its offshore project experience to pursue value-adding renewables growth and expects over a 10% return on equity from its low-carbon portfolio. Regarding compensation, the company clarifies that Board members do not receive bonuses and that executive remuneration decisions are governed by the Executive Remuneration Policy approved in 2023. It further notes that remuneration decisions fall outside the annual general meeting's mandate under Norwegian law, being the responsibility of the Board (for the CEO and executive team) and the corporate assembly (for directors' fees). Thus, both elements of the proposal are viewed as either unjustified or procedurally inappropriate.

PIRC Recommendation: The call for a complete withdrawal from offshore wind projects is overly broad and risks undermining Equinor's strategic position in the transition to low-carbon energy. Offshore wind remains a critical technology for large-scale decarbonization, and the company has existing assets and experience that should not be discarded hastily. On executive compensation, the proposal's demand to cancel bonuses and salary increases reflects a reasonable shareholder frustration with how financial accountability is handled. Greater transparency and clearer links between project outcomes and pay structures would be beneficial. However, this should be discussed through extensive engagement with shareholders concerns. Overall, opposition is recommended.

12. Shareholder Resolution: Plan for How the Company Will Reach the Paris Agreement Goals and Net-zero Emissions by 2050

Proponent:Bente Marie Bakke, Gro Nylander, Guttorm Grundt, and Even Bakke

Proponent's argument:The proposal urges Equinor to (1) present a detailed plan outlining how it will achieve the goals of the Paris Agreement and reach net-zero emissions by 2050, and (2) terminate all overseas oil and gas projects as soon as possible. The proponents argue that Equinor's current plans fall short of the emissions reductions necessary to meet Norway's international commitments, referencing the government's expectations for state-owned companies to integrate climate risk, set science-based targets, and report transparently. Citing research by the Australasian Centre for Corporate Responsibility (ACCR), the proponents highlight that Equinor's overseas operations have yielded minimal returns over two decades - a USD 2 billion profit from USD 103 billion invested - while incurring substantial losses, especially in North America. Additionally, international oil and gas projects reportedly generate emissions five times greater than Norway's annual total and have faced strong opposition from local communities due to environmental concerns. The proponents also note that major institutional investors have divested from Equinor over its strategy and lack of alignment with Paris targets. They argue that a continued focus on overseas fossil fuel expansion damages Equinor's financial performance and Norway's climate credibility.

Company's response: Equinor recommends voting against the proposal, stating that its updated 2025 Energy Transition Plan already outlines its pathway to net-zero by 2050 and is consistent with the Paris Agreement. The company adopts a three-part approach: reducing operational emissions (Scope 1 and 2), supporting decarbonisation through investment in low-carbon and renewable energy, and stress-testing its portfolio against 1.5°C-aligned scenarios. Equinor emphasizes that the plan - subject to an advisory shareholder vote under Item 8 - addresses the request for detailed emissions and transition planning. Regarding the call to exit international oil and gas activities, Equinor argues that such decisions fall under the board's strategic remit. It notes significant recent restructuring of its global portfolio, including exits from over 20 countries since 2018, and points to improved asset quality, stronger cash flow, and lower emissions intensity. In 2024, international operations accounted for 33% of production and nearly USD 6 billion in operational cash flow. The board maintains that Equinor's strategy balances economic and environmental imperatives and should remain under board oversight.

PIRC Recommendation:While Equinor's Energy Transition Plan sets out general goals that reference the Paris Agreement, it lacks a detailed explanation of how current and planned overseas oil and gas operations align with a credible pathway to net-zero. The proponent rightly highlights that Equinor's investment behaviour - particularly in high-risk, low-return international projects - raises concerns about strategic alignment with climate science and responsible capital stewardship. The request for clearer planning and transparency is consistent with good governance and investor expectations for science-based transition strategies. However, the proposal's call to terminate all overseas oil and gas projects is highly directive and operational in nature. While there is growing investor support for halting new fossil fuel expansion, the demand to also phase out existing operations - regardless of their carbon efficiency, contractual obligations, or contribution to transition financing - is a more rigid approach that may limit strategic flexibility and undermine value in the short term. It is recommended to support efforts to curb new fossil development and to realign capital allocation with a 1.5°C trajectory. But in this case, the proposal goes beyond setting expectations or guiding principles and instead prescribes an immediate operational direction. Overall, abstention is recommended.

13. Shareholder Resolution: Separate the Renewable Energy Part of the Company and Invest at Least Nok 5 Billion Annually in the Repair and Renewal of Ukraine's Energy Infrastructure

Proponent:Even Bakke and Guttorm Grundt

Proponent's argument:The proposal calls on Equinor to (1) separate its renewable energy business into a standalone public limited company with a revised ownership structure, and (2) invest at least NOK 5 billion annually in the repair and renewal of Ukraine's energy infrastructure. The proponents argue that Equinor has failed to deliver on its commitments implied by its rebranding from Statoil to Equinor, especially regarding renewable energy development. They cite Equinor's recent decisions to roll back renewable investment targets, phase out its CAPEX commitment to low-carbon solutions, and reduce its net carbon intensity goals - actions they interpret as a retreat from the Paris Agreement. This, they argue, undermines the company's credibility and suggests an entrenched fossil fuel bias within its legacy structure and culture. The first part of the proposal posits that structural separation would allow the renewable segment to scale independently and fulfill its potential without being subordinated to fossil fuel priorities. The second part frames Equinor's high war-time profits from gas sales to Europe as ethically problematic given the destruction of Ukraine's energy infrastructure by Russia. The proponents note that Equinor earned NOK 1,270 billion in revenue in 2022–23 alone, and yet has made no direct capital investment in Ukraine's energy recovery. They argue this poses reputational risks and contradicts Norway's international commitments. The proposed NOK 5 billion annual investment is portrayed not only as an ethical responsibility but also a strategic contribution to European energy security and long-term stability.

Company's response: Equinor opposes the proposal on both points. Regarding the separation of its renewables business, the Board argues that its integrated approach allows for optimal use of in-house expertise from oil and gas operations and leverages Equinor's existing market presence and infrastructure. It states that spinning off renewables would diminish synergies, weaken competitiveness in certain markets, and not improve investment conditions, which are currently challenged by inflation, interest rate pressures, and supply chain constraints - particularly in offshore wind. On Ukraine, Equinor highlights its indirect contribution through Norway's national support via the Nansen Programme, to which Equinor contributes as the country's largest taxpayer. The company also emphasizes its role as a reliable supplier of natural gas to Europe, which it sees as crucial to maintaining regional political stability and support for Ukraine. Additionally, Equinor notes its ongoing dialogues with Ukrainian authorities and limited contributions, including knowledge sharing and donations. The Board asserts that while the company is evaluating how it can further support Ukraine's energy system, mandatory financial commitments such as those proposed are not appropriate and should not be dictated by shareholders.

PIRC Recommendation: The proponent is right to highlight that Equinor has scaled down ambitions related to CAPEX in low-carbon technologies and softened its climate goals - actions that conflict with expectations for a Paris-aligned transition. The suggestion that these developments reflect a deeper cultural or structural misalignment within the company deserves scrutiny. However, the case for spinning off the renewables business is not yet compelling. While it is clear that Equinor must prioritize and elevate its green business strategy, creating a separate listed entity may not be the most effective way to achieve this. The proposal lacks clarity on how structural separation would accelerate decarbonisation or improve capital flows, and there is a genuine risk of weakening internal synergies between renewables, low-carbon solutions, and existing infrastructure. The intention behind the proposal is laudable, empowering renewables to grow unencumbered, but the outcome could be that the fossil side becomes more entrenched and less accountable. It is considered best practice to support climate transformation at the group level, not fragmentation that may leave the most polluting parts of a company less exposed to internal pressure.

On the Ukraine investment, Equinor has generated exceptional wartime profits through gas exports, and a principled, voluntary contribution to rebuilding Ukraine's energy infrastructure aligns with the values of climate justice and energy solidarity. That said, the proposal lacks a concrete operational framework, making the fixed NOK 5 billion figure more symbolic than actionable. Overall, opposition is recommended.

14. Shareholder Resolution: Equinor Shall Renew Their Green Aims, Avoid Further International Investment in Oil and Gas and Donate Billions to Ukraine

Proponent: Gro Nylander

Proponent's argument: The proposal urges Equinor to (1) renew its green transition commitments, including its earlier ambition to become a broad energy company investing in solar and wind, (2) cease further international investments in oil and gas, and (3) donate substantial sums to support the rebuilding of Ukraine's energy infrastructure. The proponent criticizes Equinor for abandoning its earlier climate targets and emphasizes that more than 99% of the company's energy production remains fossil-based. Referencing poor financial returns and public protests surrounding international fossil investments, the proposal characterizes these ventures as environmentally harmful, reputationally damaging, and economically irresponsible. The proposal also emphasizes the ethical dimension of Equinor's profits during the war in Ukraine, calling for a significant financial contribution to help the country rebuild its devastated energy system. It suggests that failure to act could cement perceptions of Equinor and Norway as war profiteers. The shareholder links financial losses, investor dissatisfaction (e.g., the Sarasin divestment), and management performance to the broader critique of strategic drift and environmental negligence.

Company's response: Equinor recommends a vote against the proposal, asserting that its updated 2025 Energy Transition Plan provides a clear, structured pathway to net-zero emissions by 2050. The company highlights progress since 2020, noting that gross capital expenditure in renewables and low-carbon solutions has increased from 4% to 27% of total investments, with current plans to reach 10–12 GW of installed renewable capacity by 2030. The board acknowledges market-driven adjustments to renewable investments but maintains that the company remains aligned with Paris Agreement goals through a comprehensive strategy that includes operational decarbonization, investments in carbon capture, and strategic portfolio management. Regarding international oil and gas investments, Equinor defends its rebalanced and "high-graded" portfolio, which has exited over 20 countries since 2018. The remaining portfolio is focused on fewer, more profitable regions like the UK, USA, and Brazil, with international operations accounting for one-third of production and NOK 60 billion in cash flow in 2024. On Ukraine, Equinor points to its indirect contributions via Norway's Nansen Programme, and to its role as a stable energy supplier to Europe. It notes ongoing engagement with Ukrainian stakeholders, support through knowledge-sharing and material donations, and states that fixed monetary obligations are not appropriate for a listed company's governance.

PIRC Recommendation: The call to renew green transition ambitions is especially well-justified: Equinor's rollback of earlier targets on renewable investment and carbon intensity has weakened its alignment with a Paris-consistent trajectory. These developments have drawn criticism not only from environmental stakeholders but also from institutional investors, and they raise legitimate questions about the company's long-term credibility and climate positioning. Reaffirming Equinor's role as a "broad energy company" with a robust renewables strategy is essential to restoring trust and aligning with investor expectations for a low-carbon transition. The proposal's recommendation to halt new international fossil fuel investments is also directionally appropriate. A pause on new international developments could help Equinor strengthen climate alignment while preserving financial discipline. However, the resolution's call to donate "billions" annually to Ukraine, while ethically compelling, lacks necessary operational and financial detail. There is no clear mechanism proposed for allocating, structuring, or governing such a contribution, which is a significant omission given its scale and the broader shareholder governance implications. Although it would be recommended to strongly support efforts to channel wartime profits toward ethical and just recovery, shareholder resolutions of this nature require more planning and specificity to be considered viable at scale. Overall, abstention is recommended.

15. Shareholder Resolution: Gradually Divest from all International Operations

Proponent: Ivar Sætre

Proponent's argument: The proposal calls on Equinor to begin a phased divestment from all international operations, first in renewables and then in petroleum production. The proponent argues that Equinor was originally established to manage Norway's petroleum resources in the national interest, and that its international expansion since the 1990s has deviated from that purpose. He notes that international operations - both in fossil fuels and renewables - have entailed significant risk and have generated underwhelming returns, particularly in the renewables segment which, according to the proponent, has never produced an annual profit. The proposal also raises concerns about governance: with 70% of Equinor owned by the Norwegian state, oversight is ultimately managed by political bodies that may lack both deep knowledge of the business and personal financial stake in its outcomes. In this context, the proposal suggests that a gradual retreat from international operations is a prudent step to reduce risk and refocus Equinor's mission on domestic value creation.

Company's response: The board recommends voting against the proposal, emphasizing that Equinor's international portfolio is a carefully curated and strategically aligned part of the company's broader value creation model. It notes that since 2018, Equinor has exited over 20 countries and now focuses on core markets such as the UK, USA, and Brazil. This high-grading strategy has improved portfolio resilience, increased cash flow, and reduced emissions intensity. In 2024 alone, international operations accounted for 33% of total production and generated nearly USD 6 billion (NOK 60 billion) in cash flow. Regarding renewables, the board defends its long-term commitment, highlighting a target of 10–12 GW of installed capacity by 2030 and a disciplined, value-driven approach to investment. It also reaffirms that strategic decisions about portfolio composition are the responsibility of the board and management, consistent with corporate governance principles.

PIRC Recommendation: While the proponent raises important historical and governance concerns about the risks of international operations and the nature of state ownership, the proposal itself is too blunt and strategically counterproductive. A blanket directive to divest from all international assets - including renewables - runs counter to the demands of a just and effective energy transition. Global decarbonisation requires active engagement by experienced energy companies in both fossil and renewable value chains, including outside their home markets. Moreover, Equinor's recent restructuring efforts - exiting high-risk regions and concentrating on select core markets - represent a credible risk mitigation strategy. Retreating from international renewables would undercut efforts to scale clean energy technologies in key markets and contradict investor expectations around long-term climate alignment. Overall, opposition is recommended.

18. Issue Shares with Pre-emption Rights in Relation to the Issue of Additional Tier 1 Securities

It is proposed to authorise the Board to allot equity securities in the company up to an aggregate nominal amount of GBP 17,543,429 in connection with the issue of Additional Tier 1 Securities, representing 33% of the Company's issued share capital. The authority will expire at the next AGM.

The use of convertible Securities is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. These securities are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that they may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in the banks via rights issues; due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much; or some; of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. Past events at Deutsche Bank has led to others voicing their concerns about the destabilizing effect of convertible securities on both their own price and the share price. Based on these concerns; an oppose vote is recommended.

SAVILLS PLC AGM - 14-05-2025*02. Approve Remuneration Policy*

The CEO's maximum total variable pay is based on a £3.8m limit for the Annual Performance Related Profit Share, which works out to approximately 1,221% of the current salary, and the PSP which is limited to 200% of the salary, which on aggregate s deemed vastly excessive when compared to the maximum recommended limit of 200%. For the Annual Performance Related Profit Share, 50% of any award payable above an amount equal to base salary is deferred into shares for three years. It would be best practise for at least half of this award to defer into shares for a period of at least three years regardless of the payout. The performance period for the PSP is three-years, which is deemed overly short-term, however an additional two-year holding period applies post-vesting, which is welcomed. The lack of non-financial performance metrics for the PSP is contrary to best practise. Malus and clawback provisions apply for all aspects of the variable pay.

A. Shareholder Proposal: Setting Discount Rate for Employee Share Issuance

Proponent: FCPE Crédit Agricole S.A. Actions

Proponent's argument: The proponent seeks to establish annual guidelines for determining discount rates applied to capital increases reserved for Crédit Agricole Group employees. The aim is to define a typical profile of employee investors and encourage broader participation by ensuring that share acquisition does not compromise employees' financial stability. The resolution does not seek to constrain the Board's authority but rather to institutionalise a framework that allows annual reviews of appropriate discount levels-suggesting rates of up to 30% for a five-year lock-up and 40% for ten years. It argues that this would align with market conditions, employee expectations, and employer branding, reinforcing the Group's human capital strategy by enhancing loyalty and engagement through accessible employee shareholding.

Company's response: The Board of Directors opposes the resolution. It emphasises that the current process already allows for annual employee share offerings, which are timed to coincide with incentive and profit-sharing disbursements. The Board asserts it retains full authority to set discount rates, with recommendations from the Compensation Committee based on a broad analysis of investment levels, participation rates, and financial conditions. No transaction has been proposed with a discount below 20%. Moreover, the Board argues that each capital increase is considered in its specific context, balancing employee participation with shareholder interests, and guided by the Group's financial performance. It highlights that existing authorisations (31st and 32nd resolutions) provide sufficient flexibility, thus rejecting the proposed change as unnecessary.

PIRC Analysis: The Board already implements employee offerings annually and applies discount rates based on comprehensive assessments. The additional guidelines risk constraining decision-making or leading to expectations of fixed discounts, potentially misaligning with the Group's financial strategy or broader shareholder interests. Therefore, opposition is recommended.

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout is in line with best practice, being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the company reports target achievements and thresholds as percentages rather than absolute values, making it difficult to assess actual underperformance or how much remuneration is paid despite missing targets. ITHACA ENERGY PLC AGM - 14-05-2025

1. Receive the Annual Report

The annual report was made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are concerns surrounding the sustainability policies and practice at the company and the lack of board level accountability for sustainability issues. Therefore, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks. These concerns should have been addressed in the annual report submitted to shareholders, however the annual report fails to address these concerns adequately and therefore this resolution cannot be supported.

Executive Chair. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that the Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Holding an executive position is incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 10. Authorise Share Repurchase

It is proposed to renew and extend the existing authorisation to acquire and use its own shares, originally approved on April 30, 2024, and valid until April 29, 2029. The new authorization would be valid until May 14, 2030, and allow the bank to repurchase up to 10% of its share capital, with flexibility in acquisition methods, including stock exchange, public purchase offers, or derivatives.

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. This extended period could lead to excessive buybacks beyond the intended scope, which is not in line with standard practices. 11. Authorise Share Repurchase - via Multi-lateral Trading Systems and Use of Derivatives

Authorisation to repurchase own shares through additional methods, supplementing the resolution in Agenda Item 10. The new authorization would allow acquisitions via multilateral trading systems (MTFs) and the use of derivatives such as put and call options or futures contracts. Valid until May 14, 2030, these acquisitions would be limited to 5% of share capital and subject to strict pricing rules-within +10%/-20% for MTF purchases and +10%/-10% for derivative-based transactions, based on recent average share prices. Shareholders would not have the right to directly enter into these derivative contracts. The use of shares acquired through these methods would follow the same rules as outlined in Agenda Item 10. The previous authorization from 2024 will be revoked once the new one takes effect. The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. It is proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. 3. Approve Remuneration Policy

The proposed changes include: i) increasing the salaries of both the CEO and CFO to current mid-market levels by April 2026, with the increases phased over two years; ii) introducing Restricted Share Awards equal to 75% of salary to replace the current Performance Share Awards of 150% of salary; and iii) implementing a thematic underpin framework for Restricted Shares, allowing the Remuneration Committee to reduce vesting in cases of material underperformance, in response to shareholder feedback. Total potential variable pay is slightly excessive at 225% of salary. For FY25, the annual bonus performance measures will comprise adjusted EBIT, adjusted cashflow, and non-financial objectives. In line with best practice, 50% of the bonus will be deferred into shares for three years, with the remaining 50% paid in cash. The performance period for the new Restricted Share Plan is three years, which is not considered sufficiently long-term; however, the requirement for executives to hold vested shares for an additional two years is welcomed. Malus and clawback provisions will apply to all variable pay. Additionally, the CEO will be required to build a shareholding equal to 200% of salary within five years, which is deemed adequate.

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

Total variable pay could reach 350% of salary for the CEO and 300% for the CFO, which is considered excessive as it exceeds the recommended limit of 200%. Regarding the Annual Bonus, for executive directors with bonus opportunities of 100% of salary or higher, one third of any bonus earned will be deferred in shares over one, two, and three years; however, this is deemed insufficient, with a preference for 50% of the bonus to be paid in cash and 50% deferred into shares for a minimum of three years. The LTIP award for FY2025 is based on the achievement of EPS and relative TSR targets, but the absence of non-financial parameters to assess executives' long-term performance is considered contrary to best practice, as such factors are generally outside an individual director's control and help align the remuneration policy with the broader operational performance of the business and the contribution of each senior executive. Although the performance period is three years, which is not considered sufficiently long-term, a two-year holding period does apply, and malus and clawback provisions are in place. Rating: BDC. Independent Non-Executive Director, previous Chair of the Audit Committee and Designated non-executive director workforce engagement. It would be preferred that companies appoint directors from the workforce rather than designate a non-executive director (NED). Support will be recommended for the election or re-election of designated NEDs provided that no significant employment relations issues have been identified.

Since the Chair of the Audit Committee is recently appointed the previous chair of the audit committee has the responsibility for issues arise under his jurisdiction. At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the previous chair of the audit committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

7. Approval of the system of compensation for members of the Board of Management

E.ON is seeking shareholder approval for a revised compensation system for Management Board members, effective January 1, 2025. Key changes include updated EPS assessment criteria, increased ambition for TSR targets, a more flexible ESG component in the long-term incentive plan, and a higher maximum compensation potential, while maintaining the payout cap at 200%.

Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the pay-out may exceed 200% of the fixed remuneration for the highest paid director. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. The Company has disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for the entirety of its variable remuneration component. On balance, opposition is recommended based on excessiveness concerns.

10. Resolution 10: Amendment to Authorise Virtual General Meetings

E.ON proposes to extend its authorization to hold virtual General Meetings without physical shareholder attendance until June 30, 2027. The company highlights the success of previous virtual formats in ensuring full shareholder rights and efficient meeting conduct. The resolution seeks to update Section 21a(1) of the Articles of Association to reflect this extension.

It is proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing virtual-only meetings.

2. Approve Remuneration Policy

Claw-back provisions are in place over long-term incentive plans. Directors are entitled to a dividend income which is accrued on share awards from the date of grant, once the awards vest. Dividend should be paid from the date awards vest onwards, and not backdated to the time of grant to include the performance period. A welcome addition to the LTIP scheme is the use of non-financial performance metrics as a means of assessing individual performance. The use of non-financial conditions enables the policy to focus on the operational performance of the business as a whole as well as the individual roles of each of the executives in achieving that performance. Maximum potential awards for both the Annual Bonus and LTIP are clearly stated. The performance metrics are not operating interdependently, such that vesting under the incentive plan is only possible where all threshold targets are met. A mitigation statement has been made which seeks to limit the amount of any payment or benefits provided to a Director upon leaving the Company should alternative employment be secured. Vesting scales are considered to be sufficiently broad and geared towards better performance. Total potential awards capable of vesting under the policy exceed the recommended threshold of 200% of the highest paid Director's base salary. Directors are required to build a holding equivalent to at least 200% of salary, over a period of no more than five years. It is considered that a shareholding policy aligns the interests of the Executive to that of the shareholder. The Annual Bonus is deferred. Claw-back provisions are attached to the annual bonus. However, the deferral period attached to the Annual Bonus is not considered adequate. Half of the bonus should be deferred in shares over at least two years. The performance period for the LTIP is less than five years and is therefore not considered sufficiently long-term. However, recipients of the award are required to hold their vested shares for at least a further two years, which is welcomed.

Eurocell plc operates two main incentive schemes for Executive Directors: an Annual Bonus Plan and a Performance Share Plan (PSP). Under the Annual Bonus Plan, the Chief Executive Officer can earn up to 150% of salary, and the Chief Financial Officer up to 100%. Half of any bonus earned is deferred into shares for three years, unless the executive has already met the company's shareholding guideline of 200% of salary. Both malus and clawback provisions apply to the bonus, and payouts are subject to performance conditions, although achieving just one is sufficient to trigger a payment.

The PSP provides long-term incentives with significant award potential. In 2025, the CEO and CFO are set to receive one-off awards of 800% and 600% of salary respectively, with a four-year performance period. An additional one-year holding period applies to half of any vested shares. The scheme includes malus and clawback mechanisms, and vested awards may be increased to reflect dividend equivalents.

Executive Directors are employed under rolling contracts with a maximum notice period of 12 months. Termination payments exclude bonuses and benefits and there are no provisions for enhanced terms on change of control. While there is no explicit cap on termination payments, the company has discretion to determine outcomes based on the circumstances of departure. Variable elements are excluded from standard severance terms.

Authority to allot shares and grant rights to subscribe for or to convert any security into ordinary shares in the Company up to an aggregate nominal amount of GBP 1,250,000,000, such authority to be exercised in connection with the issue of Regulatory Capital Convertible Instruments. Regulatory Capital Convertible Instruments are debt securities which convert into ordinary shares in certain prescribed circumstances. They are additional tier 1 ('AT1') instruments which convert into ordinary shares of the Company should the Company's common equity tier 1 ratio fall below a contractually defined trigger point. They benefit from a specific regulatory capital treatment under European Union legislation.

The use of Regulatory Capital Convertible Instrument is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. They are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that they may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in the banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. There are important concerns about the destabilizing effect of such instruments on both the instrument price and the share price. Based on these concerns, an oppose vote is recommended.

Non-executive Director, Chair of the Remuneration Committee and Member of the Nomination Committee. Not considered to be independent owing to a tenure of over nine years; Mr. Au was formerly a director of The Wharf (Holdings) Limited from 2012 to 2017. 3. Appoint the Auditors and Allow the Board to Determine their Remuneration

KPMG proposed. Non-audit fees represented 11.11% of audit fees during the year under review and 11.11% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than five years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor. Opposition is recommended.

Given the concerns over dilution of the shareholder rights, opposition is recommended.

2.c.. Approve Financial Statements

The financial statements were made available sufficiently before the meeting and has been audited and certified. However, there are some concerns surrounding the board-level governance of sustainability issues, policies and practice. As such, it is considered that the annual report and the financial statements may not accurately reflect the material and financial impact of non-traditional financial risks. These concerns should have been addressed in the financial statements submitted to shareholders, but the financial statements fail to address these concerns and it is recommended to abstain from voting on this resolution.

2.b.. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration report. The payout is in line with best practice, being under 200% of the fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. On balance, abstention is recommended.

3a. Re-elect Steven Gregg - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board and Chair of the Nomination Committee. The Chair is not considered to be independent due to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. Oppose vote is therefore recommended.

4. Approve Equity Grant to Executive Director

The Board is seeking shareholder approval for the purposes of ASX Listing Rule 10.14 for the grant of 92,458 performance shares to the Chief Executive And Managing Director, under the company's Long-term Incentive Plan. The proposed grant has an approximate value that equates to 150% of the CE's fixed remuneration. Although the potential award is not considered to be excessive, concerns over the plan are raised as awards are based on performance conditions which do not run interdependently. Opposition is recommended.

6. Refresh 15% Placement Capacity Under ASX Listing Rules

Introduction & Background: On 11 December 2024, Ampol Limited completed the issuance of AUD 600 million worth of unsecured, subordinated, and convertible notes through a placement to wholesale and institutional investors. This initiative was carried out under the Company's 15% placement capacity permitted by ASX Listing Rule 7.1 and did not initially require shareholder approval. The capital raising forms part of Ampol's broader capital management strategy to enhance its financial flexibility, refinance existing debt maturities, and support its credit profile.

Proposal: The Board now proposes to ratify the previous issue of these Notes, effectively refreshing the Company's 15% placement capacity under ASX Listing Rules. By approving this resolution, the Notes issuance would be treated as if it had prior shareholder consent, thereby restoring the Company's full placement capacity. This will allow Ampol to issue additional securities within the 12-month period without breaching ASX Listing Rule 7.1 limits.

Rationale: The rationale for this resolution is to enhance Ampol's financial agility by restoring the full 15% placement headroom, which would otherwise remain partially consumed by the prior Notes issuance. This refreshed capacity would facilitate more strategic and timely responses to future capital requirements without the delay or constraints of seeking additional shareholder approvals. This flexibility is deemed essential for maintaining an optimal capital structure, supporting operational needs, and taking advantage of market opportunities aligned with Ampol's Capital Allocation Framework.

Recommendation: There are concerns regarding governance and shareholder rights. The issuance amounting to AUD 600 million was executed without prior shareholder approval, bypassing an opportunity for shareholder scrutiny on a significant capital raising. Additionally, the potential dilution arising from the conversion of the Notes is not subject to a defined cap and depends on future market pricing, raising concerns over transparency and the potential erosion of existing shareholder value. Due to these reasons, opposition is recommended.

1i.. Elect Adam H. Schechter - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal. As there is no formal Sustainability Committee, the Chair of the Board is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

Furthermore, the articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. 4.. Shareholder Resolution: Report on Risk of Stakeholder Capitalism

Proponent: Grace Graber (via Bowyer Research)

Proponent's argument: The proposal requests that BlackRock issue a public report evaluating how its Board oversees legal and reputational risks associated with a perceived shift away from traditional fiduciary responsibility toward stakeholder capitalism. This shift, according to the proponent, is signaled by BlackRock's endorsement of the Business Roundtable's Statement on the Purpose of a Corporation and its broad embrace of ESG and DEI initiatives. The supporting statement argues that these actions have resulted in "significant legal and reputational risks" and created controversy, especially in politically conservative circles. The proponent cites divestments and business restrictions by states such as Texas, West Virginia, and Oklahoma as evidence of material impact, noting that "nine states have divested billions from asset managers including BlackRock." The resolution questions whether stakeholder capitalism aligns with fiduciary duty and urges the Board to examine what policies may be contributing to reputational damage and client losses.

Company's response: BlackRock recommends shareholders vote against the proposal. The company reaffirms its commitment to fiduciary duty, stating that it focuses on "helping our clients achieve their investment objectives." It asserts that the proposal mischaracterizes BlackRock's stance and notes that it has been criticized from both political extremes, which suggests a balanced approach. The company highlights its financial performance in 2024, including "record client net inflows of $641 billion" and double-digit growth in key metrics, as evidence of shareholder value creation. BlackRock also states that its governance framework ensures adequate Board oversight, with regular policy updates and compliance review. The Board concludes that the requested report would "not yield meaningful additional information" and therefore does not warrant shareholder support.

PIRC Recommendation: While the proponent highlights concerns about legal and reputational risks, the request centers on a political framing of stakeholder capitalism rather than a governance deficiency. BlackRock already provides ample disclosure around its governance practices, investment principles, and fiduciary commitments. The company has also faced criticism from both progressive and conservative stakeholders, indicating its policies do not reflect partisan activism but rather a broad-based fiduciary strategy. Furthermore, BlackRock's strong financial and operational results, including substantial net inflows and competitive returns, suggest that its current approach is not adversely affecting long-term shareholder value. The report requested is unlikely to offer new insights or materially enhance risk oversight. As such, the proposal appears more ideologically motivated than aimed at improving governance or transparency.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

At the company, there is no external whistle-blowing hotline. This suggests that such concerns that should be raised by a whistle-blower are dealt with internally, which may increase the risk of such issues not being followed up or escalating to a level where the higher was the level of the misconduct, the more likely is the issue to be concealed. On this basis, and on the potential unforeseeable consequences for the company, opposition is recommended to the re-election of the chair of the Audit and Finance committee, who is considered to be accountable for the concerns with the whistle-blowing reporting structure.

16. Approve the Adoption of the Ceres Power Holdings plc Long Term Incentive Plan

The Company is seeking shareholder approval for the rules of the 2025 LTIP to replace the rules of the Ceres Power Holdings plc Long Term Incentive Plan 2016 (2016 LTIP), which will expire in 2026. Eligible to participate in the plan are all employees (including employed executive directors) of the Company and its subsidiaries. Awards made to executive directors of the Company ("Executive Directors") will comply with the shareholder-approved directors' remuneration policy in effect at that time. Awards may be granted in the form of: i) a conditional award, being a conditional right to acquire fully paid ordinary shares in the capital of the Company ("Shares"), ii) an option, being a right in the form of an option to acquire Shares, iii) a phantom award, being a conditional right to receive a cash sum linked to the value of a number of notional Shares, iv) a deferred award, being a conditional right to acquire Shares and which relates to the deferral of a cash bonus or other entitlement or payment; or v) a restricted share award, being an award of forfeitable Shares. Awards may be settled using (or in the case of restricted share awards, awarded over) newly issued Shares, Shares transferred from treasury and/or Shares purchased in the market. Awards may not be transferred or otherwise disposed of except on the participant's death. This includes Shares subject to a restricted share award, except in limited circumstances such as a sale to cover taxation. No payment is required for the grant of an award. Awards may be granted subject to performance conditions, or other conditions, that must normally be satisfied in order for awards to vest. Awards granted to Executive Directors will, if required by the Remuneration Policy, be subject to the satisfaction of one or more performance conditions. Awards will normally vest on the later of the date the Board decides the performance conditions and other conditions have been satisfied and the vesting date specified by the Board at grant. Awards may vest in tranches, in which case each tranche may have a different vesting date. Awards may, and in the case of Executive Directors will (as required by the Remuneration Policy), be subject to a holding period after vesting or exercise, during which Shares cannot normally be transferred, assigned or otherwise disposed of except in certain limited circumstances, such as a sale to cover taxation. If an award is settled in cash, the Board will decide how the holding period will operate.

Plans to increase employee shareholding are considered to be a positive governance practice, as they can contribute to alignment between employees and shareholders. On the other hand, executives are also among the beneficiaries. On balance, opposition is recommended.

It is proposed to amend the articles in order to allow virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Proponent's argument: Shareholders request the Board of Directors of Yum! Brands, Inc. conduct an evaluation and issue a report within the next year, at reasonable cost and excluding proprietary information and disclosure of anything that would constitute an admission of pending litigation, evaluating the risks related to religious discrimination against employees. The proponent argues that recognizing religious identity within Yum's diversity framework would help attract top talent, foster inclusivity, and build trust. Citing the 2024 Viewpoint Diversity Score Business Index, the proposal notes that over 64% of peer companies lack faith-based ERGs, and only 5% host faith-specific groups. Yum! Brands is identified among those without such representation, despite hosting ERGs focused on race, gender identity, and military status. The proposal further emphasizes employee concerns from the 2023 Freedom at Work survey: "60% of employees were concerned that their company would punish them for expressing their religious or political views... even on their private social media accounts." Additionally, the proponent invokes recent Supreme Court rulings (Groff v. DeJoy; Muldrow v. City of St. Louis) to underscore that religious protections now cover all employment privileges, implying that not permitting faith-based ERGs may be legally questionable. The requested outcome is a report within one year assessing the risks of religious discrimination and evaluating how existing structures may fall short in addressing such risks.

Company's response: Yum's Board recommends a vote against the proposal, stating that the company already provides robust policies and safeguards against religious discrimination and that a report is unnecessary. "The Company is deeply committed to creating a culture of inclusion and belonging that allows employees to express their religious faith and beliefs freely, without fear of bias, harassment or unequal treatment." Yum! details its current measures: An Anti-Discrimination and Harassment Policy applicable across the employment lifecycle A confidential Speak Up helpline for anonymous reports A global compliance program with mandatory training on protected characteristics and workplace behavior Religious accommodations, including flexible time off and floating holidays The company emphasizes its employee experience surveys, which reportedly show no significant demand for faith-based ERGs: "Religion has not been identified as a factor that impacts the quality of employee experience at the Company." The company frames its existing Communities of Belonging (COBs) - the equivalent of ERGs - as demand-driven. It asserts that the absence of a faith-based COB reflects employee priorities rather than a gap in inclusivity or risk exposure. Finally, Yum argues that its existing framework already meets or exceeds legal standards, including the recent case law referenced by the proponent.

PIRC analysis: The potential benefits of staff diversity lie in widening the perspectives on human resources brought to bear on decision-making, avoiding too great a similarity of attitude and helping companies understand their workforces as a kaleidoscope of customers, marketplace, supply chain and society as a whole. Disclosure surrounding the company's staff composition allows shareholders to consider diversity in the context of the long-term interests of the company, including the ability to attract and retain key talent. Disclosure of a policy to improve diversity and goals that have been set to meet this policy also reassures shareholders that a diverse board is not just an aspiration but a goal. However, this resolution appears to be filed by a right-wing policy think tanks as a spoiler resolution to prevent other shareholders from filing resolutions regarding the company's diversity and focuses on ideological diversity with the clear intent to ensure that conservative views are represented on the board as well as so-called liberal perspectives. A vote against the resolution is recommended.

Shareholder approval is being sought to authorize the Board to allot shares in the Company or grant rights to subscribe for, or to convert any security into, shares in the Company up to an aggregate nominal amount of GBP 2,542,854 in connection with the issue of Additional Tier 1 Securities ('AT1 Securities'), representing approximately 33% of the issued ordinary share capital of the Company, excluding treasury shares, as at 25 March 2025 with pre-emption rights. This authority expires at next AGM and is in addition to the authority in resolution 14.

The use of convertible Securities is not considered appropriate as they put investors at significant risk of dilution in the event that conversion occurs. These securities are relatively new instruments and there are concerns that they may create a situation which whilst converting some debt to equity actually disincentives equity investors from putting more new funds in the banks via rights issues, due to the dilutive effect of the conversion taking away much, or some, of the premium that would ordinarily accrue to shareholders. Resolution 10 is an ordinary resolution authorizing Heidelberg Materials AG to acquire and use treasury shares, replacing the partially utilized 2023 authorization. The company may repurchase up to 10 percent of its share capital until 14 May 2030, either on the stock exchange, via public purchase offers, or through shareholder sell-rights. Acquired shares may be used for various legal purposes, including fulfilling obligations under employee share programs or reselling, with the possibility to exclude subscription rights in specific cases. This authorisation ensures flexibility in capital management while respecting regulatory limits. The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18 month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame

GAMES WORKSHOP GROUP PLC EGM - 15-05-2025

01. Approve Remuneration Policy

Introduction & Background: At the Company's AGM on 18 September 2024, a notable minority of shareholders opposed the advisory and binding votes on the directors' remuneration report and policy. Following this, and in alignment with the UK Corporate Governance Code, the Board engaged in consultation with shareholders representing approximately 56% of the issued share capital. This process revealed concerns about the lack of share-based compensation and transparency in bonus awards. In response, the Board has proposed a revised remuneration policy for approval at this General Meeting.

Proposal: The resolution seeks shareholder approval to adopt a revised directors' remuneration policy. Key changes include the introduction of a Triennial Share Award, a one-off restricted share award for the CEO, increased bonus opportunities, and formal in- and post-employment share ownership requirements. The new policy also clarifies and enhances disclosure around performance assessments for bonus payments.

Rationale: The proposed policy updates aim to align executive remuneration with shareholder interests and best practices among FTSE-listed companies. The Board believes these measures will enhance transparency, provide competitive compensation to attract and retain executive talent, and reflect the long-term strategic priorities of the business. Notably, the inclusion of share-based awards addresses previous shareholder concerns and incentivizes long-term performance.

PIRC Recommendation: It is proposed to approve the remuneration policy. Variable remuneration appears to be consistently capped, although the pay-out may exceed 200% of fixed salary. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. The Company has disclosed quantified targets for performance criteria for the entirety of its variable remuneration component. Nevertheless, opposition is recommended based on excessiveness concerns.

02. Approve of the 2025 Share Awards Plan

Introduction & Background: The Plan forms a key component of the newly proposed remuneration framework. Designed by the Remuneration Committee following consultations with shareholders, it introduces structured share-based incentives to complement the company's strategic cycles and long-term growth ambitions.

Proposal: This resolution seeks approval for the Games Workshop Group PLC 2025 Share Awards Plan. The Plan encompasses two main elements: (1) a Restricted Share Award for the CEO contingent upon continued employment, and (2) Triennial Share Awards tied to financial performance metrics. The Plan also allows the Board to implement analogous plans for employees outside the UK, subject to local regulations.

Rationale: The introduction of the Share Awards Plan is intended to bolster the Company's ability to offer competitive and motivating equity-based remuneration. By directly linking executive rewards to financial performance and service continuity, the Plan supports strategic alignment with shareholder interests. It also serves to correct the prior lack of equity incentives identified by some shareholders, thereby fostering sustained executive engagement and corporate stability.

PIRC Recommendation: The Board proposes the approval of a new equity-based incentive plan. Under the plan, participants will be allotted shares that will vest over a three-year period. Performance targets have been quantified at this time, which is above market practice. However, the potential total reward raises excessiveness concerns (together with other incentives) and the vesting period of three years is considered to be short term. Opposition is recommended.

It is proposed to approve the implementation of the remuneration policy. The payout is in line with best practice, under 200% of the fixed salary. However, the Company has not fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. Although a common practice in this market as this is deemed to be sensitive information, it prevents an accurate assessment and may lead to overpayment against underperformance. In addition, there are no claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration component which makes it unlikely that shareholders will be able to reclaim any variable remuneration unfairly paid out. On this basis, opposition is recommended.

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital, but it exceeds the 18-month duration. While the percentage limit is within acceptable bounds, the extended time frame raises concerns about long-term shareholder value and potential market impact. 22. Authorise the Board to Increase the Number of Shares Issued in case of Exceptional Demand

In addition to the share issuance authorities sought above, the Board requests shareholder authority for a capital increase of additional 15%, in case of exceptional demand.

A green shoe authorisation enables an authorization of additional shares in the event of exceptional public demand. In this case, the authorization would increase allow the placement of up to 15% additional new shares within a thirty day period at a price equal to that of the initial offer. There are concerns with such authorities as they may potentially represent a discount superior to the discount to which the initial authorisation is limited due to a potential rise in share price in the period between original issuance and secondary issuance. Given the potential for inequitable treatment of shareholders, opposition is recommended.

Bonus performance will be assessed using a blend of financial (70%) and non-financial (30%) measures. Under the Restricted Share Plan (RSP), performance against the underpin will be evaluated by the Remuneration Committee, considering both financial and non-financial aspects of business performance. While the three-year performance period is not viewed as sufficiently long-term, the additional two-year post-vesting holding requirement is seen as a positive feature. Upon vesting, a portion of the shares may be sold to cover tax liabilities. The performance underpin will take into account a broad range of criteria to assess the company's overall performance and sustainability. Malus and clawback provisions apply across all elements of variable pay.

1.1. Elect Dorothy M. Ables - Non-Executive Director

Independent Non-Executive Director, Chair of the Ethics, Environment, Safety and Health Committee and member of the Audit Committee. As the Chair of the Ethics, Environment, Safety and Health Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

Furthermore, based on PIRC's overall assessment of transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Black, indicating that it falls short on one of PIRC's most basic expectations. 1.6. Elect C. Howard Nye - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

Furthermore, based on PIRC's overall assessment of transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Black, indicating that it falls short on one of PIRC's most basic expectations. 2. Appoint the Auditors

PwC proposed. Non-audit fees represented 0.04% of audit fees during the year under review and 0.30% on a three-year aggregate basis. This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than five years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor. The company's auditor does not disclose considering climate and it is not clear whether they assessed climate-related risks associated with a 1.5C scenario. As such it is recommended to oppose the re-appointment of the auditor.

3.3. Re-Elect George Aase - Chair (Non Executive)

Independent Non-Executive Chair of the Board, Chair of the Nomination Committee and member of the Remuneration Committee. The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this. Furthermore, it is considered that the members of the Remuneration Committee are responsible for the company's remuneration report, and owing to concerns with the company's remuneration report, opposition is recommended.

7. Authorise Share Repurchase

The Share Buyback authority is limited to 10% of the company's share capital and cannot exceed 15 months. However, the Share Buyback proposal is conducted at a price greater than a 5% premium to the prevailing market price. We consider this to be an excessive premium that may not represent a prudent use of shareholder capital. Paying significantly above market value for shares can result in an inefficient allocation of resources and may not deliver value to long-term shareholders. In our view, capital would be better deployed elsewhere in the business or returned through more equitable means. Opposition is recommended.

Vote Cast: Oppose

9. Approve the Remuneration Report

It is proposed to approve the annual report on remuneration of Executive and Non-Executive directors with an advisory vote. There are excessiveness concerns as the total variable remuneration exceeded 200% of the salary for the highest paid director. The Company has fully disclosed quantified targets against which the achievements and the corresponding variable remuneration has been calculated. There are claw back clauses in place over the entirety of the variable remuneration, which is welcomed. However, opposition is recommended based on excessive remuneration.

Authority is sought to repurchase up to 10% of the issued share capital. The authority would expire at the next AGM. Before considering approval of buybacks (and this should come from the board, not the manager, nor a company secretary in the employ of the fund manager), we would like to see a public statement: - addressing whether any part of the discount can be explained by capitalisation of the costs (the total costs as in the Key Investor information Document - 'KID'), - setting out why the board believes that the performance of the incumbent management is not a contributory factor to the discount, and - setting out how the current fee structure might be contributing to the discount, for example some investment companies cap management fees, or reduce the manager fee the larger the fund gets, - setting out the effect of prior year buybacks to help determine the effectiveness of prior buybacks.

1.7. Re-Elect Edna K. Morris - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board. The Chair is not considered to be independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

4.. Amend the Company's Restated Certificate of Incorporation to provide for the Exculpation of Officers

The Company proposes amending its Restated Certificate of Incorporation to allow for the exculpation of corporate officers from certain personal liabilities, as now permitted under a 2022 amendment to the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL). Specifically, the amendments to the DGCL allow Delaware corporations to exculpate their officers for personal liability for breaches of the duty of care in certain circumstances.

While efforts to align executive and non-executive liabilities and harmonise corporate articles are acknowledged, decisions taken by executives, may cause significant higher losses compared to those taken by directors. While officers remain liable for lack of fiduciary duty due to wrongful actions committed wilfully, they would nevertheless be exculpated against direct actions, such as class actions. Shareholders could still act via derivative lawsuits, which are a more complex and less lucrative legal avenue since shareholders would bring an action in the name of the corporation and not in the name of shareholders. This could potentially dissuade shareholders from pursuing actions and entrench poorly performing officers. On balance, opposition is recommended.

REPUBLIC SERVICES INC. AGM - 19-05-2025

1a.. Re-elect Manuel Kadre - Chair (Non Executive)

Non-Executive Chair of the Board. The Chair is not considered to be independent due to a tenure of over nine years. It is a generally accepted norm of good practice that a Chair of the Board should act with a proper degree of independence from the Company's management team when exercising his or her oversight of the functioning of the Board. Being a non-independent Chair is considered to be incompatible with this. There are also concerns over the director's potential time commitments, and the director could not prove full attendance of board and committee meetings during the year.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.

12. Approve Remuneration Policy

Total variable pay could reach up to 250% of salary, and if executives achieve overperformance under the RSP (Restricted Share Plan) award, it could rise to 283% of salary, which is considered excessive as it exceeds the proposed 200% threshold. Regarding the Annual Bonus, if the maximum bonus opportunity exceeds 100% of salary, up to one-third of the total bonus earned (rather than only the portion above 100%) will be deferred into Company shares for two years; however, this is not considered adequate, and it would be preferable for 50% of the bonus to be paid in cash and 50% to be deferred into shares for at least three years. The RSP

(Restricted Share Plan) award does not incorporate any non-financial performance measures, resulting in a remuneration policy that focuses solely on financial KPIs, many of which are outside an individual executive's control, rather than linking pay to the operational performance of the business or individual contributions. Although the performance period for the RSB is three years, which is not regarded as sufficiently long-term, the subsequent two-year holding period is welcomed. It is also noted positively that malus and clawback provisions apply to all forms of variable pay.

Rating: BDB. Based on the rating an oppose vote is recommended.

17. Approve the Amendments to the Harworth 2019 Restricted Share Plan (the RSP)

The RSP is a discretionary share plan and is the principal long term incentive arrangement for Executive Directors and other members of the Harworth team. The RSP was adopted with effect from 21 May 2019 following the approval of Shareholders at the 2019 annual general meeting and subsequently amended following the approval of Shareholders at the 2022 annual general meeting. Two amendments are proposed to the RSP to reflect the new Directors' Remuneration Policy for which approval is sought as referred to in relation to Resolution 12: i) The RSP includes an individual limit on participation, which provides that no person may be granted an award (other than an award granted in connection with that person's recruitment) in respect of a financial year of the Company over shares with a market value (as determined by the Remuneration Committee) in excess of 112.5% of their base salary. To align the RSP with the new Directors' Remuneration Policy, it is proposed that this limit be increased to 133% of base salary. This amendment will enable the grant of a "core" award up to the level of 100% of salary and an "outperformance" element up to 0.33x the core award, as referred to in the statement from the Chair of the Remuneration Committee in the Directors' Remuneration Report for the year ended 31 December 2024, which can be found on pages 142 to 149 of the Annual Report and ii) Under the RSP, a participant may receive cash or additional shares based on the value of dividends paid on vested award shares over such period as the Remuneration Committee determines (beginning no earlier than the vesting date and ending no later than the date on which the award is released). In line with typical practice, the new Directors' Remuneration Policy permits the award of these dividend equivalents in respect of dividends over the vesting period, and not just over the period from vesting to release. To align the RSP with the new Directors' Remuneration Policy and in line with typical practice, it is proposed that the rules be amended to permit the award of dividend equivalents over such period as the Remuneration Committee determines (ending no later than the date on which the award is released). In line with its current practice, the Remuneration Committee's intention is that any dividend equivalents would be settled in shares, with cash settlement applied only where the particular circumstances make that appropriate.

he amendments proposed do not promote better alignment with shareholder. Moreover, PIRC does not consider that LTIPs are an effective means of incentivising performance. These schemes are not considered to be properly long term and are subject to manipulation due to their discretionary nature. Therefore, opposition is recommended.

METRO BANK HOLDINGS PLC AGM - 20-05-2025

2. Approve Remuneration Policy

The proposed changes include: i) increasing the maximum opportunity for the annual bonus to 150% of salary for executives; ii) introducing a new long-term incentive plan called the Shareholder Value Alignment Plan (SVAP); and iii) stipulating that any Executive Director participating in the SVAP will be excluded from participating in any other long-term incentive plan during the policy period. While total potential variable pay could reach 250% of salary-exceeding the recommended limit of 200% and raising concerns of excessiveness-it is acknowledged that participation in the SVAP precludes eligibility for other incentive awards. Additionally, dividends may accrue on vesting awards from the grant date, which creates a misalignment between executives and shareholders, as shareholders must purchase shares to receive dividends, whereas scheme participants are not required to do so. The Long-Term Incentive Plan (LTIP) lacks non-financial performance measures, resulting in a remuneration policy that does not adequately emphasize the operational performance of the business or the individual contributions of executives. Instead, the focus remains on financial key performance indicators, many of which lie outside the direct influence of individual directors. Malus and clawback provisions are applicable to all variable pay components.

4. Approve the Shareholder Value Alignment Plan (SVAP)

It is proposed that shareholders approve the Shareholder Value Alignment Plan (SVAP), which will be open to all employees, including Executive Directors, of the Company and its subsidiaries. No awards under the SVAP may be granted after the tenth anniversary of its shareholder approval, nor may any awards be structured to vest beyond that date. The first grants are planned for May 2025, contingent upon the participant's satisfactory conduct in the preceding year and the Company maintaining sound capital and liquidity. These prerequisites must be met for each subsequent award, though the People and Remuneration Committee may revise the criteria to ensure legal and regulatory compliance. Each SVAP award will take the form of a nil-cost option (an SVAP Option), allowing the participant to acquire shares in the Company upon vesting. Vesting is subject to performance criteria including growth from a defined market value baseline (subject to a minimum growth hurdle), a time-based vesting condition, additional performance underpins, and any other terms set at the time of grant by the Committee. Awards may cover up to 5% of the Value Pool (the "Management Pool"), with individual grants capped at 2.5%. The total number of shares issued or transferred under the SVAP-together with those under any other Company or predecessor share plan, including all-employee plans-will not exceed 10% of the Company's issued share capital over any ten-year period. SVAP Options become exercisable only once both the growth performance and time-based conditions are fulfilled, and participants must comply with holding requirements upon exercise. While increasing employee shareholding is generally viewed as a positive governance measure that enhances alignment between employees and shareholders, it is noted that executives are also beneficiaries; therefore, on balance, opposition to the proposal is recommended.

This level of non-audit fees does not raise serious concerns about the independence of the statutory auditor. The current auditor has been in place for more than five years. There are concerns that failure to regularly rotate the audit firm can compromise the independence of the auditor.

1d.. Elect D. Scott Davis - Lead Director

Lead Director, Chair of the Corporate Governance and Responsibility Committee and member of the Audit Committee. Not considered independent owing to a tenure of over nine years. It is considered that a Lead Director should be independent, in order to fulfil the responsibilities assigned to that role, irrespective of the level of independence of the Board.

In terms of best practice, it is considered that the Corporate Governance and Responsibility Committee should be comprised exclusively of independent members, including the chair.

The level of gender diversity on the board is below 33%, which does not align with best practices for diverse board representation. Given the Nomination Committee's responsibility for board composition and diversity oversight, the Chair of the Committee bears accountability for this shortfall.

At this time, individual attendance record at board and committee meetings is not disclosed. This prevents shareholders from making an informed assessment on the fulfilment of fiduciary duties and the time that directors commit to the company. It is considered that the chair of Corporate Governance and Responsibility Committee be responsible for inaction in terms of lack of disclosure.

As the Chair of the Corporate Governance and Responsibility Committee is considered to be accountable for the Company's sustainability programme, and given the concerns over the Company's sustainability policies and practice, an oppose vote is recommended.

Based on PIRC's overall assessment of the company's transition planning and climate governance capabilities, the company was rated Red, indicating that it falls significantly short of PIRC's expectations. In particular, the company has failed to set emissions targets covering all relevant emissions scopes for its long-term, climate neutrality target. As such, it is recommended to oppose the re-election of the Chair of the Corporate Governance and Responsibility Committee.

1f.. Elect Vimal Kapur - Chair & Chief Executive

Chair and CEO. Combined roles at the head of the Company. There should be a clear division of responsibilities at the head of the Company between the running of the board and the executive responsibility for the running of the Company's business. No one individual should have unfettered powers of decision. Combining the two roles in one person represents a concentration of power that is potentially detrimental to board balance, effective debate, and board appraisal.

The articles of association include provisions allowing for the convening of virtual-only meetings. The decision to remove the ability for shareholders to attend meetings in person is significant and could potentially limit shareholder engagement and transparency. Virtual-only meetings may restrict the ability of shareholders to effectively participate, ask questions, and engage with company management and the board. Shareholders should carefully consider the implications of such amendments and advocate for practices that uphold shareholder rights and promote transparency in corporate governance. We welcome the possibility of hybrid meetings as a way to increase participation and transparency, however virtual-only meetings should not be used lightly and should be restricted only to cases where in-person attendance is impossible due to public health crisis or natural disasters. Without a clear justification, we recommend opposing the Chair of the Board.
